Palace Guarded As New Revolt Flares in Cuba

U. S. Speeds More Ships to Insure Safety of Americans.

Trouble in Army Feared as President Dallies on Resignation.

Loyal troops late last night rushed to the capitol in Havana as rumors became persistent that foes of the administration were preparing to seize the government.

All Havana newspapers were shut down because of labor trouble.

Washington ordered four destroyers to proceed from the Guantanamo base to reinforce protection for Americans at troubled points.

Ships stood off Antilla, Santiago and the Isle of Pines to offer shelter to any Americans forced to leave the interior of Cuba.

Reliable reports from Tacajo said an American and a Canadian sugar mill operator were held by workers.

President Grau had made no answer to demand of his political opponents that he resign.

Students, mainstay of Grau's government, indicated they would not agree to such a step.

The government of Ramon Grau San Martin, beset by labor unrest in the east of Cuba, announced last night the rebel leader, Juan Blas Hernandez, and his followers had been surrounded.

Havana, Sept. 20 (AP).—A tank manned by Cuban soldiers rumbled up to the presidential palace tonight accompanied by extra cavalrymen, following persistent rumors that the foes of President Ramon Grau San Martin were about to strike.

Heightened tension in the capital matched an increasingly alarming situation in eastern Cuba as reports of bloodshed and strife accompanied advices that many towns were suffering from malaria.

President Grau San Martin left the palace conference room just before midnight long enough to say to newspapermen that "everything is all right! I am staying right where I am."

A mob attempted to sack the residence of Jose Emilio Obregon, former President Machado's son-in-law, in suburban Marianao. Offi-

Fight Nears On Shoe Code

Manufacturers Demand Right to Hire and Fire.

(Associated Press.)

Hope for early promulgation of a code for the boot and shoe industry received a setback yesterday as manufacturers refused to withdraw the merit clause.

Notwithstanding the administration's announced intention of barring the merit section and other additions to the labor provisions of the national recovery act from all future industrial charters, the revised code was returned with the disputed clause left intact.

Promise of controversy with the administration over the labor clause brought rapid conciliation of internal differences in the industry, which last week was sharply divided on a number of issues. Several manufacturers left Washington at the close of public hearing on the code last week with the threat they would refuse to sign any code that omitted the merit section.

Despite inclusion of the forbidden provision, the code was sent to the legal division and Labor and Industrial Advisory Boards of the NRA for approval.

It was reported last night that new efforts would be made to reconcile the industry to elimination of the merit clause in an effort to avert arbitrary action.

Feed Shortage Declared Acute

Lack on American Farms Worse Than in 1930.

(Associated Press.)

American farmers face the most serious feed shortage in many years, exceeding even scarcity caused by the widespread drought of 1930, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported yesterday after a survey of this summer's drought damage. The feed shortage this year is further complicated by sharp increases in the number of livestock for which feed is required.

The bureau estimated the total tonnage of feed grains harvested this year about 26 per cent below last year and 19 per cent under the average yearly production of the last decade.

Jurors Thanked Too Soon; 'Guilty' Was the Verdict

Robinson, Ill., Sept. 20 (AP).—The judge read a "not guilty" verdict.

Ross Vanetta, accused of assault with a deadly weapon, thanked the jurors.

The jury was surprised. The defendant grasped limp hands.

"Something's wrong, your honor," the foreman said. "We didn't vote "not guilty."

The jury had signed the wrong ballot form.

Vanetta was returned to court The jury again deliberated.

Second verdict, "guilty."

The defendant had nothing to say.

Master Retail Code Drafted; Rules Prices

Pact Affecting One Million Dealers Allows Cuts in Certain Cases.

The master retail code, with price-control provisions and affecting about 1,000,000 retailers with 5,000,000 employes, was transmitted yesterday to Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, for approval.

General retailers were forbidden, under code provisions, to sell goods at less than 10 per cent above the purchase price and druggists were forbidden to cut prices of standard, trade-marked goods more than 21 per cent below the price prescribed by the maker.

Certain exceptions were allowed for both classes of retailers.

Arthur D. Whiteside, deputy administrator, in charge of drafting the code, and representatives of the retailers urged speedy approval, although members of the consumers advisory board asked delay pending detailed study of price-control provisions.

Whiteside Disagrees.

Mr. Whiteside disagreed with objectors to the price-control provisions and said they could not be construed as price fixing.

B. H. Namm, of New York, chairman of the committee on unfair practices representing national associations of dry goods, mail order, shoe, clothiers and furnishers, hardware and furniture retailers, said price regulations were essential.

The code permits general and drug retailers to sell at lower prices during clearance sales and under certain other conditions.

Although both the President and Gen. Johnson have declared against language qualifying or interpreting collective-bargaining provisions, the boot and shoe industry submitted a revised code containing a so-called merit provision.

While the recovery law guarantees to labor the right of collective bargaining, it also protects the right of the employer to select, retain and advance employes on a basis of individual merit, the sponsors of the code said.

Strife Caused Already.

They insisted that absence of such a statement from codes already had resulted in industrial strife because workers had seen only the language depicting their rights.

Reports that Senator Robert F. Wagner, (Dem.), of New York, intended to resign as chairman of the National Labor Board were denied.

Edward F. McGrady, assistant administrator, announced Gen. Johnson would issue instructions to local compliance boards that settlement of labor disputes was not a part of their work and such matters should be referred to the labor board. Senator Wagner had called attention to danger of overlapping efforts.

Study of the working of the steel code was begun in New York yesterday by Donald R. Richberg, general NRA counsel, and Kenneth M. Simpson, deputy administrator, at a meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute.

Fascists Win Absolute Rule Over Austria

Dollfuss, Taking 5 Jobs in New Cabinet, Dumps Parties.

Major of Home Guards Shares Wide Power With Dictator.

Vienna, Sept. 21 (Thursday) (AP).—Facism triumphed in Austria today with the formation of a "cabinet of personalities" headed by Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss and Maj. Emil Fey, of the Fascist Heimwehr.

The new cabinet definitely excluded the Democratic agrarian exponent, Vice Chancellor Winkler.

Karl Vaugoin, who headed the war ministry through 16 cabinets, and was famed as "the builder of Austria's Army," also was excluded.

Five Jobs to Dollfuss.

Fey, who only a few months ago was promoted from secretary of state for public security to minister of public security, was raised to vice chancellor, replacing the ousted Winkler.

Dollfuss will hold five portfolios in the new regime—chancellor, foreign affairs minister, minister of agriculture, defense, and public security.

Burach retains the ministry of finance and Schussnigg relinquished the ministry of justice for the ministry of education.

The sensation of Vice Chancellor Winkler's defeat was overtopped by the fall of War Minister Vaugoin, who only a few hours before, acting as chairman of Dollfuss' own Christian Social party, issued a communique pledging its solid support to Dollfuss. An ultimatum previously issued by the Heimwehr was reported to have insisted on the elimination of Vaugoin.

Parties Dropped.

It was previously explained the new Dollfuss cabinet was to be formed on the basis of eliminating political parties. Mandates were to be laid down by the Parliament.

Chancellor Dollfuss starts off the new regime holding almost as many portfolios as Mussolini. A diminutive, dynastic dictator, he captured the imagination of the Old World with his fight to prevent Austro-German union.

He was little known outside his own nation until a few months ago. Last March he assumed the powers of a dictator upon the invitation of Austria's president.

Dollfuss is barely 5 feet tall and comparatively youthful. He is just past 40, married, and the father of two children.

Like President Wilhelm Miklas he is a member of the Christian Social party, which represents the Rightist view and Conservatives. His party was compelled to unite with two other groups, in order to gain the necessary power.

He has had full control of government since the indefinite adjournment of the Austrian Parliament last March.

Suddenly elevated to power, his background is little known and submerged behind a powerful personality and a flair for expression.

Fascist Flier's Body Arrives in Sicily

Officials Deck Coffin of Com. De Pinedo.

Palermo, Sicily, Sept. 20 (AP).—A vessel bearing the body of Commander Francisco de Pinedo, Italian airman killed in New York, arrived today and was boarded by officials, who placed flowers on his coffin. Black-shirt groups on shore gave the Fascist salute.

The body will be disembarked at Naples tomorrow and taken to Rome.

German Hero of War Dies of Heart Attack

Bremen, Germany, Sept. 20 (U.P.). Rear Admiral Viktor Harder, retired, died of heart attack here today.

He distinguished himself during the war and at the Battle of Jutland was commander of the German flagship Luetzon, which foundered.

Girl Seized by Chained Bear Saved by Daring Salesman

Vureada Jones, of Arcola, Va., probably owes her life to the fact that William Messink, Washington salesman, wasn't afraid to tackle a bear unarmed.

Messink, of 1515 A street southeast, was making a delivery at the Glasscock store on the Lee-Jackson highway near Arcola yesterday, when the district school bus drove up. Ten-year-old Vureada Jones stepped out.

Waving goodby to schoolmates, Vureada stepped close to a bear, chained near the road. Her horror-stricken chums saw the bear suddenly reach out and seize her with its paws and teeth.

Messink, hearing her screams, rushed at the animal.

He forced its jaws apart and Vureada scrambled to safety. Then, left to extricate himself, found he was unable to release the animal's jaws without being bitten himself. Messink wrestled with the beast several minutes. Finally he leaped free, his clothing torn, his arms and body scratched and his shoes ripped by the bear's claws.

Vureada was treated by a physician at Middleburg, who reported her bitten severely. Messink scorned treatment and went on with his deliveries.

Epidemic Hits 25,000 In Peruvian Valleys

Lima, Peru, Sept. 20 (AP).—A telegram received today from Cuzco, a Peruvian seaport, reported 25,000 persons in two inland valleys are afflicted with a marsh disease akin to malaria.

The dispatch added that 5,000 persons had died of malaria in these localities since the first of the year.

Too Noisy, Falls Church Police Charge

Harris & Ewing.

Margo Couzens Chewning, daughter of Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, who is charged with making "too much noise" in Falls Church, Va., during a traffic tie-up.

Mrs. Chewning To Face Court For Horn Honk

Noise in Falls Church Nets Ticket for Daughter of Senator.

A prolonged blast from an automobile horn.

Town Sergt. Alton Shumate, of Falls Church, Va., holding traffic at an intersection for the fire apparatus answering an alarm, sends a boy to request the motorist to cease blowing the horn because there is a fire.

The impatient lady motorist refuses to cease. Up steps a courageous [illegible] Forty-[illegible] being held for the fire equipment.

"You'll be delayed only a minute," he says. "Please quit blowing your horn."

"The idea of holding us," she says. "This is some hick town."

"It may be a hick town, but I happen to be the mayor here and also the town judge," he returned.

Nothing Startling to Her.

Unimpressed, the lady continues to express voluminous and forceful opinions of the town and its officials.

Then the sergeant comes up and orders the lady to the curb.

"You know who I am?" the lady demands.

"I don't know, and I don't care," the sergeant replies, handing her a summons to appear in the mayor's court Saturday night to answer charges of making unnecessary noise, in violation of the town ordinance.

Husband With Her.

The lady was Mrs. Margo Couzens Chewning, daughter of Senator James Couzens. She was accompanied by her husband, William Jeffries Chewning.

The summons was accepted—and on Saturday night Mrs. Chewning must face Mayor L. P. Daniel of the "hick" town, who presides as judge in said "hick" town.

P. S.—The fire proved to be near Cabin John, Md., on the other side of the river.

Rest Ordered For Roosevelt

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt was forced back to bed late yesterday when he developed a recurrence of a slight fever after a busy series of conferences duirng th day.

His physician, Lieut. Comdr. Ross T. McIntire, of the Navy, expressed no concern over the condition of Mr. Roosevelt, but when he found the fever had returned he insisted more rest be taken.

With his temperature at normal, Mr. Roosevelt resumed his duties yesterday, starting with his regular semiweekly interview with newspapermen. He took up a wide variety of subjects in talks with public leaders during the day.

Stephen T. Early, a secretary, was making no engagements for today. He hoped Mr. Roosevelt would spend the week-end on the Potomac.

D.C. Navy Yard To Hire 3,000

Doubling of Force Before June, 1934, Planned by Officials.

The Washington Navy Yard will double its personnel within a year, bringing its force from 3,600 to approximately 6,600 at the rate of 270 additional employes a month, Navy officials asserted last night.

Plans call for the hiring of 3,000 workers, including 540 already appointed, before June 30, 1934. Mechanical and technical workers are being selected by Civil Service methods.

Only in the clerical group has the saturation point been reached. One hundred additional clerks have been hired since the public works funds were made available.

The navy yard, bolstered financially by allocations from the Navy's construction fund, will handle ordnance work for practically all the new ships.

Pennsylvania Rail Head Now Will Get $60,000.

Salary of W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, has been reduced from $135,000 to $60,000 yearly.

The action was taken at Gen. Atterbury's own request, a telegram to Joseph B. Eastman, Federal railroad coordinator, said last night.

In notifying Eastman, the directors declared they "should not surrender the right to determine the compensation of its officers," but that they took this action "under existing circumstances and in deference to the wishes of its president."

Thousands to Get Jobs on $54,709,358 Military Works.

The War Department will spend $6,050,413 for immediate construction and reconditioning work at Army posts in the District of Columbia, Virginia and Maryland, as a result of allotment yesterday of $54,709,358 by the Public Works Administration for Army housing.

Employment will be furnished thousands of men, it was said. Of the allotment, $53,573,397 went for new improvements and salvage work at 32 posts, and $1,135,961 to complete work now under way at 31 posts.

The only strictly District projects benefited are Bolling Field and Army Medical Center, which received $290,400 and $53,339, respectively.

Roads to Be Built.

The Bolling Field grant will enable the War Department to build roads and make electrical connections so that the new quarters may be occupied shortly. The Medical Center grant is also to complete projects already started.

Fort Myer was alloted $345,201, which will be spent in costruction of barracks, officers' quarters, garages, a veterinary hospital, chapel, radio transmitting building and copletion of an addition to the commissary. Repairs will be made on roads, electrical system and buildings.

An allotment of $2,283,787 to Fort Humphreys will be spent in construction of officers' quarters, fire station and guard house, warehouse, children's school, enlisted men's school, barracks, bakery, garage, magazine, fuel and scale house. Repairs will be made on roads and buildings.

Some of these were made on a 30-70 basis, the Public Works Administration giving 30 per cent of the cost of labor and material, and the remaining 70 per cent being raised locally. In other cases the 70 per cent was advanced as a loan, to be repaid, with interest, at 4 per cent.

Morgenthau Acts In Soviet Trade; Recognition Near

Trade Negotiator Picked by Roosevelt to Push $50,000,000 Negotiations.

President Hinted Aiming at Accord Before Congress Meets.

HENRY MORGANTHAU, Jr., Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, who yesterday was designated by President Roosevelt to take charge of trade negotiations with Soviet Russia.

President Roosevelt took his first important step yesterday toward Russian recognition by designating Henry Morgenthau, jr., governor of the Farm Credit Administration, to take charge of new trade negotiations with the Soviet involving upwards of $50,000,000.

The Soviet Union has insisted lately that extensive trade transactions, such as are contemplated, must be accompanied by recognition.

That the Roosevelt administration would ultimately recognize Russia has long been predicted.

Swift Action Hinted.

Selection of Mr. Morgenthau is the first open move in that direction, and is believed to foreshadow action before Congress meets in January.

He is to take charge of various proposals, looking toward large Soviet purchases of cotton and other materials in this country, and presumably calling for an initial $50,000,000 credit from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

They laid the groundwork for new maturing proposals for the purchase of some 2,000,000 bales of cotton, other farm commodities, as well as heavy machinery and other industrial products.

Jones Pushes Deals.

Jesse H. Jones, Chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, for several weeks has been discussing with representatives of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, Soviet purchasing agency, sufficient credits to finance purchase of 500,000 bales of cotton and other products.

Mr. Morgenthau will now take command of all the negotiations, which contemplate far more extensive purchases.

Officials concerned in the negotiations consulted him first yesterday to obtain authority for taking up the question of credits with the R. F. C.

Price-Raising at Stake.

He was selected to be the supervisor and coordinator, not only because of his intimacy with the President but also because the

Two Identified In O'Connell Kidnap Case

Confession Reported as Police Arrest Seven Suspects.

New York, Sept. 20 (AP).—Two of a gang of seven, rounded up in a series of raids on the metropolitan area, were reported tonight to have been identified by John J. O'Connell, jr., as among the men who kidnaped him.

The five men and two women were booked on charges ranging from homicide to robbery. One was said to have admitted the O'Connell kidnaping, but police did not verify the report.

The gang also was questioned about the kidnaping and slaying of the infant son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Handcuffs Link Suspects.

O'Connell, nephew of the politically powerful O'Connell brothers, of Albany, visited police headquarters after a hurried trip from Albany with District Attorney J. J Delaney, of that city.

The youth, for whose safe return $40,000 ramson was paid, left headquarters shortly after he was said to have made the identification. He also was reported to have identified a photograph of a third of his abductors.

Admits Fatal Holdup.

Inspector Sullivan said Leonard Scarnici, one of the five men held, had admitted participating in the holdup of a bank in Rensselaer, N. Y., during which two policemen were shot, one fatally.

Scarnici, 27, and Anthony Reino, 25, were charged with robbery and homicide. Philip Ziegler, 35; Freddy Plenti, 23, and Charles Shore, 30, were booked on robbery charges.

Eleanor Scarnici, 21, and Emma Reino, 21, of Mount Kisco, were charged with acting in concert with their husbands in robberies.

A machine gun, with 100 cartridges, three double-barreled shotguns, an automatic and three loaded revolvers with 1,000 cartridges were seized.

Shot Hits Man in Eye; He Must Buy New One

East Moline, Ill., Sept. 20 (AP). T. C. Trege was shot in the eye last night, but he suffered no ill effects. The shot, fired from an air rifle, struck his artificial eye, breaking it in three places.

Report of the accident was given police today by Trege.

A.F.L. Impedes NRA, Charged

Manufacturers' Head Hits Green and Allies for Union Insistence.

(Associated Press.)

The issue between capital and labor under the NRA was drawn more sharply yesterday with a charge by Robert L. Lund, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, that "the efforts of the American Federation of Labor to secure control of labor have proven the most serious obstacle to the attainment of the objectives of the recovery act.

At the same time the St. Louis industrialist warned that William Green, federation president, and his associates "have started agitation which perhaps they will not be able to guide."

Lund made his statement in reply to one from Green that assailed the formation of company unions by some major employers.

Lund said 80 per cent of the association's members operate under either Presidential agreements or NRA codes, adding:

"Mr. Green's statement about organizations set up by workers, in cooperation with their employers, is not surprising, because he and his associates look upon these organizations as competitive to their own. Considerably more workers are in such organizations than in those under the leadership of Mr. Green and his associates. In fact, the American Federation of Labor unions include probably less than 10 per cent of the workers in the industries where they are represented."

Plan Fete for British.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 20 (AP).—Gov. Pollard, Adjt. Gen. Waller, and other State officials will be invited here October 2 to attend a luncheon at the Norfolk Country Club, in honor of officers of the British cruiser Norfolk, which will arrive here September 29 for a six-day visit to Virginia waters.

Long's 'Washroom' Medal Given Numismatic Society

New York, Sept. 20 (AP).—The gold medal commemorating that Long Island night club incident from which self-styled "Kingfish" Senator Huey P. Long, of Louisiana, emerged with a discolored eye, was presented to the American Numismatic Society today.

The medal will rest in a case adjoining that containing the emblem presented by Congress to the three captors of Maj. Andre in 1780. Owen P. White, author-plainsman, handed it to Edward T. Newell, president of the Numismatic Society.

White started the movement which raised $1,000 by subscription to cast the medal, designed by George de Zayas, and bearing on one side the inscription:

"By public acclaim for a deed done in private—Sands Point, August 26, 1933."

On the other side is depicted a fish rampant, being struck by a fist. A crown is falling from the head of the fish. The background shows a washbowl with faucets. The medal is about 2 inches across by 2½ inches in depth.

Ship's Oil Cargo Burns, Killing Man; 7 Escape

Baltimore, Sept. 20 (AP).—One man was burned to death and seven others escaped in lifeboats when fire swept through the oil-laden freighter New Berne, 9 miles below Smith Point in the Chesapeake Bay early this morning.

The boat, a 125-foot Diesel-powered craft, was bound from Norfolk to Baltimore. Capt. Ira L. Killman, who telephoned a report from Reedville, Va., said the blaze started from an explosion. "Buzz" Evans, a second engineer, was the man killed.

Kidnap Trials, Threats Hold U. S. Interest

Officials in Urschel Case Answer Gangland by Prosecuting 12.

Kidnaping trials, arrests and threats continued to occupy National attention yesterday.

At Oklahoma City a dozen suspects are on trial for abducting Charles Urschel, oil millionaire.

A man who said he was "Machine Gun" Kelly, fugitive in the Urschel case, held up two youths near Prague, Okla., took their car and left them tied to a tree.

Joseph (Red) O'Riordan, held in Los Angeles, was accused of another Detroit kidnaping today when Abe Fine, described by police as a former bootlegger, named O'Riordan, Fred (Killer) Burke and Milford Jones, since slain, as the men to whom his family paid $14,200 ransom in 1927.

The Luer kidnaping trial at Edwardsville, Ill., was featured by the State's introduction of the confession of one of the suspects.

Determined Government officials at Oklahoma City yesterday heard new gangland threats and answered by driving straight ahead with its prosecution of the dozen persons accused of the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping.

New guards were added to courtroom and corridor, more machine guns, sawed-off shotguns, rifles and pistols appeared at strategic points and families of chief figures in the prosecution moved quietly out of town or were attended more carefully in public.

"We can expect anything," said District Attorney Herbert K. Hyde. "Gangland is desparate."

The millionaire oil man completed his testimony today.

Threatened Reprisals.

Tuesday afternoon he received an air mail letter signed by George Kelly, fugitive defendant, posted in Chicago. The gangster-machine gunner threatened reprisals upon Urschel and his family if he dared to tell what happened during the nine days and nights he was held a chained captive until payment of $200,000 ransom.

District Attorney Hyde, whose 4-year-old boy has been taken out of the city because of reports the child might be kidnaped, and Urschel also received threats from Joseph B. Keenan, Assistant Attorney General assigned to wipe out crime, revealed he had noted suspicious actions near his Washington home just before going to Oklahoma City for the trial, and guards have been placed there.

After reports he had received a threatening letter from Kelly, Keenan advised the Department of Justice that only Urschel and Hyde had been threatened. However, Keenan said he had been mentioned in the letter.

Thinks Kelly in Town.

Finger prints placed as signature on the letter to Urschel were believed to be those of Kelly.

"I believe George Kelly is in town today," District Attorney Hyde declared. "It is my opinion all these letters from Kelly were conceived right here in our jails, sent to Chicago for mailing to Oklahoma City. If not in our jails, then in our city."

J. Klar, Fort Worth firearms dealer, was detained briefly after he testified he sold a machine gun to Kelly's wife for $250 after purchasing it from a Birmingham (Ala.) salesman for $125.

Arthur Seeligson, brother-in-law of Urschel, testifying yesterday afternoon, described negotiations that led to the payment of $200,000 ransom and the oil man's release.

The prosecution's story of the kidnaping of August Luer, aged Alton, Ill., banker, was unfolded to a jury at Edwardsville, Ill., yesterday in the last, of six reputed confessions by five men and a woman on trial for the abduction.

Roosevelt Hinted Near Soviet Pact

Farm Administration's price-raising program may hinge largely on the success of his efforts in arranging the financing of large exports of farm products.

The appointment is the direct outgrowth of private negotiations carried on last summer in London by former Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley and Maxim Litvinoff, who headed the Russian delegation at the economic conference.

Previous efforts of the farm board in the last administration to arrange credits for the export of cotton and other commodities broke down in disagreement over the credit terms. Responsible officials said yesterday only minor differences remain to be ironed out.

Informed opinion is that the President will formally recognize Russia upon the completion of satisfactory trade projects now envisioned and before the reconvening of Congress brings on the scene an ever-dwindling but still vociferous anti-recognition bloc.

Unofficially, it has been reported repeatedly that Mr. Roosevelt wanted to recognize the Soviet at the earliest practicable moment. It is entirely within his domain—an executive act—though Congress would thereafter be called upon to approve appointment to an ambassador and necessary appropriations.

Settlement of American claims, roughly aggregating $658,000,000, may be left to a mixed claims commission.

A committee of Southerners visited the Farm Credit Administration yesterday to urge removal of 9,000,000 bales of cotton from the market, one-third to be sold to the Soviet. Representatives of nine Southern States discussed this plan with farm credit authorities. A committee, headed by Senator Bankhead (Democrat), Alabama, and Oscar Johnson, financial adviser to the Farm Credit Administration, was sent to confer with Mr. Jones on financing loans.

Retail Code Limits Hours and Trade Practices

Stores Allowed to Pick Work Week Under Group Plan.

Among the major provisions of the general retail code now before Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson for decision are the following:

Child Labor.

No person under 16 shall be employed by any retailer, except those 14 and 15 may work not to exceed three hours a day on six days a week; or for one day a week, not to exceed eight hours.

All such hours shall be between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m., and shall not conflict with day school hours.

Where a State law prescribes a higher minimum age no person below the age specified shall be employed.

Store Work Hours.

Section 1—Provides establishments in the retail trade shall elect to operate upon one of the following schedules of hours:

Group A—Any establishment may elect to remain open for business less than 56 hours, but not less than 52 hours a week, unless its hours were less than 52 prior to June 1, 1933. In this case the establishment shall not reduce its hours. No employe shall work more than 40 hours a week, nor more than 8 hours a day, nor more than six days a week.

Group B—Any establishment may elect to remain open for business 56 hours or more a week, but less than 63 hours. No employe shall work more than 44 hours a week, nor more than 9 hours a day, nor more than six days a week.

Limit Set at 48 Hours.

Group C—Any establishment may elect to remain open for business 63 hours or more a week. No employe shall work more than 48 hours, nor more than 10 hours a day, nor more than six days per week.

No employe shall work for two or more establishments a greater number of hours, in the aggregate, than he would be permitted to work for the one which operates upon the lowest schedule of working hours.

No employes not included in the foregoing paragraphs, and not specifically excepted hereinafter, shall work more than 40 hours a week, nor more than eight hours a day, nor more than six days a week.

Posting of Schedules.

Section 2—Schedule of hours to be posted.

On or within one week after the effective date of this code every retail establishment shall designate under which of the groups it elects to operate, and shall maintain in a conspicuous place a copy showing its store hours and employe working hours.

Changes in Hours.

Section 3—Changes in store hours and employe working hours.

No establishment may change from the group in which it has elected to operate except upon December 31 of every year.

Any establishment, however, may at any time increase its store hours, provided it maintains the basic work week of the group in which it originally elected to operate.

Any establishment may, for a period not to exceed three months during the summer, temporarily reduce its store hours, but the weekly wages of its employes shall not on that account be reduced.

Maximum Hour Exceptions.

Section 4—Exceptions to maximum hours of labor include professional persons, outside salesmen, outside collectors, watchmen and store detectives.

Maintenance and outside service employes may work four hours a week in addition to the maximum hours prescribed in section 1, or more, provided they are paid at the rate of time and one-third for all hours worked over such additional four hours a week.

Executives receiving $35 or more a week in cities of over 500,000 population, or $30 or more a week in cities of 100,000 to 500,000 population, or $27.50 or more a week in cities of 25,000 to 100,000 population, or $25 or more a week in communities under 25,000 population, may work in excess of the maximum hours prescribed in section 1.

Peak Periods.

At Christmas, inventory and other peak times, for a period not to exceed two weeks in the first six months of the calendar year, and not to exceed three weeks in the second six months, an employe whose basic work week is 40 hours may work not more than 48 hours a week and nine hours a day; an employe whose basic work week is 44 hours may work not more than 52 hours and 9½ hours a day; an employe whose basic work week is 48 hours may work not more than 56 hours and 10 hours a day. All such work may be without the payment of overtime.

Limitations Defined.

Section 5—Notwithstanding any provisions of the foregoing sections, no establishment comprised of 20 workers or less, whether or not such workers are executives, proprietors, partners, or persons not receiving monetary wages, shall be permitted to exempt from all restrictions upon hours more than one worker (except professional persons, outside salesmen, collectors, watchmen and store detectives) for every five workers or fraction thereof.

No establishment of more than 20 workers shall be permitted to exempt from all restrictions upon hours of labor more than one worker (except as above), for every five for the first 20 workers, and more than one worker (except as above) for every 10 workers above 20.

Consecutive Hours.

Section 6—Hours worked by any employe during each day shall be consecutive, provided an interval not longer than an hour may be allowed for each regular meal period, and such interval not counted as part of the employe's working time. Any rest period shall not be deducted from working time.

Section 7—On one day each week employes may work one extra hour, but such hour is to be included within the maximum hours permitted each week.

Section 8—When any State law prescribes for any class of employes shorter hours of labor than those prescribed in this article, no such employes shall be employed within such State for a greater number of hours than State law allows.

Wages.

Section 1—Basic schedules of wages.

The minimum weekly rates of wages which shall be paid for a work week shall be as follows:

(a) Within cities of over 500,000 population, no employe shall be paid less than $14 a week for a 40-hour week, or less than $14.50 for a 44-hour week, or less than $15 for a 48-hour week.

(b) Within cities of from 100,000 to 500,000 population, no employe shall be paid less than $13 a week for a 40-hour week, or less than $13.50 for a 44-hour week, or less than $14 for a 48-hour week.

(c) Within cities of from 25,000 to 100,000 population, no employe shall be paid less than $12 for a 40-hour week, $12.50 for a 44-hour week, or $13 for a 48-hour week.

(d) Within cities, towns, villages from 2,500 to 25,000 population the wages of all classes of employes shall be increased from the rates existing on June 1, 1933, by not less than 20 per cent, provided this shall not require an increase in wages to more than the rate of $11 a week, and provided further that no employe shall be paid less than $10 a week.

Lowest Scale Is $10.

Within towns, villages, and other places with less than 2,500 population, the wages of all classes of employes shall be increased from the rates existing on June 1, 1933, by not less than 20 per cent, provided this shall not require an increase to more than $10 a week.

The minimum wages of professional persons, outside salesmen, outside collectors, watchmen, and store detectives shall be upon the basis of a 48-hour week. The minimum wages of maintenance and outside service employes shall be upon the basis of the basic employe work week, upon which the establishment by which they are employed, elected to operate.

Section 2—Junior employes may be paid for the first six months of their employment at the rate of $2 less a week than the minimum wage otherwise applicable; apprentice employes may be paid at the rate of $1 less than the minimum wage otherwise applicable. It is provided, however, that the number of employes classified as junior and apprentice employes combined, shall not exceed a ratio of one to every five employes or fraction thereof up to 20, and more than one such employe for every ten employes above 20.

Part-time Workers.

Section 3—Part-time employes shall be paid not less than at an hourly rate proportionate to the rate specified in section 1 of this article for the basic employe work week upon which the establishment has elected to operate.

Section 4—In the South all minimum wages specified in the foregoing sections may be at the rate of $1 less a week.

Section 5—The weekly wages of all employes receiving more than the minimum wages specified shall not be reduced, notwithstanding any reduction in the number of their working hours.

Section 6—When any State law prescribes for any class of employees of either sex a higher minimum wage than that prescribed in this article, no such employe shall be paid less than the State law requires.

Section 1—No retailer shall increase the price of any merchandise sold after the effective date of this code over the price existing June 1, 1933, by more than is made necessary for the amount of increases in production, operating, replacement and, or, invoice costs of merchandise and, or, by taxes or other costs resulting from action taken pursuant to the national industrial recovery act and, or, the agricultural adjustment act since June 1, 1933.

In setting such price increases, retailers shall give full weight to probable increases in sales volume. It is provided, however, that if any price on June 1, 1933, was a distress price, an equitable adjustment may be made.

Contract Adjustments.

Section 2—Where costs of executing contracts entered into before June 16, 1933, by any retailer for the purchase of goods at fixed prices for delivery during the duration of this code are increased by the application of the provisions of the national industrial recovery act and, or, the agricultural adjustment act, it is deemed equitable and promotive of the purposes of the act, that appropriate adjustments of such contracts to reflect such increased costs actually incurred be arrived at by mutual agreement or arbitral proceedings or otherwise, and the national retail trade council provided for in article X hereinafter is constituted an agency to assist in effecting such adjutsments.

Trade Practices.

All retailers shall comply with the following trade practices:

Section 1—Advertising and selling methods:

(A) No retailer shall use advertising, whether printed, radio or display, or any other nature, which is inaccurate or misrepresents merchandise, or credit terms, values, policies or services; and no retailer shall use selling methods which tend to deceive or mislead the customer.

(B) No retailer shall use advertising which refers inaccurately to any competitor or his merchandise, prices, credit terms, policies or services.

(C) No retailer shall use advertising which lays claim to a policy or continuing practice of generally underselling competitors.

(D) No retailer shall secretly give anything of value to the employe or agent of a customer for the purpose of influencing a sale, or in furtherance of a sale render a bill or statement of account to the employe, agent or customer which is inaccurate in any material particular.

NRA Label.

Section 2—No retailer shall purchase, sell or exchange any merchandise manufactured under a code of fair competition, which requires such merchandise to bear an NRA label, unless said merchandise bears such label.

Any retailer rightfully possessing the Blue Eagle insignia who has in stock or purchases similar merchandise which has been manufactured before the effective date of the code of fair competition requiring such merchandise to bear an NRA label may attach thereto a Blue Eagle label.

Company Scrip.

Section 3—No retailer shall accept as payment for merchandise any nonnegotiable scrip, company checks or other evidence of wage payment issued by any individual or private, noncharitable organization in payment of wages or as an advance upon unearned wages.

Stop-Loss Provision.

Section 1.—In order to check predatory price cutting and minimize retail operating losses therefrom, and to assure retailers shall be at least partially compensated for service to consumers, no retailer shall sell, exchange or give away any merchandise, except as provided hereafter, below a minimum price which shall be the wholesale delivered price with the addition of 10 per cent.

"Wholesale delivered prices" means the lowest gross billing price, as of any date within 30 days prior to the date of resale, made to any retailer in the given market area less only such discounts as are extended to all retailers and plus delivery costs paid by the retailer.

Exceptions Defined.

Section 2—Exceptions. Notwithstanding provisions of the preceding section, any retailer may sell at less than the prices specified above, merchandise sold at a bona fide clearance, if advertised, marked and sold as such; highly perishable merchandise, which must be promptly sold in order to forestall loss; imperfect or damaged merchandise advertised, marked and sold as such; bona fide discontinued lines of merchandise advertised, and sold as such; merchandise sold upon the final liquidation of any business; merchandise sold in quantity on contract, not for resale and not for redistribution to individuals; and merchandise sold or donated for charitable purposes or unemployment relief agencies.

A negotiable instrument issued by any individual or private, noncharitable organization in payment of wages shall be accepted only if it is payable in cash within one month of the date of issue.

This paragraph shall not apply in cases where the cash funds of any individual or organization are rendered temporarily unavailable due to the closing by State or Federal order of the bank in which such funds are deposited.

Prison-Made Goods.

Sec. 4. No retailer shall buy or cotnract to buy any merchandise produced in whole or in part in any penal or reformatory institution or by the inmates thereof. After May 31, 1934, no retailer shall sell or offer for sale such merchandise. Nothing in this section, however, shall effect contracts made with respect to such merchandise before the approval of this code by the President of the United States.

Meat Packers' Code Rejected

Provides No Assurances for Producers or Consumers.

(Associated Press.)

Officials of the Agricultural Adjustment administration have decided to reject the proposed marketing agreement submitted by meat packers and are writing a new one demanding accounts and records be made accessible to Secretary Wallace.

Members of the administration in the interest of consumers decided that the proposed agreement provided no assurance of better prices to live-stock producers and lacked assurance against higher prices for consumers.

Must Open Accounts.

Investigators, under the direction of Dr. Fred C. Howe, the consumers' counsel, recommended that no agreement be approved releasing packers from antitrust laws unless their accounts were opened to official inspection.

The proposed agreement was criticized as lacking "specific indication of what the industry wishes to accomplish and does not provide the secretary may have access to accounts and records.

Past Record Bad.

"It would appear most desirable for the public welfare that the marketing agreement now proposed by the meat-packing industry be considered in the light of the industry's public record."

The agreement submitted by the institute on behalf of its member-packers, who control a majority of live-stock processing plants, called for establishment of a committee of four, which would have broad powers in dealing with the industry, and particularly in allocating supplies of live stock among packers.

Consideration is being given to a proposal that a representative of consumers be a member of the governing group.

Grosner Hopes Code Will End Unfair Dealing

Head of Retail Clothiers Says Success Depends on Ethical Sales.

Gerald Grosner, president of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers, stated last night that a million retailers are looking with hopeful eyes toward the code of fair competition submitted to the NRA.

"Success or disaster of the code depends a great deal upon the manner in which the fair practices regulations are worked out," Mr. Grosner said.

"If they are going to nullify the fair practices part of the code—and the word 'inaccurate' inserted in the code tends to nullify the benefits obtained from fair practices—then there is no saying what will happen.

"The only way to get complete success for the code is to eliminate unfair practices that are eating into the very vitals of business."

Mr. Grosner said there are 1,000,000 retailers, employing more than 5,000,000 persons, in nine different retail trades back of the code. Only the drug and grocery stores have not yet joined with the dry goods people, furniture, hardware, men's clothing, variety stores, shoes, clothing and two other major divisions. Nine national associations are represented as signatories to the code.

Last year, according to a survey, retailers had an average loss exceeding 5 cents on every dollar of business transacted, and the total net loss approached $1,000,000,000, he said.

Ralph Leo Hayes Becomes Bishop

Consecration Rites to Be Today at Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Sept. 20 (AP).—Attended by 541 priests and 25 bishops and archbishops, the Rev. Ralph Leo Hayes will be consecrated a bishop in the Catholic Church tomorrow—his forty-ninth birthday.

Father Hayes, pastor of St. Catherine's Church, and remembered by old residents of Pittsburgh's West End as "a barefoot boy who wanted to be a big-league ball player," has been designated by the Pope for the episcopate at Helena, Mont.

Bishop Hugh C. Boyle, of the Pittsburgh Diocese, will officiate, assisted by Bishop James A. Griffin, Springfield, Ill., and Bishop Alphons J. Smith, Nashville, Tenn.

Dance Pupils Score Anew in '33 Revue

The 1933 revue by the pupils of Anna T. Mitchell School of Dancing, offering a variety of dancing and acting, was repeated last night at the Wardman Park Theater.

Toe, tap, chorus, comedy and acrobatic dancing numbers in a variety of settings were presented in accomplished manner by the thoroughly coached young performers.

The "Babies," led by Mary Margaret Mull, again scored with the large and appreciative audience.

Emily and John Phelan also were popular in a group of interpretative numbers. Earle and Billy Martyn received warm applause for their "Organ Grinder" number.

As a concluding feature, Miss Mitchell gave several delightful interpretative numbers.

Tough Life

Zook Urges NRA Exempt Students Working Way.

(Associated Press.)

Exemption from NRA wage and hour requirements is recommended for college students working their way by Dr. George F. Zook, Commissioner of Education.

Such an exemption by recovery chieftains, Zook told the National board of the Parent-Teachers Associations, would be a "humanitarian step for education."

The commissioner explained that NRA requirements would make college courses "much more difficult for thousands of students who need to work."

Printing Code Hearings Have Rough Sailing

Child Labor, Exceptions and Higher Expenses Among Obstacles.

(Associated Press.)

Fear was expressed yesterday to the NRA that employers in the commercial printing industry are about to nullify President Roosevelt's recently expressed gratification at the outlawing of child labor by code.

This statement was made by Miss Lucy R. Mason as the NRA neared the end of hearings on more than 20 codes submitted to cover many branches of commercial printing.

Attacking the agreement presented by the National Editorial Association for the graphic arts industries, including nonmetropolitan newspapers and periodicals, Miss Mason, representing the National Consumers League, said:

"Under no circumstances should a clause permitting boys and girls under 16, without limitations as to age, hours of work or night work, be allowed."

From Many Branches.

Still hoping for a single code to cover the entire commercial printing industry, Lindsay Rogers, deputy NRA administrator, called into conference representatives of the many branches of the trade and asked them to try to agree.

Guy L. Harrington, representing the National Publishers Association, declared:

"Paper and printing represent 73 per cent of our total production cost," he testified. "A reduction of the work week in commercial plants two hours would mean a 10 per cent or more increase in our cost. A cut to 36 hours would mean 15 to 19 per cent."

Other Protests Made.

A number of representatives of church, school and State publications objected to provisions in the code which would forbid such printing establishments to compete with others.

William N. Hardy, for Pennsylvania, said the proposed commercial printing code would "crush out of existence many weekly and semi-weekly newspapers in my State."

He suggested that newspapers be put under a separate newspaper charter with divisions to regulate daily, weekly, and semiweekly newspapers.

Ickes Declines Job of Guiding Coal Industry

Burden of Duty Already Big Enough, He Tells Roosevelt.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Ickes, already charged with supervising the public works program and the oil industry, has declined an informal invitation from President Roosevelt to become administrator of the bituminous coal code.

In competent circles it was said that the President had told Ickes he would be pleased to have him accept administrative powers over soft coal.

Roosevelt was described as reminding Ickes of his many other duties and suggesting the new burden might be too mush. Ickes agreed that would be the case.

NRA officials continued yesterday with the task of settling basic minimum rates for Alabama and Western Kentucky coal regions—the only basic rates not yet included in the bituminous code.

Western Kentucky operators conferred with P. H. Pierce, the NRA technical advisor on coal, and planned to confer today with Donald Richberg, NRA counsel.

They opposed the proposed $3.84 basic daily rate for that region, which is considerably below the rate northern operators asserted should be set for Western Kentucky.

Most of the Alabama operators, who left for home yesterday, took with them blanks for signing the code. An Alabama representative will continue negotiations.

Should no agreement be reached, the President may prescribe the basic rates any time up to October 2, when the code will go in effect.

Other operators, all code signatories, were negotiating today with the United Mine Workers on tonnage rates and other details of applying basic rates to the mines.

Special Postage Stamp To Honor Byrd Trip

(Associated Press.)

Postmaster General Farley yesterday said that a commemorative postage stamp will be issued in honor of Admiral Byrd's second trip to the Antarctic, which is to start next week.

Farley also said the design of the Graf Zeppelin 50-cent stamp to commemorate the October trip from Germany to Chicago by way of Rio de Janeiro had been tentatively approved.

'Honest John' Lewis, Head Of Largest Union, Once Miner

Strife Marks Advance to Highest Power Under Coal Code.

(United Press.)

Back in the '90's a sturdy coal miner, blacklisted because of union activities, led his family from a small Iowa town in search of free speech and a job.

Today, one of the sons of the miner heads the largest and most powerful union in the world. He is John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

The short, squatty mine leader rose to power after spending 17 years of his youth and early manhood in coal, copper and gold mines.

He has just emerged victorious from one of the most important battles of his career—the coal code fight which he expects to unionize almost the entire bituminous coal industry. Yet he will not consider lucrative offers to leave the mine union leadership.

"Always a Miner."

"Once a miner, always a miner," he explains.

The man who will rule over the industrial lives of more than 500,000 men often turns to the philosophy of old masters for solution of labor problems.

He quotes easily from the classics but his speech is filled with words of action. To all he is known as "Honest John" Lewis.

The story of the union he heads is one of 43 years of strife. More than 1,000 workers have given up their lives in its defense since a small group met in Columbus, Ohio, in 1890 to pioneer the movement.

Bids for Recognition.

In the anthracite strike of 1902, the union made its first bid for recognition. Months passed with the operators adamant. Miners' wives and families moved about, faces gaunt, in ragged clothing, their huts cold.

Finally President Theodore Roosevelt intervened. He created the Anthracite Coal Commission which laid down a code for the industry. The anthracite board of conciliation, named subsequently, still is functioning.

In 1920 the union reached its peak of strength, with 557,000 workers in good standing. A strike in 1922 and another in 1924 followed the miners' demands for $7.50 a day.

Operators Start "Open Shop."

Subsequently, operators inaugurated an "open shop" program. Miners were forced to accept operators' terms to support families. The union weakened until this year.

Then it became apparent the Government would be forced to intervene to bring peace to the coal industry.

Now, after the fiercest fight the NRA has yet produced, the industry is under a code of fair competition. The $12,500 a year president of the union has protected every interest of his men. As the long negotiations ended, he said:

"We shall do everything to cooperate to make the agreement effective."

British Hurry Arms Dealings, Fearing Crisis

London Sees Japan and U. S. Drawing England Into Navy Race.

London, Sept. 20 (AP).—The British cabinet was understood to have reached the conclusion today that a disarmament agreement was imperative for Europe and the world, and that failure to reach an agreement would have reactions of an alarming character.

The cabinet held a long session, considering French disarmament proposals as outlined earlier this week at Paris to Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign office undersecretary.

In diplomatic quarters it was said the cabinet did not view the arms situation with too rosy spectacles, but that Premier Ramsay MacDonald and his colleagues were determined a disarmament pact of some sort should be achieved at the forthcoming Geneva conference.

U. S. Navy Plans Hit.

It was understood that the British government informed Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large, upon his recent visit that Great Britain feared a bad impression might be created on other countries by America's naval building program.

Authoritatively this explanation was given as the reason for reports from the American Capital that deferment of the construction program had been requested of the United States by Great Britain.

Davis, it was understood, was told England has no worries concerning the American program, but that Great Britain might be worried should a naval race develop between the United States and Japan. England might be forced to participate, it was said.

Italy May Hold Stage.

Sir John Simon and Capt. Eden will stop at Paris for conversations en route to Germany.

It was said Italy is the possible keystone in the disarmament conversations, because of its purported influence with Germany.

The British delegates at Geneva, it is said, will try to ascertain whether a rapprochement between France and Italy is likely to lead to the revision of the British view on disarmament.

Political circles held the view that a rapprochement between France and Italy could not take place without some knowledge of the German view.

U. S. to Build.

The American position regarding arms supervision was understood to have entered the big discussion.

(President Roosevelt made it clear today the United States intends to build the navy up to treaty limits. Roosevelt has received no suggestions for curtailment of the building program, it was said at the White House, although other Government quarters may have received such a plan.)

Dairy Farmers Protest Prices

250 Montgomery County Producers Name Group to Study Situation.

Methods to obtain a better price for dairy products will be studied by a committee appointed last night by 250 Montgomery County dairy farmers at a meeting in the Rockville courthouse.

Testimony before the Senate Milk Investigating Committee disclosed the dairymen were receiving less than production costs for milk.

The committee will study the workings of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Associattion to determine whether it is conducted for the benefit of the producer.

The committee is composed of Thomas M. Anderson, Douglas B. Diamond, Dr. Upton D. Nourse, Dr. Herman Ladson and Thomas M. Garrett. Assisting them will be James D. King, Vinson Peter, Malcolm White and Lester Sabine, directors of the producers association.

Lumbermen Plan Code Price Fixing

Johnson Deputy Warns Them Not to "Go Wild."

Chicago, Sept. 20 (AP).—Hardwood lumbermen prepared to write cost and price provisions of their NRA code today with advice from Thomas Glasgow, deputy administrator, not to "go wild."

The lumbermen opened a meeting in which they propose to study the effect of the lumber code, in effect since August 29. From Chicago they will move to Washington, where they expect to ask permission to add "cost protection" clauses to their rules.

U. S. Steel's Rail Line Under Fire

Federal Action to Break Ownership Set.

Chicago, Sept. 20 (AP).—An attempt of the Interstate Commerce Commission to force the United States Steel Corporation to divest itself of its railway interests will be given a hearing in the Federal District Court here next January 8.

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward fixed the date today for hearing the Commerce Commission's petition to compel the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern Railway to cease shipping products of U. S. Steel.

The steel company owns the railroad.

40 Persons Arrested.

More than 40 persons were arrested after the Marianao shooting.

The tank, drawn up at the rear door of the palace, remained there as midnight approached.

Soldiers lay on the grass near the tank, ready to man their posts on an instant's notice. Cavalrymen, in pairs, patrolled the streets in a radius of two blocks from the palace.

Sanitary functions virtually have been abandoned in many places since the recent hurricane.

Open Revolt Denied.

Inquiries met denials that plans were afoot for open revolt in the capital, but palace guards were reinforced and soldiers hustled about inside the building, while machine guns were ready for installation outside.

Rumors persist that trouble was expected within the ranks of the army, with possible aid from civilian antigovernment forces.

Meanwhile, soldiers around the National Hotel made ready for action. The top floor and roof of an apartment house on Twenty-third street, across the street from the "fortress" of 500 army officers, was lined with machine guns and the residents were moved out. Motor traffic was diverted from the neighborhood.

Strike Hits Newspapers.

In addition, the city faced the prospect of being without newspapers tomorrow. Linotype men, printers, engravers and reporters of Havana publications met and voted to strike, protesting a "lockout," which they said was threatened by proprietors if they insisted on a minimum wage scale recently adopted by unions.

A palace announcement said government troops had surrounded the rebel leader, Juan Blas Hernandez, and his followers on a ranch known as Palinche in Camaguey Province.

Private, but reliable advices from Tacajo, near Antilla on the north coast of Oriente Province, said two foreign managers of a sugar mill, an American and a Canadian, were held by workers who seized the mill a week ago.

Cienfuegos was said in reports from the interior to be a heavy sufferer from the malarial outbreak.

Sixth Threatened.

Reports from Tacajo said the workers, armed with machine guns, rifles and revolvers, thwarted an attempt by soldiers to liberate the two foreigners. They were said to have told military leaders that if annoyance of the workers is continued the bodies of the American and the Canadian would be delivered "over the fence."

Santiago witnessed bloodshed when soldiers and students fired on a Communist demonstration. Four persons were wounded, including a woman and two children who were bystanders.

Rebel Report Denied.

Reports from Gibara on the noth coast of Oriente Province contradicted rumors in Havana that Maj. Lico Balan, leader of a revolution against Machado in 1931, was in arms against the Grau government.

All of the 12 Americans who were virtual prisoners of striking workers at the Manganese mines at Cristo, near Santiago, have been removed safely.

U. S. Warns Americans.

(Associated Press.)

Spreading trouble in the interior of Cuba last night caused the Navy to strengthen its cordon of ships near the affected points and brought advice from the State Department for Americans to move closer to the vessels' protecting guns if endangered.

On advice of United States consuls, some Americans were known to have moved within easier range of warships.

Secretary Hull disclosed that some Americans in the interior were held virtually prisoners. He recited grave consular reports of mob violence, Communist demonstrations and spreading strikes to the east of Havana.

The ship movements ordered by the Navy were interpreted by observers as indicating that conditions were considered more serious than at any previous time. Where eight warships were anchored at the Guantanamo Naval Base two days ago only two remained tonight.

Police Radio Cruiser on Fire From Shortage.

The police radio dispatcher couldn't send police cruiser No. 41 to the fire in the Fourth Precinct last night, because it was already there. In fact, No. 41 had the fire right with it—under its hood.

A short-circuit caused the trouble. Firemen responding to the call found Policeman R. C. Redding, cruiser driver, putting the fire out himself. Damage was small.

Dollar Studied As Inflation Clamor Grows

Warren Tells Roosevelt Results of Monetary Study in Europe.

(Associated Press.)

Amid the clamor for inflation, President Roosevelt gave consideration to the problem yesterday in a long talk with Dr. George Warren, of Cornell, who has made a study of the European monetary situation for the President.

For several hours the economist talked over the question with Mr. Roosevelt and gave him the results of his study.

No official word came from their discussions, but the meeting revived reports about the Capital that Warren was working out plans for a commodity dollar.

Proposal Explained.

The commodity dollar is one whose buying power with relation to commodities would remain constant, but whose ratio to gold prices would rise and fall with the commodity price index.

With the study the President was giving the dollar, the general expansion program of the administration moved forward on a wide front.

Coupled with plans for pushing money into circulation through public building projects, broadening credit to farmers, home owners and business houses, new efforts were directed toward disposal of farm surpluses to bring agricultural prices into line with those of goods the farmer buys.

Coincidentally to the visit of cotton delegates from nine Southern States, it was disclosed Russia had offered to buy three million bales of cotton and a quantity of fats and oils if the necessary credits could be arranged.

Plan Wheat Exports.

Plans already are under way for exporting wheat from the Pacific Coast and for turning excess meats and milk into relief channels. These plans are in addition to the acreage reducing campaigns under way.

While the administration kept utter silence on inflation, Senator Thomas, (Democrat), Oklahoma, in a statement, asserted the President was gradually bringing about expansion but "would not even dare to admit it."

Thomas said President Roosevelt did not wish to say anything on the subject because "if he even hinted it, commodity prices would jump too fast and too high before the money is distributed among the people."

Time Near, He Says.

"When all these codes are signed under the NRA and millions of people are returned to work, the President will be free openly to concede inflation," Thomas explained. "That time is approaching rapidly."

Thomas gave his views soon after President Roosevelt had sent word to him and others of a delegation from the Southern States urging inflation that he would receive them tomorrow.

The cotton group took to the White House yesterday a demand for inflation and other moves to aid the cotton grower, but Mr. Roosevelt was unable to see them because of his cold.

Thomas said there was no necessity for the committee to wait to see President Roosevelt.

Carolina Tobacco Men Come Here for Hearing

(United Press.)

More than a score of North Carolina tobacco farmers and warehouse men, led by Gov. Ehringhaus, held a secret meeting here last night to map their program for a hearing today on the proposed tobacco marketing agreement.

Gov. Ehringhaus said 90 per cent of tobacco growers in the flue-cured area, including both Carolinas, Georgia and Virginia, had signed Government contracts to reduce their acreage up to 30 per cent.

Reichstag Fire Trial Starts; Five Accused

Communists Face Death as London Court Blames Nazis.

Leipzig, Germany, Sept. 20 (U.P.). Five men start a fight for their lives tomorrow when their trial opens on charges of attempting to burn the Reichstag in Berlin on February 27.

Meanwhile, a verdict implicating Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Prussian premier, and Nazi officials, was made public in London by the International Commission of Jurists, who conducted an inquiry into the fire.

The men on trial here are Ernst Torgler, 40, for years Communist whip for the Red party in Germany; Martinus Van Der Lubbe, 24, stone mason; George Dimitroff, 31, writer; Blagoi Popoff, 31, student, and Wassil Taneff, 36, cobbler.

Admit Being Communists.

Dimitroff, Popoff and Taneff are Bulgarians. Like Torgler, they admit being Communists, but deny connection with the fire, which Nazi authorities charge, was Communist-inspired.

The international interest in their trial was indicated by the fact that tonight there were 122 newspaper correspondents here.

The "sixth defendant," namely Communism, was expected to draw attention.

Premier Suspicioned.

The International Commission, in a 36-page "verdict," acquitted Torgler and the three Bulgarians. The jurists, who included Arthur Garfield Hays, New York, concluded that Van Der Lubbe, a Dutchman, who confessed participation in the plot and who, it is claimed, was caught setting fire to the building, did not act alone.

The "verdict," the commission said "cast suspicion on Premier Goering and other Hitlerites as perpetrators of the fire.

The commission said "Van Der Lubbe is not a member but an opponent of the Communist party. No connection whatever could be traced between the Communist party and the Reichstag fire."

Farm Group Asks Wallace Ouster

Iowa Petitions Demand Inflation Quickly.

Des Moines, Sept. 20 (AP).—Petitions circulated today at the opening convention of the Iowa Farmers Union demanded "the immediate resignation of Henry A. Wallace as Secretary of Agriculture," and asked immediate inflation of currency and prices which will give the farmers cost of production for their goods.

J. S. Stamps, of Seymour, accused the Iowa Democratic administration of trading the support of the various farm organizations of the State with the result that "they have lost 100,000 votes in the trade."

The question of another farm strike, similar to the one two years ago, is expected to be taken up by the executive board Friday.

Nominations for the NRA compliance board in Prince Georges County will be submitted at a meeting next Monday night at the Hyattsville office of H. Winship Wheatley, jr., county campaign general.

Comprising the board, to check reported violations of the President's reemployment agreement, will be two employers, one wholesale and one retail; two employes, one wholesale and one retail; a consumer and an attorney, to act as chairman.

Wheatley announced that upon request from the southern section of the county the drive for employers signatures will be continued until next Monday.

U. S. to Fulfill Naval Program Despite Pleas

White House Makes Clear Geneva Arms Meet Will Not Affect Plans.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt let it be known yesterday that, whether or not any suggestions to the contrary are received from abroad, the United States intends to press to the limit its $238,000,000 naval construction program.

With the disarmament conference set to convene next Monday at Geneva, word came from the White House that since contracts had been let for the 32-ship program, it would proceed as scheduled.

Dispatches from London yesterday told of information conveyed by British statesmen to Norman H. Davis, American Ambassador at large, that completing the program might make a bad impression on the Geneva meeting.

Class B Uppermost.

It is believed if any definite suggestion is made by Great Britain to this country, it will concern the building of the four Class B, 6-inch gun cruisers provided.

The ships are the first to be contracted for at the 10,000-ton displacement maximum set for vessels of this type under the London Naval Treaty.

Great Britain in past naval discussions has held out for smaller cruisers within class B, contending the maximum displacement should be dropped to 7,500 tons.

Larger Ships Insisted.

The United States' contention has been for larger cruisers which can operate as self-contained units over a greater distance from any naval base.

Naval matters are not scheduled to play as important a part at the Geneva parley as are other armament questions.

Efforts are scheduled for the meeting, however, to bring both France and Italy under the London Treaty terms as they now apply to the United States, Great Britain and Japan. Machinery also is to be set up in preparation for the 1933 naval conference.

Protest Urged On Drug Code

10 Per Cent Differential Is Held Menace to Independents.

Chicago, Sept. 20 (AP).—Wheeler Sammons, of New York, urged retail druggists' convention today to protest to President Roosevelt the retail drug code's provision that the drug-store price differential be limited to 10 per cent.

Sammons, managing director of the Drug Institute of America, Inc., told the association's annual convention that a 10 per cent minimum would drive most independent drug stores out of business.

The convention made plans for druggists to conduct a national "safety first through first-aid" week by an advertising campaign.

Miss Molyneaux said the wedding would take place next June and that they will make their home in Cleveland. Mr. Kennedy is a native of Pittsburgh. Miss Molyneaux was born in Washington.

Roper Names Two Federal Ship Advisers

General Saltzman and T. M. Woodward Aid Admiral Cone.

Selection of two Washington men, Maj. Gen. Charles McK. Saltzman, retired, and Thomas M. Woodward, attorney, as vice-presidents of the Merchants Fleet Corporation, was announced last night by Secretary of Commerce Roper.

They will serve with Admiral H. I. Cone, former Shipping Board chairman, on a special advisory board set up yesterday to consult with Roper on Shipping Board functions taken over by the Commerce Department.

The new advisory board will succeed a temporary committee appointed at the time the Shipping Board was made a Commerce Department division.

Sanctioned by Roosevelt.

The change was announced as "a further step in completing the reorganization of the former Shipping Board," and followed a White House conference, at which Roper outlined his plans to the President.

Gen. Saltzman, a resident of Washington at intervals since 1908, retired from the Army in 1928, and from 1929 to 1932 was a member of the Federal Radio Commission. He has been working in close cooperation with the Commerce Department since March, undertaking reorganization studies for the Secretary.

Woodward, who has practiced law in this city since 1918, has spent several years in Interstate Commerce Commission rate work. Recently he served with the Agriculture Adjustment Administration as deputy administrator in several important hearings.

No Word On Reductions.

Admiral Cone, retired from the Navy in 1922, was a member of the Shipping Board from 1928, and previously served with the Fleet Corporation.

Gen. Saltzman and Mr. Woodward take places on the permanent advisory board formerly held on the temporary advisory committee by Capt. David D. Todd and Capt. Gatewood S. Lincoln, both former members of the Shipping Board.

Secretary Roper made no reference to proposed reductions in the Shipping Board Division's force other than to say the department "has endeavored to pursue a policy of creating as little disturbance and change as possible in personnel, administrative methods and otherwise, in order to carry on with the greatest convenience to those having dealings with the Shipping Board."

'Shoot, Be Damned' Veteran Seeks Job With Henry Ford

First American Soldier Captured by Germans in Need of Work.

Detroit, Sept. 20 (AP).—Sergt. Edgar M. Halyburton, first American captured in the World War, applied today for one of the 5,000 jobs the Ford Motor Co., is offering to ex-service men.

Halyburton, the inspiration for the "captured but not conquered" third Liberty Loan posters, wants work.

"I want a chance to work," Halyburton told Rex Humphrey, commander of the Wayne County Council of the American Legion.

It was November, 1917, that Sergt. Halyburton stood at bay before his captors, fists clenched, and shouted "shoot and be damned."

A hidden German camera caught his defiance, and the picture later was smuggled into the United States. From it Cyrus E. Dallin chiseled a statue with the words on the base, "Captured, but not conquered." It was portrayed on the Third Liberty Loan posters.

Halyburton explained closing of Detroit's national banks last winter caused failure of his barber shop.

Halbert's Pay Raise Is Fought

Head of Federal Relief Opposes $600 Increase for D. C. Director.

Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Emergency Relief administration, will not stand for recent increase in salary of Leroy A. Halbert, District relief director, from $4,400 to $5,000 per year, it was learned last night.

Although Hopkins primarily is interested in the raise in Halbert's salary, he said recent increase to all District relief workers would be held up until he makes an investigation.

Many salary increases were to lower paid employes, many of whom received less than $1,000 per year. Hopkins said he was less interested in these raises than in Halbert's $600.

The increases were made without authority of Hopkins or his field worker, Alan Johnstone, but were approved by George S. Wilson, director of the Board of Public Welfare.

Hopkins asked Wilson if the pay increases come from Federal funds and was told they do.

With the increase of $14,822 per year for 98 employes there was a cut of $5,767 a year for 27 others. Hopkins' action may mean restoration of the salaries of the 27.

State Troopers on Guard at Pittsburgh Prison.

Pittsburgh, Sept. 20 (AP).—Learning of a plot for a wholesale jail break, Warden Stanley M. Ashe, of Western Penitentiary, called 20 State troopers into the prison today.

The State police brought their carbines, but as they patrolled cell blocks in full view of the prisoners they were armed only with pistols and tear gas bombs.

The warden said he was warned of the break, which was to have started in the dining hall, through "grapevine telegraph."

Legion Drops Plan to Fight Bonus Cuts

Veteran Organizations to Center Attack on Pension Relief.

Veterans' organizations, including the American Legion and the Disabled American Veterans, are dropping the cash bonus idea, it was indicated last night.

Marking reversal in veteran demands, former service organizations will concentrate on restoration of cuts under the economy act at the next Congress. Even Representative Wright Patman (Democrat), Texas, was revealed as favoring relief for service-connected cases in preference to cash bonus.

Although the American Legion will not hold its national convention for two weeks, a review of resolutions adopted by State conventions point to lack of interest in bonus agitation. Only five State legion conclaves voted for bonus payment.

Repeal Economy Act.

National assemblage actions are forecast by the State convention attitudes.

Meanwhile, Veterans of Foreign Wars issued a call for all veterans groups to unite with it in seeking repeal of the entire economy act. It appeared doubtful that other veteran organizations would respond to the V. F. W. plea. James E. Van Zandt, commander of the V. F. W., has invited heads of veteran groups to a conference October 16 to map a drive against the economy act.

American Legion officials last night said their organization "would fly its own flag," and indicated it would not join in fighting for blanket repeal of the economy act. The legion four-point program endorsed by most State bodies, centers on restoration of full benefits to service-connected cases.

Protection First.

Preference for legislation to protect service-connected cases rather than authorization of bonuses has been expressed by the Disabled American Veterans.

The attitude of Representative Patman, one of the most aggressive veteran leaders in Congress, was made known in a letter to D. A. V. officials. "Hearty accord" with the D. A. V. position of deferring bonus demands for service-connected benefits was expressed by the Texas representative, Capt. J. W. McQueen, national D. A. V. commander, said.

Prisoner, Picked Up by Chance, Confesses to Separate Slayings.

Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 20 (AP).—Louis K. Neu, 38, of Savannah, Ga., sought by Paterson and New Orleans police in connection with two separate slayings, was picked up by chance here today, and after questioning confessed to both slayings.

Later, Capt. Brady said Neu signed a written confession detailing how he killed Lawrence N. Shead, Paterson theater manager and native of Norman, Okla., and Shefield Clark, wealthy Nashville, Tenn., business man.

Shead was found dead in his apartment September 10. He had been beaten and robbed.

Clark met his end in a New Orleans hotel last Sunday night.

Capt. Brady said that Neu was wearing a watch, identified as having belonged to the theater manager.

The car which Neu was driving when he was arrested belonged to Clark, Capt. Brady said.

75,000 Watch Boys in Blue March Again

Parade Is Chief Feature of Annual Reunion at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 20 (AP).—Union veterans of the Civil War were tired but happy tonight.

They had marched again—through St. Paul's downtown district—mustering their thinning ranks for one more parade of the Grand Army of the Republic.

It was the high point of the sixty-seventh annual reunion for some 270 boys in blue who, despite failing strength, trod the pavements before a crowd estimated at 75,000 by Col. F. G. Stutz, parade marshall.

Commander in Chief Russell C. Martin, Los Angeles, other National G. A. R. officers and Gov. Floyd B. Olson reviewed State department units.

Commander in Chief Martin today accused the Government of "using every effort to increase prices, but decreasing the amount of the pensions."

B. F. Stow, Des Moines, was elected president of the National Association of Civil War Musicians and Sons of Union Veterans.

Other officers included:

I. L. Haskins, Uhrichsville, Ohio; A. O. Williams, Toledo, and M. D. Hartshone, Newark, Ohio, vice presidents; George Redmon, Peru, Ind., fife major; T. M. Kellogg, Portland, Oreg., fife sergeant; D. W. Edgar, Edmonds, Wash., drum major; George Olinger, Elkhart, Ind., drum sergeant; L. Cummings, Dayton, Ohio, national bugler; William Stafford, Auburn, Ind., national color-bearer.

Action Nearing On Patronage

Cummings to Pick U. S. Attorneys for Virginia Within Week.

The Virginia patronage situation will be cleared within a week, it was learned yesterday from an authoritative source.

A appointment of U. S. Attorneys for the State now rests in the hands of Attorney General Cummings. Names of candidates backed by Democratic leaders were sent to him for approval.

Democratic leaders have approved one man, but considerable pressure is being brought to bear in favor of another candidate for collection of customs. This appointment is expected to be made, however, within the week.

It was learned that diplomatic slate is completed. No further appointments are expected, and any changes will be routine ones not connected with the Democratic house cleaning. This means that all political diplomates still holding on may expect to keep their places indefinitely, it was hinted.

Berlin, Sept. 20 (AP).—The economic general council today approved a grant of additional government credit up to 500,000,000 marks (about $173,000,000) for repairs to houses and buildings in the battle against unemployment.

The ruling does not affect foreign credit holders, but German creditors who fail to fall in line will receive neither interest nor principal payments for five years.

Oregon Fishermen Take Packer Terms in Strike

Astoria, Oreg., Sept. 20 (AP).—The week-old strike of Columbia River gillnetters ended late today when union fishermen voted to accept offers by packers.

The Spread of Strikes.

In New York City 50,000 workers are reported to be on strike and the number may rise to 75,000 before the end of the week. The loss of wages and salaries caused by these local conflicts is estimated to amount to $2,000,000 weekly. Miners and silk workers in Pennsylvania, boot and shoe workers in Massachusetts, and large numbers of other workers in various parts of the country, skilled and unskilled, highly paid and underpaid also are striking at the present moment.

Unless this strike epidemic is speedily brought under control it will become a serious menace to the progress of business under the recovery act. That improvement has been substantial so far is evidenced, for example, by the figures released last week by the Bureau of Labor Statistics relating to employment and pay rolls for the month of August. Increases in August employment figures amounted to 27.9 per cent compared with a year ago, while the gain in factory pay rolls was 43 per cent.

For the past five months, moreover, the bureau estimated that nearly 1,500,000 factory workers had secured employment, while the inclusion of certain nonmanufacturing groups raised the estimate for the re-employed to 2,200,000. The increase in factory pay rolls since last March was especially encouraging, as Secretary Perkins noted that August weekly pay-roll disbursements were $40,000,000 above the March totals. Thus it would appear not only that more workers have been employed but that those already on the pay rolls have been more fully employed.

With possibly $2,000,000 directly deducted from pay rolls as a result of the strikes in New York City, some idea may be gained of the losses to the country at large of the present widespread disturbances. These direct losses, however, take no account of the effects of strikes upon subsidiary or dependent industries connected with those immediately involved, nor do they allow for the losses to retail trade that follow strikes. There is no way of obtaining an adequate idea of the indirect costs of labor disturbances, but it is clear that they represent heavy deductions from working-class incomes and profits.

Since the recovery act has unleased a flood of suppressed labor grievances by inviting labor to organize for purposes of collective bargaining, it is useless to hope that the struggles with this organization problem can be settled speedily, but there is no reason why they should not be settled more deliberately and less expensively than by resort to strikes. The very fact that the Government has set up machinery for enabling workers to receive a hearing and that they have gained privileges of inestimable value without a struggle ought to make for conciliatory action instead of the warfare that some labor leaders seem to prefer.

It is evident from the character of the demands being made upon employers that some of the striking groups are taking advantage of an opportunity to press claims that are excessive and that employers are justified in resisting. On the other hand, there are other cases in which employes have just grievances. In the latter case, they should be able to secure a hearing without first having to strike.

President Green of the American Federation of Labor admits that there have been "some strikes," but he says it is "some indication of the character of these strikes and their causes to find that in every case labor has been sustained by the National Labor Board." Thereupon, Mr. Green adds, surprisingly, "we have had to strike to compel obedience to the law and we expect we shall have to do so again."

Since Mr. Green resents charges that labor's attitude has slowed up the recovery program, ought he not to be emphasizing the need for peaceful settlements of outstanding disputes, instead of warning the public that more strikes are in prospect?

Cigarettes.

The August output of American cigarettes, numbering 11,184,500,000 individual smokes, indicates, in connection with earlier figures for this year, that the use of cigarettes in this country is increasing, after the slight lull of the past two years. The rapid growth of the cigarette habit dates from the war period. In 1920 consumption rose to 45,000,000,000, and production for this year is expected to reach 115,000,000,000.

No one seems to have figured out just how many cigarette smokers there are in the United States, but these production figures would allow a pack a day for upward of 20,000,000 smokers. Last month's output of cigarettes was 17 per cent greater than that of August, 1932, and has been exceeded by only three months in the history of the industry—June, 1931, and May and June of this year.

Cigarette production for 1933 has averaged an output of more than 9,500,000,000 a month, indicating that the year's total may exceed last year's by 10,000,000,000. Cigar consumption has remained comparatively steady during the depression years. Tobacco also has been one of the most substantial sources of Government revenue during the last few years, averaging about $430,000,000 for the last three years, and ranking in importance next to income tax returns.

German and Foreign Strategy.

Convening today in solemn session in Leipzig, the German Supreme Court is about to open the trial of the five Communists who are charged with burning the Reichstag building on the eve of the Nazi coup d'etat last winter.

As the world knows, it was no ordinary crime that took place during that cold night of February 27 in Berlin.

Adolf Hitler had been made Chancellor of Germany on January 30, but the dominance of Nationalists in the cabinet had cramped his effectiveness. A new election was due on March 5; it was clear that if this day did not give the Nazis a popular victory, it would mean their political ruin.

The March elections were expected to seat about 600 deputies in the Reichstag. Hitler could not hope to win the 300 needed to obtain absolute power. But his party leaders thought quickly. About 100 of these 600 would be Communist deputies. If these could, by some strategy, be outlawed, there was a good chance that Hitler could get the majority of the remaining 500.

Exactly this is what the fire accomplished. The dazed Dutchman van der Lubbe, who was found leaving the blaze, carried, although he was only half dressed, a full set of papers identifying him with the Communist party. The news of the crime spread like wild-fire, and all Communist deputies were immediately arrested. Before any further investigations were made into the fire, the party was suppressed. And on March 5, 52 per cent of the electorate voted support to Hitler, thus bringing in his dictatorship.

The new German government must indeed be thankful for the successful outcome of the fire. It probably regards the incident as a closed one, and wishes the trial were over.

But today is a very embarrassing day for Germany, and especially for its supreme court. For another court has boldly taken upon itself an independent trial of the five men; and it announces its verdict to the world on the day when the German court convenes. A very large wrench has been thrown into the workings of the German political and legal machine.

While the Reichstag burning is conceded to have been an excellent piece of strategy in point of timing, it lacked subtlety. The Nazis apparently thought that afterward, in the bright day of a new order, no one would think of exhuming the incident and making investigations.

But their assurance was rash. An initial investigation reveals the following major flaws in strategy:

1. The Communist would have had nothing to gain, and everything to lose, by such an act of violence. It was of so suicidal a nature as to be ideal material for an "agent provocateur."

2. Van der Lubbe, who has confessed to the deed, is a man of doubtful antecedents, whose very identity has not been established. He was ousted by a Dutch Communist organization as a police spy and was known in Saxony as a Nazi agent.

3. Torgler, Communist party leader, who was accused, gave himself over voluntarily to the police, instead of fleeing, as expected. He immediately established an alibi.

4. The conspirators could not have entered the locked building from the outside with all the materials needed to start the great fire. They could, however, have entered by means of a secret passage or tunnel. Such a tunnel has been found to exist. It connects the Reichstag with the official residence of none other than Capt. Goering, the most reckless and spectacular man in the Nazi party.

The blunder, in other words, lies in the way the Nazi chiefs ignored the matter of covering up their footsteps. What was effective in February has been enormously embarrassing in September.

The strategy of the international commission which has just concluded its inquiry into the fire is of a superior order. It has no legal status; therefore Germany can not attack the irregularity of its procedure and evidence. It has no connection with any foreign government; therefore Germany can make no diplomatic protest. Its members, coming from all nations and races and backgrounds, can not be denounced as the creatures of some special interest. Germany is helpless to make reply.

And finally, the commission's findings are published on the very day the Leipzig trial is to begin—thus achieving what, among other things, is a first-class judicial "scoop."

The Dance of the Dollar.

The recent rapid decline in the exchange value of the dollar is not the result of trade or ordinary financial developments but a consequence of the growing agitation for more radical inflationary measures. Whenever the extreme advocates of inflation become especially vociferous, the flight of capital from this country is accelerated and the dollar depreciates in consequence. This time it is reported that foreign selling of American securities is an important contributory factor in speeding up the exit of capital.

The causes of the recurrent dollar sinking spells, however, are sufficiently well known by this time to call for little comment. The only new development of especial interest is the change in public sentiment which has occurred since the country suspended gold payments. A drop in dollar exchange values can no longer be counted upon, as at first, to initiate speculative upward movements in stocks and commodities.

There never was any rational direct connection between external changes in the value of the dollar and the level of domestic prices, except in so far as exchange depreciation affected the values of commodities imported and exported. The rise in the prices of commodities and of stocks which for a considerable time accompanied declines in dollar exchange values was due in no small measure to a belief that the increasing weakness of the dollar in terms of gold currencies indicated that new inflationary plans to bring about internal price advances were in prospect.

By this time the public has had its fill of such arid surmises and has turned its attention to the more immediate and direct factors which determine the domestic prices of goods and services. Some progress in the direction of straight thinking has been made when the public awakens to the fact that a dollar depreciated in the markets of the world by deliberately fostered fears as to its future stability provides no reliable measure of that dollar's purchasing power in domestic markets. Fluctuations in exchange quotations are merely storm signals showing how hard the wind is blowing.

Japan's New Policy.

The resignation of Count Yasuya Uchida and the appointment of Koki Hirota to the post of foreign minister of Japan are generally accepted as a move which strengthens the nationalistic policies of the government. Count Uchida's poor health is given as the immediate cause of his retirement, but evidences of his lack of sympathy with the aggressive minister of war, Sadao Araki, have not been lacking. Hirota's elevation, it was announced, met with Gen. Araki's approval and indicates an even more vigorous prosecution of nationalistic aims.

It is reported from Tokyo that a complete revision of the cabinet during the next few months is anticipated. It has been evident for some time that party government was losing ground. The strength of the army has been evident and the present tendency is toward a supercabinet headed by a leader responsible directly to the Emperor and independent of party control.

Coincident with the change in the foreign office the war office gave out a statement in Tokyo characterizing as unfounded the report that the Japanese army desires to see a military dictatorship substituted for the present system of government. While declaring that parties have lost power because they have lost the people's confidence, this statement holds there is no Fascist or Hitlerite movement in Japan, and that what the army seeks is a return to native traditions and reliance on national spirit—ends which the army will further legitimately within constitutional bounds.

The navy minister, Mineo Osumi, also issued a statement in which he frankly admitted Japan's dissatisfaction with her present naval ratio limitations. Minister Osumi says that the idea of aggressive war has no place in Japanese plans, but that national security and limitation of fighting power are inextricably related, and that Japan must maintain peace in the Far East and assure her defenses.

It seems evident that, while making cabinet changes which are concessions to the strong nationalistic feeling prevailing in Japan, the government is seeking to convince Western nations, particularly the United States, that a growing army and forthcoming demands for a larger navy are the results of needs within Japan's own sphere of influence.

A Road to Alaska.

Prospects of a highway to Alaska seem to be brought a step nearer to realization by the report of a joint American-Canadian commission which has completed a study of the project. It is estimated that 2,000 miles of road would be needed to connect Seattle and Fairbanks, and that the cost would amount to $14,000,000. The two governments may not now be ready to make such a costly investment, but some day the road doubtless will be built.

A considerable portion of the proposed highway would lie in Canada, yet it is a mistake to regard it as primarily a Canadian project. The Alaskan Panhandle runs 600 miles down the Pacific Coast and at its southernmost point is only about 700 miles from the northwestern corner of the United States. This long strip of American territory contains nearly one-third of Alaska's population.

The territory through which the proposed highway would run is a wonderland of scenery. Perhaps the chief commercial significance of the proposed highway would be its appeal to tourists. Wilderness, vast mountains, rough glacial country, game in abundance—these are the attractions which tourists and vacationists seek. Alaska with its Mount McKinley, its Mount St. Elias and Mount Wrangell, with its 20 active volcanoes, its "valley of 10,000 smokes" and the formidable Mount Katmai, with its glaciers—Malaspina, Seward and Muir—and the picturesque valley of the Yukon! Few lands have a stronger claim upon the interests of men and women seeking the beauty and freshness of nature.

Alaska deserves to be better known than it is. Its 586,400 square miles are not all a frozen region. On the coast the temperature is rarely below zero with a maximum of about 80 degrees in the summer. In the interior, although the winters are cold, the temperature reaches 90 degrees in summer. Some day the national parks, the forests, the flowers and rivers of Alaska, as well as its commercial resources, will be better understood.

Why Not Try the Old Reliable Remedy?

The Once Over.

By H. I. Phillips.

AN IMAGINARY INTERVIEW ON NIRA WITH HENRY FORD.

Q. What do you think of NIRA, Mr. Ford?

A. I'm for anything that means a faster pickup.

Q. You haven't signed the automobile code yet. Why not?

A. I thought it a good idea for one business man to take time to read it.

Q. Do you believe in shorter hours for the working man?

A. The more time the American people have for outdoor picnics, the better for my business.

Q. What about higher wages?

A. I was the first big industrialist to preach the gospel of higher wages and practice it. The Democrats are really adopting one of my oldest ideas, and they ought to give credit to me as the copyright owner.

* * * *

Q. What do you think of the Blue Eagle?

A. It's all right, but I think the conventional gray stands up better in hard weather.

Q. Do you think the depression is over?

A. It must be. A man walked into one of our sales rooms this month and signed for a new car after less than an hour's argument over the allowance on the old one.

* * * *

Q. Is it your opinion that the country is on the road to prosperity, Mr. Ford?

A. It is unquestionably on the road, but I'm afraid the hitch-hikers will impede progress.

* * * *

Q. What do you think of the European situation?

A. I'm purposely using my dimmers so I won't see too much territory.

Q. What do you think about inflation?

A. Forty pounds in front and 25 in the rear is plenty.

Q. Do you believe America needs a cheaper dollar?

A. I don't care how cheap the dollar is as long as it stands up under a severe road test, meets the public taste and carries you between two points with reasonable comfort.

Q. Has your own business picked up, Mr. Ford?

A. Yes, indeed. Things have improved so much I am again in the market for fiddles and spinning wheels.

* * * *

Q. Have you a message for the American people in these troubled days?

A. Yes. Mind the sharp-turn-ahead signs, hold onto the seat going around the curves and always carry a good spare.

Sid Noves lost his chance to get into the finals in the national amateur golf tournament when he picked up a pear lying a little ahead of his ball in a road and lost the hole under a rule which forbids improving your lie under such conditions. This incident is recommended to the attention of the average golfer, who thinks nothing of moving watermelons, cocoanut trees, boulders and whole groves of apple trees.

AMBER.

Storms on the Baltic have their sunny side; they sometimes wash amber ashore on the coast of east Prussia. Over 700 pounds were found on one beach after recent storms, according to the New York Sun. In February of last year a similar quantity of this "German gold" was brought ashore by hurricanes. All amber mined, dredged from the sea or washed ashore in Prussia belongs to the state and must be handed over to the Preussag, a state-owned company. About 80 per cent of the world production of this fossil resin comes from east Prussia. Limited quantities are found in the United States, in southern Europe and in Burma.

Even a Prison Is a Blessed Refuge to One Who Is Safe Nowhere Else.

By Robert Quillen.

IF the common people could obtain the ear of the great, their demands would be neither unjust nor unreasonable.

Give us, they would say, the boon of security.

We but repeat the prayer of our primitive forefathers who lived in caves and tree tops to escape devouring beasts.

The chief concern of our race and the goal of all our endeavor have never varied through the ages. Always the people have pleaded for sanctuary—for the assurance of safety.

Now the beasts and savage enemies and cruel masters are gone, but still we have much to dread and fear and still we plead for security.

We do not ask for much.

We do not covet wealth. We do not desire place or power. We do not ask for a life of ease or idleness.

We are content to earn our bread. We are satisfied with simple comforts and simple living. We are willing to obey the laws and support the Government and finish our lives in quiet obscurity.

There is nothing under heaven that we ask of you except safety.

Protect us from want. Insure us against unwilling idleness. Give us assurance of food and clothing and shelter when we are old.

Protect us from criminals and sharpers and dishonest tradesmen and rogues in office.

Protect us from disease and ignorance and foreign foes.

Give us the certain knowledge that we are safe, in so far as human wisdom and justice and compassion can make us safe, and we shall require nothing more.

You have the power to do this for us. And if you will make this your Government policy and your chief concern, as of right it should be, few other domestic problems will remain to be solved.

It will pay you to make us safe. For people who live in security are contented and peaceful and innocent of violence.

Peace-time soldiers, knowing they will be cared for, feel none of the anxiety and greed that prompt the crimes of other men.

Make us as safe as these are and the Nation will be safe.

Comment of the Press

Speedy Justice.

Los Angeles Times.

Chicago has awakened to the fact that the way to discourage crime in a community is by prompt punishment. Before the present drive against gangsters began in that city it sometimes took years to bring a murderer to the electric chair, so able and artful were the pleas made by lawyers in his behalf, and often he escaped adequate punishment.

But all this has been changed by the adoption of the English system of short shrift for the cold-blooded slayer. A recent example of the way Chicago is treating murderers is seen in the case of one Cohen, who slew a policeman named Hastings on August 14. Cohen was convicted nine days after the commission of his crime and was at once sentenced to be electrocuted on October 13, the earliest possible date that could be set under the law.

"Gen." Coxey Carries On.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

"Gen." Jacob S. Coxey, who became famous 40 years ago as leader of a march of some 122 unemployed men to Washington, just can't keep out of the news. After enjoying intermittent flashes of the spotlight he became Mayor of Massillon, Ohio, two years ago at the age of 78. He forthwith announced a naive unemployment relief scheme which was promptly passed by. When he sought to succeed himself this year Massillon counted him out. One who believes in turning a setback into a means of advancement, the general is going back into the political arena. This time he will carry the fight to the whole of Ohio. He is out for the seat held by Senator Simeon D. Fess since 1922.

Railroads Generate Optimism.

Minneapolis Journal.

It looks as if the number of cars loaded soon will top any figures for the last two years and the railroads will be in the foreground as producers of prosperity news. The record high week for 1932 was that of October 15, when 650,578 cars were loaded. The peak for the present year was 648,914 in the week of July 22. Car loadings are important because they provide what is perhaps the most definite and indisputable business index. Business must be transacted before car loadings can be made, and thus every line of business is reflected in the figures.

Assistant Secretary Moore.

Northern Virginia Daily.

President Roosevelt's appointment of R. Walton Moore to be Assistant Secretary of State, succeeding Raymond Moley, recently resigned, serves not only to honor a statesman who has rendered notable service both to his own State and the Nation, but it also brings into the service of the administration one of the keenest intellects in the South and a man whose knowledge and experience in foreign affairs run closely parallel with that of Secretary Hull, with whom he served for more than a decade on the foreign affairs committee of the House.

Virginia has never had a more efficient congressman than was Congressman Moore.

Just Folks.

By Edgar A. Guest.

The Quick and the Dead.

If trouble frets you, think of this;
All earthly trouble dead men miss.
They know not sunshine or the rain,
Cold and indifferent they must lie,
Though kings in purple robes pass by.

If hard the task, remember this:
All tasks the morning's dead must miss.
The whispered voices they won't hear,
Nor see the friends who gather near.
Though out of doors the children play,
Unmoved and undisturbed they'll stay.

If gray the clouds hang overhead,
They'll be unnoticed by the dead.
Only the living hear the storm;
Know when the day is cold and warm.
Face doubts and feel the weight of care
And rise to burdens they must bear.

To worry and to suffer pain;
To feel the chilling autumn rain;
To wish and want and plan and scheme,
See failure wreck your fondest dream
And rise against the odds to strive
Is proof that you are still alive.

Along the Potomac

With

Carlisle Bargeron

I GOT tied up with a civic movement yesterday, the National Association of Retail Beverage Dealers, and couldn't get around to the Labor Department, the NRA, the A. A. A., the I. C. C., the R. F. C., or any of the other places where they keep in statistical touch with the progress of recovery, and therefore I don't know just what effect the appointment of R. Walton Moore as successor to Prof. Moley had.

Bargeron.

In fact, I didn't even get by the White House for a look at Mr. Roosevelt's two lines on a chart, one line describing the production upturn and the other the consumption upturn, two lines which the administration says must be brought in parallel before we have the prescribed recovery.

So whether either of these lines wavered, or whether the two came nearer to being in parallel, I am not prepared to say. I can only, therefore, say what should have happened in an economic way. And saying this in the dark, so to speak, is quite risky, because it may not have happened in this economic way at all. But the economists have come to be like alienists; they can argue on either side of the fence without any embarrassment over the result.

* * * *

NOW I don't mean to say that Mr. Moore's appointment in itself would be an economic influence. He is a man of very high type. Of that, there is no doubt. But ordinarily his appointment to be Assistant Secretary of State would not be tied in with economics in the least.

It is the connotation of his appointment as successor to Prof. Moley that carries the economic implications.

It means that insofar as the State Department is concerned the revolution is over! That is an economic factor any time and anywhere.

* * * *

OF COURSE, the State Department is only one department of the Government, but it is one department. Presumably, the revolution is still going on in the others, in the Department of Agriculture, with Secretary Ickes, with Madame Perkins, and so on. Under no conceivable logic could it be argued that the revolution as a whole is over. It is only over in the State Department, and the economic bearing which the passing of a revolution has, should be limited to that extent.

The markets, the long-term investments, the bankers and employers should seriously err, I think, in responding to this as if it were the end of the whole revolution. And I have no doubt the administration would feel very chagrined were they to assume this and go off on an unprescribed prosperity spree.

Who knows but this is exactly what the administration has in mind, that it doesn't want any unprescribed prosperity spree such as would likely attend the end of the whole revolution, but a prosperity steadily attained by ending the revolution in one department at a time?

* * * *

TO understand fully the importance of Mr. Moore's appointment one must know that the revolution that began with the inauguration of the present regime spread over all our government departments. Indeed, it was the State Department where it first reared its head. The rest of us may not have felt it so strongly, but you can bet your boots that when Prof. Moley took up the post of Assistant Secretary of State the diplomatic boys thought the world had come to an end. It was a revolution to them!

The professor was by no stretch of the imagination what we popularly look upon as a diplomat. In fact, he was more apt to start a war every time he opened his mouth than to soft-soap the feelings of the peoples of the earth.

Why, for one thing, the professor had a lot of devilry in him. His conduct at the London conference in approaching each of the American delegates one at a time and telling him that he was the only big shot on the delegation, showed that. And devilry certainly does not go with diplomacy.

* * * *

WALTON MOORE is, of course, anything but devilish. He is polished and suave. He is more of the picture of what we expect a diplomat to be. The appointment of someone like him is what we would have expected in the first place.

But the revolution was on and the professor was appointed. The State Department has now, however, returned to normalcy and the revolution with it remains but a passing phase.

Whether it means gradual extinction of the revolution all around remains to be seen.

Protests Against Demolition of Smithsonian Institution Building on the Mall.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There is a hint that the authorities may decide to remove the old Smithsonian Building from the Mall. I feel sure that many citizens will join me in protesting against such a move. The Smithsonian Building is one of the finest examples of Gothic architecture in this country. It is admirably situated and is not in the way of Mall improvement. It is historically a fixture of the National Capital. It should stay where it is. When we possess a really fine structure, about which tradition and history cluster, we should suppress the spirit of vandalism that would destroy it.

Rev. Powers, Once District Resident, Dies

Retired Minister Passes at Home of Son in Brookline, Pa.

The Rev. Le Grand Powers, D. Litt., 86, retired Universalist clergyman and economist, for many years a resident of Washington, died at the home of his son, Loran C. After holding pastorates in Oak Park, Ill., and Minneapolis, he entered the field of economics. He served as Commissioner of Labor of Minnesota from 1891-98 and as chief statistician of the departments of agriculture and municipal and public finance in the U. S. Census Bureau from 1899-1914.

On coming to Washington in 1899 Dr. Powers identified himself with the Universalist Church. He served as a deacon and in many ways as an unofficial assistant minister, especially during the World War when the pastor, the Rev. John van Schaick, was serving as Red Cross Commissioner in Belgium and the associate pastor, the Rev. William Couden, was chaplain in the regular army.

Member of Societies.

The Show Goes On—From a Bedside

RALPH WHITEHEAD, champion of vaudeville and stage actors, was undeterred by injuries from fighting for an NRA code for troupers. From his bed at Emergency Hospital he is directing a battle to get code protection for them.

Actors' Head Fights for Code Despite Leg Injury.

For Ralph Whitehead, executive secretary of the Actors Betterment Association, "the show must go on."

It is all the more important to Whitehead as "the show" concerns his fellow troupers, men and women of the Nation's stage. So the show goes on—from a hospital bed.

Whitehead came to Washington to attend hearings on theatrical codes. He fell at his hotel and was taken to Emergency Hospital with a leg injury.

That didn't keep him from upholding their cause in the code debates. Summoning a stenographer, he dictated a statement setting forth the position of the troupers and demanded a part in NRA benefits for them.

"We are striving for better working conditions for our profession," he wrote. "If a laborer or clerk can have his wages and hours adjusted by the Government and his working conditions regulated, the members of the theatrical profession should be entitled to consideration."

Driver Risks Life To Save Children

Swerves Car Up Bank as Two Run Into Path.

Quick-witted courage on the part of Raymond Windsor, of Rockville, yesterday probably saved the lives of two children.

Haley Inest, 13, of Rydland, Md., carrying 3-year-old Betty Stevens, Rockville, ran from behind a passing milk truck into the path of Windsor's car near Derwood. Windsor swerved his car up an embankment in an effort to miss the children but both were knocked down.

They were taken to the Montgomery County General Hospital but no serious injuries were found.

Dr. Besant, 86, Theosophists' Leader, Dies

Pastor's Divorced Wife Rose to Power After Welfare Work.

Madras, India, Sept. 20 (AP).—Dr. Annie Besant, world leader of the Theosophists and familiarly known as "The Grand Old Lady of India," died peacefully here today of the infirmities of age.

She would have been 86 October 1.

The religious leader, who claimed she had been reincarnated many times and had lived many lives, beginning 12,000 years ago, had been semiconscious several days. She spoke only briefly with her bedside attendants during that time. She had never fully recovered from a fall in 1931.

Disappointment with the attitude of a Hindu, Jeddu Krishnamurti, whom Dr. Besant once described as the potential "reincarnation of Christ," was believed by many of her followers to have saddened her last days.

Friends Despite Rift.

Krishnamurti renounced these claims of "mastership" and expressed disbelief with the tenets of the religion, but other Theosophists said this had no effect on the personal regard between the two. They reminded that the Hindu later spent two months with Mrs. Besant at Adyar. For days they sat in silence, hours at a stretch.

Dr. Besant was unconscious for 30 hours after the fall in 1931. A friend asserted she was restored to consciousness by friends who sat at her bedside and transferred power from themselves to her by concentration.

Her leadership of the world Theosophists was attained following a stormy life which began after she was divorced from an English clergyman. Deprived of her children, she became the champion of London's poor, a leader in political and social reforms and a strike organizer. Her attention then was directed to the religious movement.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at Adyar, the location of the Theosophist foundation. Cremation will follow.

Jinnarajah Dassa, vice president of the society, has been mentioned as the possible new leader of the Theosophists.

Alleged Drunken Driver Gets Year

District Man Sentenced in Hyattsville Court.

Charged with driving while drunk, Charles H. Daniels, 35, 650 B street southwest, was given a 12 months' jail sentence in the Hyattsville Police Court yesterday. He noted an appeal.

Police said Daniels failed to stop for a red light in Mount Rainier. A fine of $16 and costs was placed against him for having no registration card or permit.

Robert W. McCullough, Prince Georges County lawyer, paid a fine of $6.70 for J. Ernest Mecusker, 14 Third street southeast.

Modern, Low-Price Homes To Replace St. Louis Slums

St. Louis, Sept. 20 (AP).—A city block of modern, multifamily dwellings with ample lawns and playgrounds is to supplant part of the "blighted area" on the fringe of downtown St. Louis, where low-income families now live in squalor.

For as little as $17 a month, a family will be able to rent an apartment in the fireproof, efficiently-designed buildings, with heat and hot and cold water furnished.

The project, financed by $125,000 pledged by six St. Louis men and a $500,000 Federal Government loan, is the realization of the dream of J. A. Wolf, director of the Neighborhood Association, a social center.

Wolf decided that if the work of his organization was to be effective, he must first of all change the surroundings—the environment—in which the people of his comunity existed. He went to Europe and studied the low-cost housing projects of Germany and other countries.

As a start toward his goal of a "slumless St. Louis," he had architects design a housing project for 250 families, not a crowded, bleak walls-and-sidewalk affair, but a bright, cheerful group of buildings with colored terra cotta trimmings and tile roofs and with two-thirds of the ground space reserved for landscaping.

Apartments in the buildings, of which there will be four, set back from the sidewalks of the block and, inclosing a broad, grassy court, will be of the so-called efficiency type. Many will have disappearing beds for combination living and bed rooms. Others will have a separate bedroom and, a few, two bedrooms.

The buildings will be three stories high, with only sufficient basement space for heating units. Laundries will be placed in the attics, which also serve to lower temperatures in the third-story apartments during warm weather.

Each apartment will have its own balcony, facing either the street or the inside open court and not adjoining any other balcony.

Club Head, Back From Europe, Declares War Menaces World

Civilization's Fate in Hands of Woman, Asserts Mrs. Poole.

GRACE MORRISON POOLE.

"Women must act, if they are to save civilization from the destruction threatened by war brewing all over Europe," declared Grace Morrison Poole, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, yesterday.

With a party of 45 women, she had just returned from a six weeks' friendship tour of European countries, where she contacted government officials and women's club leaders in London, Paris, Duesseldorf, Berlin, Prague, Vienna and Zurich.

"Germany's determination to get back her place in the sun is apparent," she declared. "If it can't be obtained one way, it will be another. Most alarming is the enthusiasm of the youth of Germany for the Nazi movement."

"Doctor of Humanities."

Mrs. Poole, described by the president of Boston University as "a sane and fair interpreter of international affairs," when the degree of doctor of humanities was conferred upon her some years ago, is a slight and charming lady with a generous mouth and frank gray eyes. Her dove-gray blouse and grayish brown tweed skirt were youthful and becoming.

Leaning forward in her chair, in one of the spacious picture-lined reception rooms at the Federation of Women's Clubs' headquarters in the former Gen. Miles mansion at 1734 N street northwest, she continued:

"France actually has 'the jitters'—there is no other term to describe it—over Germany's undeclared intentions.

"Europe Jealous of U. S."

"All of Europe is jealous of the United States. Peoples in the countries may be friendly enough; enlightened women of every nationality dread another war and are working internationally to prevent it; but the politicians, the national leaders, envy us and distrust us.

"They dislike our advantageous and isolated position, and they feel our 'tend to our own business' national attitude covers a selfish desire to 'cash in' by trade in the event of European wars. I'm afraid," she smiled deprecatingly, "they are unable to conceive of a nation as being unselfish, disinterested and humanitarian."

Holds Treaties Futile.

"European nations," she continued, "will never be able to prevent war between themselves through treaties and disarmament pacts, without the cooperation of the United States; and particularly without a very definite assurance from our Government that she will consult with them in the event of war."

"We are so engrossed in our own economic problems at home that we fail to realize that a veritable superwave of nationalism is sweeping over Europe. And it is not only highly dangerous, but terribly hard to combat.

"Club women throughout the world see only one weapon to fight this vicious sentiment. And that is to rouse the mothers of the race to a realization that, if they do not act to prevent war, they are raising sons and daughters who are to perish in the most abominable slaughter the world has yet seen.

Strength Recognized.

"Women are demonstrating their leadership in every field today. Government included, and Government heads themselves are the first to admit that women can do more toward preventing other wars than any treaty or disarmament pact, providing they recognize and use their quiet, united force."

Mrs. Poole is leaving Washington Friday to make a speaking tour in Western States on behalf of the President's emergency recovery measures, and to urge women's consideration of means for bringing about world peace.

Laundry Kit For Daughter Pays Its Way

It Cuts School Washing Cost and Keeps Tab on Wardrobe Needs.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

Planning daughter's school wardrobe isn't half as hard as thinking of the other necessaries she must have. The laundry kit, for instance. Had you forgotten that? By sending her soiled clothes home to you every week she'll be taking a first step in economy. Besides, by this means you can keep tab on what she needs in the way of this, that and the other.

A G street store has answered the need and has on hand the ideal laundry kit. It's light fiber composition weighs scarcely anything and its size is ample. It has a tab marked for both going and coming addresses. You can buy one for $2.25.

A downtown store is preparing you for an icy winter by offering at greatly reduced prices a silver-plated icebowl and tongs. This is not only handy to use on your dining room table, but it's attractive as well, for tea parties, bridge luncheons, and the like.

In the way of wedding presents, you couldn't find a lovelier gift for such a price.

It's amazing how much a person can buy and what effects can be achieved with a very lowly sum. It's all in knowing how.

A certain young person in town was married recently and although she previously had all her wants catered to she found herself in the position of having to live on a very small income. Determined she would still have all the niceties of life she set about doing so in a most ingenious manner.

At home she had been used to rare old pieces of colonial hobnail glassware which was brought out on state occasions. This resourceful young person found a downtown store where she could buy a whole set in excellent imitation for no more than 5 or 10 cents apiece.

There are grill plates, luncheon plates, candy dishes, goblets, large or small; cream and sugars, salt and peppers, hors d'oeuvres plates and odd dishes at a dime each.

Bread and butter plates, ice cream saucers, cups and saucers and glasses, only 5 cents.

If you dare to pay 25 cents, you can buy large bowls, cake platters and candy jars.

All of these come in either crystal or rose.

Nothing sets off a man's infammable disposition like getting up in the morning and finding there's no hot water for shaving. Nothing makes baby quite so irate as having to drink milk that's not warm enough. And nothing puts a hostess on such raw edge as to have the soup grow cold while the rest of the dinner occupies the cooking space.

The little immerson heaters in a G street store take care of all three situations. They are devised so that all you do is put them in the liquid, turn on the electricity and in 2 minutes the little firebrand has done its work.

If you would test its promptness, immerse it in a glass of water. In 3 minutes the water's boiling.

For those who live in small appartments and have to make one room serve for two, these cabinets were particularly designed. For those who lack drawer and closet space, they'll serve your need.

They're about 4 feet high and a foot and a half wide. There are drawers for hats, hose, lingerie and shoes. It's covered from top to base with pastel washable crushed material over a wood foundation. Yours for $2.95.

A beauty expert says she's learning things about her own products which she never knew before. Finding that her sweetly scented shaving cream was outselling many of her other products, she sought the reason.

It seems a great many women have found it to be a highly satisfactory soap and, packed in a tube, ideal for traveling purposes. On sale at several downtown stores.

Before the Christmas shopping begins to creep up on you, before you begin buying presents for other people, why don't you buy one for yourself right now?

Why don't you drop into a Connecticut avenue shop and see the attractive double compacts, trimmed in needle-point design? They're small and flat enough to comfortably fit the most crowded purse. They come in either black or green.

She was sweet for more reasons than one. She had heard about the new bath essence on sale at a downtown store and had taken advantage of its subtle scent. Three drops of it in a tub of water and the job was done. She could rest assured throughout the evening that no flower could outdo her with alluring fragrance. The essence comes in two scents, amber and jasmine. Know your type and choose your perfume.

Pioneer of Parent-Teacher Movement Says Humble Mothers Are Losing Out

College Men and Women Taking Over Control, She Says.

A pioneer organizer of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, who has worked for its development since 1897, withdrew from a morning session of the semi-annual board meeting at the Wardman Park Hotel yesterday to marvel at "the growth and magnificence of the work it is doing."

"As one among the oldest and first workers for the parent-teacher movement," said white-haired Mrs. William F. Thatcher, of Philadelphia, "I think the work has made great progress.

"I think, however, it has become entirely too complicated for the ordinary mother—the working mother—the mother of small means who is taking care of a family of children, often without a father to help. I think this was not the idea of the founder.

Feels Humble Mother "Out."

"While she would undoubtedly be pleased with the growth and magnificence of the work they are doing, I feel she would be surprised to find it has become an organization more for educators and women who've had a college education, than for the humbler mother.

"I'm sure, however, she would be pleased with what is being done for the health and feeling of the child. The cafeteria system is wonderful beyond all telling. It is one of the greatest things that has ever come to the school."

Mrs. Thacher, who pleasantly but firmly declined to give her age, is honorary vice president of of the Congress, and from 1914 to 1917 was its national treasurer. For six years before she was national chairman of the home economics department and, until five years ago held an unbroken record of attendance at annual conventions. She was instrumental in organizing the Congress of Parents and Teachers in New Jersey and held State office in the organization's early history in that State.

New Needs Outlined.

Need of a home recovery program for the next year, with parents studying their children's vocational guidance requirements, in view of the new sociological and economic era into which the world is entering, was sketched by Mrs. Hugh Bradford, of Sacramento, Calif., president of the Congress, now serving her second term.

Her blue eyes twinkling with good humor, her whole personality radiating high spirits, intelligence and vitality, Mrs. Bradford—educator, war-time worker and grandmother—declared:

"American homes have been indispensable in providing an atmosphere of courage, self-control and independance in the past, and we must look to them for such contribution in the future.

Parents Must Lend Aid.

"We feel parents must study vocational guidance in order to help their children avoid entering those fields of education which may net them little opportunity and remuneration after graduation.

"Parents have urgent need of vision as to occupational opportunity for their children. Just to give them general education isn't enough. The should take their problems to sociologists, teachers, economists."

As an emergency measure of character conservation for the jobless college graduate, through turning his attention to the problem of providing constructive activity for the child released from industry, Mrs. Bradford proposed a national system of community playgrounds.

"By giving them work to do in taking care of the leisure child by vocational instruction and group leadership, at an age when they are young enough to be understanding and sympathetic with boys and girls in their teens, I feel jobless college graduates could be given immeasurable psychological support," Mrs. Bradford explained.

Proposes Playgrounds.

"My idea would be to have playgrounds provided by community funds or civic subscriptions, with college-trained supervisors given salaries commensurate with their background, and who would have the honorary status of our war-time $1-a-year men. They could do valuable socially constructive work with the leisure child, they would be early trained to a humanitarian viewpoint, and their faculties would be saved from the subtle corrosion of idleness.

MRS. HUGH BRADFORD, of Sacramento, Calif., president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, which laid plans for its 1934 annual convention during a two days' board meeting this week at the Wardman Park Hotel.

What has been accomplished the last 10 years by the congress through the work of its committee on safety in safeguarding children from injuries and fatalities at home, in school and abroad, was told by Chairman Marian Telford of New York.

"Between 1922 and 1931 automobile deaths among adults in the United States increased two and one-half times," he said. "During the same period, automobile deaths among children advanced only 20 per cent.

Toll's Magnitude Shown.

"We consider that definite proof that something has been accomplished through work of the parent-teacher group with the schools, by our school-boy patrol corps and related activities.

"One million eight hundred days of school time probably will be lost the coming school year because of accidents to children. This is equivalent to continuous absence of 13,000 students.

"Within the school building, the accidents occur in gymnasium, manual training shop and on stairways. On the playground, 40 per cent occur in baseball, football and track; an equal percentage in the use of playground apparatus, such as slides and swings, and 20 per cent in the unorganized play activities of small children.

Highway Accidents Fewer.

"Accidents occurring on the way to and from school are in the minority, but they are likely to be more serious.

"We are doing very effective work through our school-boy patrol. We are constantly working for careful supervision and improvement of school buses.

"We solicit the cooperation of parents and teachers in teaching children rigid observance of such simple precautions as obeying traffic signals and the like."

The National Congress of Parents and Teachers is an organization which unites members of parent-teacher associations from the United States, Hawaii and Alaska.

Before adjourning today, the board will lay plans for its 1934 annual convention, in Des Moines, in May.

Progress Shown in Pupils' Care; School Cafeteria Hailed as Boon.

6 slices buttered toast
¼ cup oyster juice

Lay the oysters in a shallow dripping pan and pour over them a small quantity of oyster juice, but not sufficient to raise or float them. Place the dish carefully in a hot oven (400-425 degrees F.) and just heat the oysters through. Be careful not to bake them. Moisten hot buttered toast with the hot juice from the oysters and serve the oysters on the toast.

The Family Marketer

Housewives Get a Few Tips on Potatoes, Their Types, Use and Prices.

When the housewife buys food she should keep in mind the purpose for which it is intended. This is true of both canned goods, vegetables, meats and, specifically, potatoes.

There are three kinds on the market now, the plain Irish potatoes, the Idahos and the Burbanks. If you have stews or ordinary mashed or riced potatoes in mind, the Irish variety will suit your purpose. You can buy these for slightly less than either of the other two. Right now they're cheaper than they have been for some time, 10 pounds for 29 cents.

On the other hand, if you planned your dinner around baked potatoes, you can ask for nothing better than the Idahos, now 5 pounds for 22 cents. If you try these for boiling, you will notice the mealy quality, which makes them so appropriate for baking, causes them to crumble in the pan and lose their flavor.

Boiled or Baked.

The Burbanks are more adaptable. Especially suited for baking, they can be boiled or prepared any way you choose. But you pay for their adaptability. They are 5 pounds for 24 cents.

Sweet potatoes are plentiful, reasonable and in excellent condition. It is well to know what type your family likes before you buy.

There are two general types: Those with light color and mealy content and those which are moister, sweeter and of a deeper color. The former, usually called "yellows," are nice when baked and served with plenty of butter. But the others, "reds," are favored for both baking and candying. Either may be bought 4 pounds for 15 cents.

The Nancy Hall sweet potatoes are supposed to be the best of all. There is 4 cents difference in price. If anyone tells you that a potato is still a potato, no matter how you fix it, grant that theoretically he is right, but practically, wrong, particularly regarding sweet-potato croquettes.

How to Make 'Em.

After the potatoes are roasted, cut them lengthwise in two and empty out the insides; to this add salt nutmeg, egg yokes and fresh butter; mix well together. When the preparation is cold, roll it up into 1¾-inch diameter balls, dip them in eggs, then roll in bread crumbs. Fry to a golden brown. Dress in a circle, having a bunch of parsley to decorate the center.

In case you haven't bought your quinces yet, now's a good time. You can buy them for 5 cents a pound today. This is a marked contrast to their recent price of 3 pounds for 25 cents.

Corn Going Up Soon.

Bad news for corn lovers: the delicious sugar corn which we've been enjoying at three ears for 10 cents is going up in price in a few days. However, some baby ears are to be found in some places and, although you pay the same for these as for the large corn, its tenderness and sweetness make it well worth while.

Celery always is an asset to a dinner or luncheon. The supply today is from New York and just as fine as you could wish. Even the outside stalks are tender enough to be used. It's 10 cents a bunch.

Ways to Rid House Of Ants Are Listed

Oil of Sassafras, Tartar Emetic and Kerosene Effective.

Eternal vigilance is necessary in winning a fight against the armies of ants which so often infest the pantries and kitchen of the older apartment buildings and homes in Washington.

Strong oil of sassafras around each dish of food, or poured in every crack they are seen to enter will exterminate the giant black ants as well as the smaller black ones.

Tartar emetic in syrup, exposed in small dishes; strong powdered cloves, or kerosene oil, is a powerful combatant for the tiny red ants or emmets, which are discovered frequently swarming over food, tables and utensils without any warning.

The Passing of the Rain

By Katherine W. Smith.

Though lights are dim, and rain still slowly drips,
Though winds are wandering in empty plains,
Though life tastes bitter to my tired lips,
I know the sun smiles after sighing rain.
Though flowers of a once sweet memory
Are faded—soon to mingle with the dust,
Though pedestals beneath the ivory
Feet of idols smother in the rust
That tears can not remove, fresh blossoms will
Be sweeter than the last, new pedestals
Remain unstained. I know that soon the still,
Sad cries of longing in my heart will cease,
The passing of the rain will bring me peace.

What Today Means

"Virgo."

If September 21 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 to 11:20 a. m., from 4:15 to 4:45 p. m., and from 6 to 7:20 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:30 to 9:30 a. m., and from 2 to 3:30 p. m.

Influences operating on this date would seem to indicate troublous times in the home. Servants will tend to be dissatisfied and will not work well nor get along harmoniously with their fellow servants. Do not count on being able to make a good impression on the visitor within the portals of your home. It is more than possible that a dear one will misunderstand and misjudge you.

The child born on this September 21 will undoubtedly have a strong sense of right and wrong and will seek to do what is right regardless of the consequences to others. It will not be one to compromise; will prefer to completely have its own way rather than to yield its position one jot. It will no doubt have a fiery temper quick to show itself; no deceit in its makeup.

If September 21 is the date of your birth, you are quite likely an emotional person who is inclined to be extravagant in his speech and gestures. When conversing on any matter of importance you work yourself up into quite a heat, you speak loudly and punctuate your words with sharp, quick gestures. It is probable that you make a good appearance in public, and you enjoy being before the public eye. Your ambition, quite probably, is to make yourself useful to your community, your State or your country. You are the type of person who seems to appeal to the popular imagination and upon whom the average person is willing to place responsibility. In the matter of handling your own affairs, you are not always adequate, for you are not fired with the zeal to put your own interests across. When responsibility of a public nature comes your way, you are quick to assume it, and seldom will you fail to discharge your duties 100 per cent.

Born on September 21, you will always acquit yourself creditably in any line of work that you get into; without necessarily being outstanding you will fit into the scheme of things and in time become a very essential though perhaps minor cog in the machine. You are very reticent about your own little triumphs but quick to praise the good work of a fellow being. You enjoy a snappy bit of gossip like all the rest of the world, but you are slow to repeat what you hear. You will never be known as the world's greatest lover but there will probably be a happy romance in your life.

Hors d'Oeuvres Are Important With Cocktails

Large Selection Necessary When Serving These Racy Appetite Teasers.

Hors d'oeuvres, while indispensable as a beginning at the dinner party, also play an important role in the success of cocktail festivities. The latter may begin and finish, too, with these delectable novelties. There should be a goodly quantity and a variety to satisfy all tastes.

They must be made of foods that have a distinct appetite-encouraging quality. The idea is, of course, to tease the appetite, rather than to satisfy it. The ideal hors d'oeuvre is a racy and interesting morsel which provokes thirst and hunger by unusual combinations of savory substances.

Where toast is used in preference to crackers, the bread should be a few days old, cut in thin slices and shaped with a cutter in circles, diamond shapes, strips or ovals. These may be sauted in just enough butter to keep them from burning, or toasted a delicate golden brown.

Green Olives and Bacon.

One of the fillings, easiest to prepare is made by rolling a stuffed green olive in a strip of bacon and anchoring it with a toothpick. Place in broiler until bacon is crisp.

Cut boiled frankfurters in inch-length sections and place a toothpick in each. Serve with a bowl of grated horseradish or a hot Spanish sauce in which the frankfurters may be dipped.

Caviar with eggs is a favorite. Cut slices of hardboiled egg, take out the yolk, place the white circle on a slice of buttered toast. Fill the circle with caviar; place the yolk, riced, around the edges, and sprinkle with grated onion.

Sardine Combination Excellent.

Mix sardines, hardboiled egg capers, all finely minced. Add a few drops of Worcestershire sauce and spread on buttered toast. Decorate the edge with a little fluting of sardine paste.

Chicken liver paste is delectable and easily prepared. Cook the livers in hot chicken fat, slowly, for five minutes. Drain and force through a sieve. Saute fresh or dried mushrooms and chop very fine. Mix with liver paste, add lemon and onion juice, then salt and pepper to taste. Spread on buttered toast and add a strip of pimento. Calves' liver may be used in place of chicken liver.

Some Day This Child Is Likely to Be Hurt!

Cresson, Pa. (AP).—Accidents will happen, but 6-year-old Evelyn Noland takes them in her stride. The automobile in which she was riding collided with another, hurling her over two passengers in the rear seat, through an open window, over a highway guardrail and down a 12-foot embankment. Her only injury was a bruised back.

Culbertson's Bridge

809.

Bridge Inhibitions.

"I never make a preemptive bid."

The Bridge player who makes this statement is robbing himself of one of the most effective weapons in Contract. On certain types of hands, such as have a predominant suit and are practically void of outside honor strength, preemption—that is, an attempt to shut out the enemy's communications — is the only line of defense. It is a striking illustration of the military saying that attack is the best defense. For instance, the other day in a Duplicate game I saw a number of players sitting in the South position pick up this hand:

Spades—A Q 7 6 5 4 3 2
Hearts—K 7 3
Diamonds—4
Clubs—K

Certainly no holding can be less suggestive of defense than this one.

On the other hand, it requires but a minimum of support in the partner's hand to assure the making of a fairly high contract—possibly even game. There is no question in the mind of the player picking up these cards as to what the final declaration must be if he is to play the hand. Spades are preeminent in his holdings. He can utilize any strength his partner may have in other suits, but with another declaration, and particularly playing defensively, his cards are sure to be worthless. Hence, the fear of loss with an utter lack of defense if opponents play the hand, and the chance of gain if the hand is played at a spade declaration, unerring point the way to the proper Opening bid—four spades.

A shut-out bid of this type is quite effective in all cases where the opponents' strength is distributed in both hands. Even with a powerful hand an opponent may well hesitate to overcall a high Preemptive bid when lacking a powerful trump suit. In such cases his best defense is to overcall a Preemptive four-bid with four notrunmp, forcing partner to bid his longest suit Assume that the first player has opened with four spades and the player to the left hold:

Hearts A Q 6 5
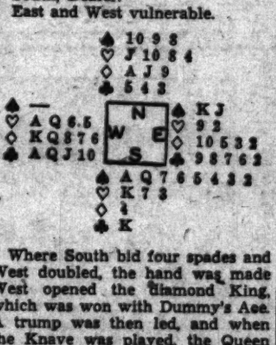
Clubs A Q J 10

The old fogies among the Bridge players and those who prefer to depend on guess rather than reason will double, having in their possession no better weapon and hoping against hope that partner may be strong enough to bid, but feeling that whether he does or not, a penalty should follow from his massed strength in the other suits. Actually, the Opening bid refutes the latter hope. West's hand is also of the attacking type and is admirably fitted to that defense against preemptive bids, which is now a part of the Culbertson System—namely, the Notrump Overcall of Opening bids of four and five. If West doubles and East passes, the hand will probably be made, for North can have many holdings which will permit South to make his contract. In any event, the prospect of a paying penalty is remote.

The actual hand was:

South, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.



Where South bid four spades and West doubled, the hand was made West opened the diamond King, which was won with Dummy's Ace. A trump was then led, and when the Knave was played, the Queen was finessed, the Declarer rightly reading West's Double as showing a void in spades. Thereafter the only losing cards were two heart tricks and the King of clubs.

Consider now the situation which resulted where the four-notrump Overcall was used. North rightly passed and East bid five clubs. South had made a Preemptive overbid and his opponents had found the chink in his armor. He therefore passed. West passed, but now North came to the rescue with a bid of five spades. East passed, as did South, and West now doubled, feeling that after all it was better to accept what he felt was a sure penalty, even though slight, than to bid for a Slam which was far from certain. As the cards lie, East and West can make five diamonds. North and South have reached the limit of their trick-taking powers at four.

In the first instance South gained a rich reward by his bold attack when practically without defense. In the second instance, where West used modern methods to combat Preemptive bids, he, instead of South, made the plus score. Bridge, like other games, pays the richest rewards to those who keep up-to-date. As we have learned through bitter experience, the business world has no place for old fogies. In Bridge, too, those who use modern methods and make every bid an effective attacking or defensive weapon are the ones who make the highest scores.

Baby Slumbers While 'Crashers' Wreck Party

Philadelphia (AP).—Victoria Costa is only 15 months old and she slept through her christening party, thus missing the free-for-all which ensued when a crowd of unwelcome guests attempted to "crash" the party. The grandparents, four uncles and a guest were treated at a hospital.

What's in Fashion?

Free-and-Easy Raglans Head Fall Topcoat List

Directed by AMOS PARRISH

Information as to where styles of the type illustrated and their variations are available in Washington will be given by the Fashion Department, The Washington Post, on request.

Days like these, when the Earl of Derby goes grouse hunting in the Scotch moors . . . or when Harold Vanderbilt likes to go for a brisk, cool walk over the open spaces . . . And when thousands of Americans feel the need of a new topcoat they can throw on and off . . . They almost all make for raglan topcoats. And thereby feel more comfortable and at ease than in any other coat they know of.

Right there's the raglan's big trick. It's so utterly comfortable. And looks it (without being sloppy). There's something about the easy way the shoulders set and the way the back hangs that gets men.

And it certainly feels comfortable. Nothing tight anywhere. Nothing binding. Nothing tricky or bulky about any part of it. Just a thoroughly outdoors coat that belongs. In the illustration, of course, it's the coat on the left.

Harris Tweeds and Box Plaids.

Of course, the cut of the raglan gives it its big claim to fame. But it's also a coat that lends itself particularly well to certain fabrics which add tremendously to its interest.

Raglan coats and tweed fabrics go together like Laurel and Hardy (both of whom, in serious moments, wear the raglan model topcoats). You'll see raglans in Harris tweeds—with their shaggy effects. You'll see them in plain patterns. And—smarter and newer—you'll notice some of the really distinctive checked effects in which the real Harris tweeds are woven.

And there's still another good Harris tweed pattern—the box plaid. Especially good when its worked out in a subdued, wearable pattern.

Camel's Hair Raglans.

Fleeces are another type of fabric that work up well in raglan topcoats. And, of course, camel hair cloths. You remember that the true polo coat of real camel's hair very often has raglan shoulders . . . a model that's as permanent a part of poloist Tommy Hitchcock's wardrobe as his riding boots.

Herringbones, too, and even nubbed tweeds (not as rough as they used to be) all get along well with the raglan idea. Because they're all fabrics that are comfortable before they're anything else. And because they have that rugged, out-of-doors look that's so essentially raglan.

If you count top coat wearers this fall, you'll find that raglans with plain backs will be just about as popular as half-belted backs. In general, if it's for either country or city wear, yours might well be belt-less.

Prussian Collar Newer.

Finally, there's an interesting variation of the raglan. It'd the newly introduced Prussian collar coat (at the right of the sketch). Has regular raglan shoulders topped by a high military collar with buttons that let you button all the way up to the neck. Worn that way, the coat gives you a short, turned-down Prussian collar. Comfortable when the wind rushes at you in the rumble seat on a chill October night.

Usually, you'll find the buttons on this model are of leather or horn. It's also likely to be slash-pocketed. And the back of it extra full—billows even more than your regular full-back raglan.

Tomorrow: Coats trimmed with brown furs.

Scalloped Oysters.

1 pint oysters
2 cups soft bread crumbs
¼ cup milk
6 tablespoons butter or other fat
Salt and pepper

Oil a baking dish. Put in a layer of crumbs, then a layer of oysters, butter or other fat in little pieces, salt and pepper. Repeat, ending with a layer of crumbs, with small pieces of fat dotted over them. Do not have more than two layers of oysters. Moisten with milk and oyster liquor mixed together. Bake in a moderate oven (350-400 degrees F.) until brown, about half an hour, and serve in the same dish.

Cheaper Meat Cuts Possess Appeal of Own

And They'll Stay Within a Budget Where Chops and Steaks Won't.

If your dinner table is graced either by chops or steaks every day, you can not expect to keep your food budget down to a minimum. Of course, everyone likes chops and steaks, but other meat cuts are equally popular and if they are prepared properly they are just as palatable as the more expensive meats.

These less expensive cuts of meats deserve their share of popularity because they are just as nutritious and healthful as the more expensive.

Since it is not the selection of these meats which troubles the homemaker, but their preparation, the following recipes were selected:

Chuck Steak With Onions.

Two lbs. chuck steak; 5 or 6 onions; fixed flavor star bacon drippings; 2 teaspoons salt; ½ teaspoon pepper.

Brown steak quickly on both sides in hot frying pan, reduce the heat and turn the meat frequently until cooked through, about 30 minutes. Slice onions in water, drain and put in covered saucepan. Cook slowly until tender, uncover and brown slightly if desired. Season steak with salt and pepper and serve with onions surrounding the meat. Serves 5.

Flank Steak en Casserole

Trim and remove membrane from a flank steak. Score across the grain at intervals of about 1 inch. Cut rather deeply but not through. Rub 2 teaspoons dry mustard with 1 teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon pepper into the cut surface. Place in well greased casserole. Cover with 2 seeded sweet green peppers, ½ Spanish onion and a few sprigs of parsley, chopped together. Pour over this 2 cups well seasoned okra or tomatoes. Cover the top with 2 cups cooked rice or macaroni. Serves 5 to 6.

Pot Roast With Spaghetti.

Four to 5 pounds round of beef; 1 pound spaghetti; 2 cups canned tomatoes; ¼ pound beef suet; 1 large onion; 1 large green pepper; 2 slices of bacon; 3 bay leaves; 6 cloves; 1 clove of garlic; 1 cup hot water; grated cheese; salt and pepper.

Chop suet and bacon, and fry. Add onion, garlic and green pepper finally chopped, and when they begin to brown, add the meat. Brown it on both sides and then add water, tomatoes and seasoning. Simmer gently 3 hours, add 2 teaspoons salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Cook the spaghetti, drain and add to the meat mixture. Let cook for 10 minutes. Serve the meat on a platter with the sauce either in a separate dish or around the meat. Sprinkle the cheese over the sauce. Serves six.

Lamb in Tomatoes.

1½ pounds lamb shoulder steaks; 1 cup bread crumbs; 1 small onion; 1 teaspoon salt; poultry seasoning; 1 can tomatoes or 1 quart fresh tomatoes cut in slices; 1 teaspoon pepper.

Wipe meat with a damp cloth and spread with a layer of bread crumbs mixed with the minced onion and other seasonings. Roll and tie into shape. Place in a casserole or other dish with a close fitting cover. Pour the tomatoes over the meat and cook very slowly in the oven or on top of the stove for 3 to 4 hours. If the tomatoes do not cover the meat, add a little boiling water.

Cars Run Wild, Wreck Same Shop Five Times

Seattle (AP).—The McCanns wish people would stop parking cars at a certain spot on Spring street. It's legal to do so, but, as R. J. McCann told police: "It's on a hill and five parked cars have slipped their brakes and come crashing downhill through the front window of the McCann Printing Co. That's too many. There ought to be a law."

Voting on Road Plan Assured In Arlington

Sufficient Signatures for Petition Expected; NRA Drive Gains.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Cla. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Declaring petitions are being signed rapidly in all voting precincts, B. M. Smith, county board member, predicted yesterday that more than the required 2,500 signatures would be obtained by Saturday night for the special election on the adoption of the Byrd road plan.

Mr. Smith said adoption of the road plan would save almost enough taxes to take care of the proposed sewer bond issue. If the plan is not adopted, he added, an increase in taxes will be necessary.

NRA Reports Filed.

Two majors in the NRA drive reported yesterday that all consumers in their territories have signed pledges. They were Mrs. Katherine Cohen, in charge of the area including Clarendon, Lyon Park and Ashton Heights, and Robert S. Simpson, whose territory extended west from Glebe road to the Fairfax County line and north of the Lee Highway to the Potomac River.

Gen. Harry A. Fellows said majors and captains will meet tomorrow night at the courthouse to make reports.

The Volunteer Fire Department, of Herndon, Va., is holding its annual carnival each evening this week. The celebration, scheduled for last week, was postponed on account of rain.

T. Edgar Reed, chairman; Leonard L. Berger, E. M. Armfield, Arnold Greear, Walter Farr, John Hurst and Archie Hummer make up the arrangements committee. Thomas Goff has charge of lighting and J. H. Spring, decorations.

These firemen are taking the State training course in Alexandria: Archie Hummer, Culver Gaies, Clarence Lee and William Andres.

Radio Waves and Ripples

WOL and the Amalgamated Broadcasting network get started next week with a daily program schedule running from 7 a. m. to midnight.

After a four-hour inaugural which will microphone Symphony Conductor Adolphe Kornspan, Soloist James Rich and others from New York starting at 8 o'clock Monday night, WOL will begin Tuesday to undertake 17-hour daily schedules.

Heretofore, WOL broadcasters have had to be satisfied with an abbreviated schedule with a sign-off from 1 to 3 in the afternoon and a 9 p. m. closing.

Arthur Godfrey overslept yesterday.

That's what was wrong with WMAL'S Breakfast Club program.

In Godfrey's absence, Eddie Berg, studio engineer, did the best he could. He dashed from control room to microphone, making frantic announcements, playing records. It wasn't until 8:45 that Assistant N. B. C. Manager Carlton Smith came in to help out. Things went a little better then.

N. B. C. bosses spoke to Godfrey yesterday, so probably it won't happen again.

Whitecaps Tonight.

Mills Brothers, 6:30; Boswell Sisters, 7; Mark Warnow, 8, WJSV. Vallee and Calloway, 7; Show Boat, 8; Jolson and Whiteman, 9, WRC. Arcade Sunshine Orchestra, 7:30; Ernie Holst, 11; Dancing in Twin Cities, 11:30, WMAL. Wrestling, 9:30, WOL.

Regardless of what baseball's big minds ultimately may decide about world series broadcasts, N. B. C. thinkers here have come to their own conclusions about radiating news of a Washington pennant to the loud-speakers.

Since Tuesday WRC and WMAL announcers and engineers have been at Griffith Stadium waiting for the Nats to win the American League championship. When they do, from a microphone near the home dugout will come an account of how it happened, while another radiocaster will be in the clubhouse to catch Joe Cronin's atheletes for interviews.

Waves.

"If I hadn't heard you with my own ears, I never would have believed anyone could get romance out of a mushroom."

That's what WJSV Announcer Robert Trout would have said during the Borden After-Dinner Club broadcast last night if he hadn't learned about Singer James Wilkinson's number being entitled "Song of Mush On," instead of "Song of Mushroom."

Rather than write continuity about an Alaska dog team, Trout induced WJSV bosses to find another song for Wilkinson.

WRC signed a new commercial program yesterday, naming it "Jewels at Eventide" for the sponsor, Jeweler George Horning. It starts Sunday at 5:30 with Barytone James Wilkinson, Soprano Agnes Fisher, a Rudolph Schramm ensemble and a yet-unnamed somebody to read Eddie Guest poems.

Aunt Sue (Dorothy Stewart), Polly (Kate Speicher) and Bowser (a dog record), celebrate a year of broadcasting children's programs for WRC Tuesday. They'll have a birthday party, but by raido only.

NBC has stepped up to help the NRA solve the leisure-time problem. Sportsman Edward R. Wilbur will take care of hunting and fishing Wednesday afternoon. Golf is next, with Harold H. Ramsay, former U. S. Golf Association president, radiocasting its advantages October 4. Columbia University's Ordway Tead, Artist Vernon Grant, and Astronomist Clyde Fisher, of the American Museum of Natural History, are some others.

Both Columbia and NBC plan broadcasts of Europe's NRA views. Recently home from a European survey, H. V. Kaltenborn, Columbia commentator, microphones "Does Europe like the NRA?" tomorrow night at 5:45.

Edward Doran, House of Commons member, will tell what England thinks of the New Deal from an N. B. C. microphone in New York at 6 p. m. tomorrow.

NBC has released a football broadcast schedule. Northwestern-Stanford at Evanston, October 14; Army-Illinois, Cleveland, October 21, and Yale-Army, New Haven, October 28 are earlier contests.

The Willard is arranging for a big audience for the Spitalny broadcast at 7:30 tomorrow night.

The reason: Kegs of beer are to be tapped when the microphoning's over.

Ripples.

Columbia's NRA announced speakers for next week yesterday numbered five—Farm Administrator George Peek, Texas Congressman Sam Rayburn, Yale University President James Rowland Angell, Georgetown University Regent Edmund A. Walsh and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler . . . the Fred Buchholz party for the ball team at the Occidental Monday night will be radioed from WMAL . . . the Russian Symphonic Choir, Sunday at 12:15 p. m., and National Opera at 2, look good for listeners who like their music along classical lines . . . both are NBC listings . . . the Stone family—Fred, Mrs. Stone, Dorothy, Paula and Carol—tabloid Herbert's "Red Mill" for NBC Sunday night . . . and the Ipana Troubadours return to the air waves next Wednesday . . . Vincent Callahan has promised the Kiwanis Club, WRC-WMAL entertainers, Rudolph Schramm, Rose Chanelle, Marie Cowler, Bert Bagranoff, George Reid and Arthur Godfrey for today's luncheon meeting at the Mayflower . . . WJSV Engineer Earl Merryman has torn out and made over the Willard's public address system.

Montgomery Club Group Nominated

Nominations for the Montgomery County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs, to be elected in November, were announced yesterday by Mrs. James D. King, president, as follows: Mrs. Arthur L. Smith, Lay Hill, president; Mrs. John Darby, Boyds, first vice president; Mrs. A. D. Oursler, Spencerville, second vice president; Mrs. H. H. Selby, Gaithersburg, secretary; Mrs. William Ward, Travilllah.

Members of the nominating committee were Mrs. Clagett Hilton, Barnesville, chairman; Mrs. Celeste Beall, Cedar Grove; Mrs. Mary Clagett, Travillah; Mrs. Mary Millstead, Burnt Mills; Mrs. Alma Smith, Wheaton.

Auto Strippers Rob Kin of Police Judge

Being grandson of a police court judge didn't help John Sheriff, Hyattsville, with auto strippers.

Sheriff, grandson of Judge J. Chew Sheriff, Prince Georges County police judge, parked his car behind the Prince Georges County Bank at Hyattsville. When he returned the car rested on four blocks, wheels, windshield and accessories stripped.

Library Group Meets Friday.

A special meeting of the Silver Spring Public Library Association advisory council will be held Friday night in the county building at Silver Spring. A card party will be planned for next month.

Miss Rand Named University Teacher

Appointed Public Speaking Instructor at Maryland.

Virginia A. Rand, 1359 Meridian place northwest, has been appointed public speaking instructor at the University of Maryland, it was announced yesterday.

Miss Rand, daughter of Dr. Frederick V. Rand, Agriculture Department pathologist, is director of the Mount Pleasant Players. She was graduated from Central High School in 1929 and from Syracuse University last June.

Miss Rand was president of the Woman's Student Senate at Syracuse and was voted one of the most popular coeds.

Lyon, Ardent Dry, Opposes Local Option

Virginia Realtor Believes Enforcement Would Be Impossible.

Although he will vote against repeal when Virginia goes to the polls, Frank Lyon will, in event of repeal, vote against prohibition in State and local elections.

Lyon, founder of Lyon Village, in Arlington County, gave his views to Deets Pickett, of the prohibition emergency movement at Richmond, in a letter yesterday. He has refused nomination for lieutenant governor on the Prohibition ticket. He accused Postmaster General Farley of forcing Democrats to vote for repeal.

"If the dry law is repealed," Lyon wrote Pickett, "and I have no doubt it will be, I will be against prohibition in the State or locally. In my judgment, with modern transportation, local and State prohibition would be futile."

Lyon stated he was not opposed to the saloon or to liquor being consumed on the premises where it has been purchased.

"I am against having it come into the homes of the people to be drunk in the presence of women and children," he asserted.

Prohibition, under repeal, could not be enforced if the entire Army were at the disposal of the dry forces, said Lyon.

"I shall attempt to provide a place, after repeal, where men of ordinary means may drink, giving him the same opportunity as the well-to-do in their clubs."

Marie Dressler Pays Capital Unexpected Visit—The New Week's Theater Bills

Noted Actress Enjoying Rest From Pictures

Reasserts Patriotic Views of Old Wartime Days in Brief Interview.

Fifteen years or more ago, a group of Hollywood's most distinguished personalities came to Washington to lend glamour, the inspiration and the persuasiveness of their presence to one of Uncle Sam's most intensive Liberty Loan drives.

Foremost among them were Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Charlie Chaplin and Marie Dressler. The biggest of their rallies and the one touching off the most red fire was held in the Central High School auditorium.

Doug Fairbanks, ignoring the presence of steps, bounded upon the rostrum and with a characteristic display of his ebullient athleticism exhorted the huge crowd to buy to the last penny of their resources; "Our Mary," with her then still extant blonde curls draped demurely over her shoulders, added her ingenuous appeal to her future husband's and Charlie Chaplin, by the sheer drollery of his clowning, added the humorous touch that made sacrifice a pleasure and the purchase of Liberty Bonds a privilege.

Then to the front of the platform stepped Marie Dressler, grand dame of the stage and screen, who, by the grace, dignity and quiet forcefulness of her bearing, the depth of heart, sympathy of viewpoint and power of her intellect was to "steal the show" so completely that no one remembered, after she had finished, that any of the others had even so much as opened their mouths.

For Country First.

The same passionate patriotism, the impulses of the same deeply sympathetic heart and the powerful logic of the same perceptive and analytical mind that actuated Marie Dressler back in the crimson days of 1917 and 1918 today inspire her to like dedication of her manifold endowments to the welfare of her country in these days of another sort of crisis.

During the course of a visit of considerable length at the Mayflower yesterday afternoon, where she had arrived unexpectedly and without fanfare, it was virtually impossible to induce Miss Dressler to discuss herself or her personal plans for the immediate future.

"What is there to say about me?" she asked. "What do I matter? What does any individual matter in times like these? The only concern of any of us should be our country. The United States of America, at the moment, is all that matters.

Inspired by March.

"If you could have been with me in New York the day of the NRA parade, this would have been borne in upon you with irresistible force. For hours past the last flicker of daylight into the darkness of night, uninspired by the blare of bands, the rattle of drums or the blaset of trumpets, went the steady, rhythmic tramp-tramp, tramp-tramp; tramp-tramp, tramp-tramp of marching feet of thousands of grim Americans moved by a tremendous hope and urged on by a mighty determination.

MARIE DRESSLER.

"For the first time since the crash, they had something tangible to which to pin their faith; a bright star to follow. Franklin D. Roosevelt is as bright a guiding star in the heavens of America's hope as the Star of Bethlehem was to the Three Wise Men, 2,000 years ago—and I say that with all reverence.

"Those marching hosts under my window there in New York knew what they wanted, knew how best to get it and will see to it that the slackerism, the profiteering and the other abuses of war times are not permitted to be revived to impede this vast plan to set the Nation back on its feet."

Health Fully Restored.

One gathers that Miss Dressler—although she will not commit herself to the definite statement—is at least tentatively giving thought to an active public campaign on behalf of the NRA, precisely such as she carried on in behalf of the Liberty Loans a decade and a half ago.

The one impediment to a rigorous campaign in support of the recovery program is the lack of strength following five years of illness and suffering.

"It is a new experience for me," she explains, "to have to consider any sort of physical limitations. I was never seriously ill until I was past 60. Since then I have undergone two operations and the doctors insisted after the last one that all I needed for an entire restoration to health was rest and complete mental and bodily relaxation for about a year. So during that year I made four pictures!

"Despite that and the consequent retardation to speedy recovery, I now am cured. Well, physically and mentally fit, and in Washington finally to get some of the rest the doctors say I should have had months ago. I will be in the Capital for three or four days more, visiting points of interest—beginning with the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier this afternoon, as soon as I have seen Jimmy Sloan, an old and dear friend of the Secret Service—renewing old acquaintanceships, making a few official calls and having a good time generally. It is the first time I have been here since Harding, kindliest and most lovable of men, was in the White House. I shall be in the East altogether about six weeks and at the end of that time will return to Hollywood.

Has No "Politics."

"No, I think I shall never return to the stage. Those days are definitely over, and if you go back with me, as you say, to the old Weber and Fields days, or beyond—and frankly I didn't think anybody that old was still alive!—you will understand that.

"Politics? I have no politics. I'm neither Democrat nor Republican; not a Socialist or a Prohibitionist. I'm just an American. And I am an American by the promptings of my deepest nature and the truest instincts of my heart and mind. I have no naturalization papers. I am an American by profund conviction and wholehearted devotion, just as I am honestly and profoundly religious without being a churchwoman. These things are a matter of heart, not outward show or party or denominational affiliation."

Miss Dressler, it may be remarked, was born a Canadian.

Like all successful actors and actresses she is intensely emotional. In conversation, beyond an occasional flash of keen wit or the fashioning of a breezy mot, she is not the comedienne the screen so persistently represents her to be.

When discussing topics close to her heart, her eyes are as apt as not to fill with tears—as during her description of her reactions to the NRA demonstration in New York, following which she says she cried to her heart's content for full two hours.

A gracious lady, a great artiste and a grand character, Marie Dressler. The Nation in its periods of stress has all too few of her to teach priceless lessons in fearlessness, fortitude and faith to souls less staunch in their allegiance.

And so to the screen attractions for the new week, which will be as set forth the other side of the short dash.

Ricardo Cortez, Claudette Colbert in "Torch Singer"—Earle.

Guy Kibbee, May Robson in "Lady for a Day"—RKO-Keith's.

Judith Allen, Richard Cromwell in "This Day and Age"—Loew's Fox.

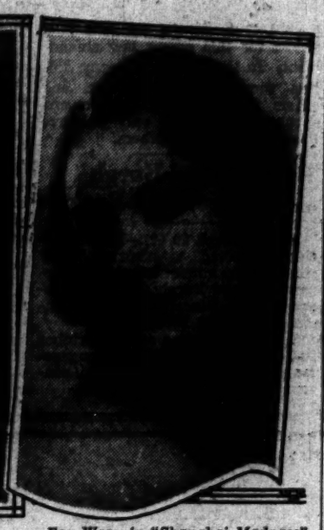
Henrietta Crosman in "Pilgrimage" —Palace.



Fay Wray in "Shanghai Madness" —Columbia.

May Robson in Greatest Film Hit of Career

If we are to believe what we see on the screen, there is nothing that a film hero—or a villain, for that matter—can not do.

If the heavy-jowled gangster points his gun at the light and pulls the trigger, the light goes out. There are no misses on the screen. When the score is tied, and the jaunty polo player swings his mallet, his shot counts. It might seem as if leading men must be selected for their special abilities, but it is not so. Their screen prowess is not the result of long practice, nor yet of the manipulation of mirrors. In the movies, wonders are worked by special scenes called "inserts."

An excellent example of an "insert" occurs in "Lady For a Day," the Columbia picture which comes to Keith's as the fourth of the RKO "Greater Show Season" attractions today. Guy Kibbee as "Judge" Blake, the husband of Annie, played by May Robson, is a pool shark. Now Guy Kibbee can play pool, but he would hate to stake a dollar—not to speak of his week's salary—on his ability to pocket the fifteen balls in a single run. He does so in the picture. Three were pocketed on one shot; a final coup pocketed six, one in each pocket. The camera returns to Guy Kibbee between the shots and shows his satisfied expression at having made the difficult and spectacular shots. No one will doubt that it is Guy Kibbee's handicraft. Actually the "shots" of the pool table were taken long before.

"Lady For a Day," Damon Runyon's story of a hard-boiled gambler with a soft spot in his heart, is one of the year's best "audience" pictures.

May Robson plays a leading role, that of "Apple Anne," a street beggar, transformed overnight into a society leader through the beneficence of a gambler. Warren William plays the gambler, with Guy Kibbee, Glenda Farrell, Ned Sparks, Jean Parker, Barry Norton and Walter Connolly in the cast. The picture was directed by Frank Capra.

Anniversary a Source of Joy

Even if Loew's Fox Theater were not observing its sixth anniversary this week, Washingtonians would find cause for celebration in the stage and screen attractions to be inaugurated tomorrow.

Before the footlights, a group of exceptional performers are led by America's queen of tantalizing harmony, the Boswell Sisters, Connie, Martha and Vet. They strike a most responsive chord with an offering of vocal harmony that has made these sisters the delight of millions of radio audiences.

On the talking screen, the first great spectacle of modern times, produced by the screen's master of spectacles, Cecil B. De Mille, is presented in "This Day and Age." Despite its modern setting, the spectacular and startling are not absent from this film. Youth on the rampage against a racketeer, who literally gets away with murder, provides not only a novel sequence of events in the story but leads to a climax which entitles this latest opus of De Mille's to a place among the epics.

Prominent in the cast are Charles Bickford, Ben Alexander, George Barbier, Eddie Nugent, Billy Gilbert, Judith Allen in her screen debut, Harry Green and others. In addition, something new is presented in the spectacle of seven children of seven famous screen fathers appearing in roles in this film.

They are Wally Reid, jr., Eric von Stroheim, jr., Conway Tearle, jr., Bryant Washburn, jr., Neal Hart, jr., Elsie Ferguson 2d, Carlyle Blackwell, jr., and the leading juvenile star of today, Richard Cromwell.

Others on the stage bill are Leon Navara, who offers humor at the piano; Herbert Faye, who presents Phil Silvers, Bobby Janis and Daisy Bernies in songs, comedy and patter, and the comedy trampoline act of Monroe and Grant. Phil Lampkin also offers a special birthday overture of considerable appeal.

A New Colbert Tops at Earle

The program opening tomorrow at Warner Brothers' Earle Theater brings to the screen Claudette Colbert in the type of role in which she is best liked. It is in Paramount's "Torch Singer," a fascinating tale of a singer of torrid songs, Phil Spitalny and his Golden Rod Orchestra, in their second week's engagement, present an entirely new program of musical numbers.

"Torch Singer," adapted from the magazine story, "Mike," is Paramount's answer to popular demand that Miss Colbert be given "bad-girl" roles. Cast in the role of Sally Trent, Miss Colbert portrays a New York show girl in love with a scion of one of the town's wealthiest families. Deserted just as she learns she is to bear his child, she becomes hard, vindictive and bitter. Forced to give up her child for adoption, she becomes a brazen torch singer. When she becomes a success, she finds she hasn't been able to stifle her longing for the child and institutes a nation-wide search. Her romance and return to happiness provide "Torch Singer" with a plot of surprises and suspense.

Presenting an entirely new program, Phil Spitalny and his famous Golden Rod Orchestra of radio fame remain at the Earle for a second week. With 32 singers, dancers and comedians, Spitalny puts on a whole show by himself, with one-half hour of the snappiest, most tuneful and most original musical novelties ever presented on a Washington musical stage. He again presents, during the course of his act, another surprise act which is well worth waiting for.

Other acts on the program are Stan Kavanaugh, a favorite comedian; Allen and Kent Four, in "Today and Yesterday," a kaleidoscopic revue, and Gracie Barrie, new mistress of ceremonies.

Special short-reel subjects, the latest issue of the Graham MacNamee newsreel and the Earle Orchestral Prelude complete the program.

A Bitter Love Basis of Film

Washington is certain to acclaim "Pilgrimage" vociferously as a drama of tremendous sweep that makes splendid entertainment. It will be seen on the screen at Loew's Palace Theater tomorrow.

"Pilgrimage" marks the consummation of one of the most completely beautiful productions of recent months. It possesses the sweep of "Cavalcade" and the intimate amenities of "State Fair," combining these elements into a unity of entertainment that would be hard to surpass.

In the role of a mother who strives bitterly to keep her son to herself and from the woman he loves, Henrietta Crosman gives a superb performance. She brings every ounce of her many years' experience on the stage and screen to give vitality to this characterization.

The film is a picturization of the story by Mrs. I. A. R. Wylie, widely known for her consistently appealing novels, and was directed by John Ford, who has met success with such productions as "Arrowsmith," "Lightnin'," "Up the River," and many others.

Heather Angel makes her American screen debut as a featured player in a cast that also includes Marian Nixon, Norman Foster, Charles Grapewine, Betty Blythe, the famous screen vamp in a comeback role; Lucille La Verne, Louise Carter, Hedda Hopper and many others.

This gripping story that has been awarded four stars and popular acclaim after its world premiere in New York recently, revolves about the life of a mother, who tears the memory of her son from her heart, sends him to war and to death, because she wants to keep him for herself.

Reopening Hit An Extra Week

With three of Hollywood's great stars giving their finest performance, "I Loved a Woman," with Kay Francis, Edward G. Robinson and Genevieve Tobin, is being held over for a second week at Warner Bros. Metropolitan Theater. This exceptional reopening program will end its full run on Thursday night to make way for a new attraction.

Two of the truly great dramatic artists are for the first time brought together as screen lovers in "I Loved a Woman." They are Kay Francis and Edward G. Robinson, each of whom has been starred separately in many pictures—in all of which they have given unforgettable characterizations.

"I Loved a Woman" tells the story of a rising operatic star who inspires a wealthy young man with her own ambition to gain power. Both in their own ways are utterly ruthless in battling for world conquests.

In addition to Kay Francis, Edward G. Robinson and Genevieve Tobin the cast includes such well-known players as J. Farrell MacDonald, Henry Kolker, Robert Barrat, George Blackwood, Murray Kinnell and Henry O'Neill. The film is based on a story by David Karanar, author of "Silver Dollar."

The short-reel subjects include a new Vitaphone subject featuring Walter Donaldson, and the latest issues of the Paramount Sound News.

Exciting Play Columbia Lure

The popular exponent of screen excitement, Spencer Tracy, brings plenty of adventure and romance to the screen at Loew's Columbia for the week beginning tomorrow in "Shanghai Madness," as kaleidoscopic and exciting a yarn as Hollywood has ever attempted to make.

"Shanghai Madness" offers a pulsing romance laid amid the intrigue and excitement of Shanghai and teems with action. It is set against a colorful, ever-shifting background as it traces the adventures of Tracy, who offers a superlative characterization.

The cast is studded with the names of popular screen players, which, in addition to Tracy, includes Fay Wray, Herbert Mundin, Ralph Morgan and Eugene Pallette in the principal roles.

The story revolves about the exploits of Tracy, an American naval officer, who, through Oriental intrigue, becomes involved in an affair that forces him to resign his rank. He becomes a wanderer and participates in many adventures that culminate in romance and restoration of his military standing.

John Blystone, one of the more successful of Hollywood directors, held the megaphone for this Fox production, based on the story by Frederick Hazlitt Brennan.

Diverting short subjects, news features and a comedy augment the picture.

"Tiger" Seeks Party Unity After Split

Tammany Lays Plans for Ballot Fight With Fusionists.

New York, Sept. 20 (AP).—Tammany Hall, stunned by the rupture of the organization ticket in the primary election, tonight made plans to meet the Fusion onslaught in November.

Tammany leaders moved to make peace with Frank J. Prial, who defeated by 88,000 votes the organization nominee for comptroller. He was the first to win a major inter-party victory over Tammany.

Prial, many leaders said, would strengthen the Democratic ticket, headed by Mayor John P. O'Brien, who was renominated.

Said Tammany Chieftain John F. Curry:

"The decisive vote cast in the primary election for Mayor O'Brien assures victory for all the Democratic nominees on election day. Mr. Prial will be the next comptroller."

Asked whether he would support Mayor O'Brien, Prial said:

"Why not?"

Threatens McCooey Machine.

Prial's victory threatened the Brooklyn organization of John H. McCooey, Tammany ally who selected John N. Harman for comptroller.

The final vote was:

Prial, 241,857; Harman, 153,722.

The final vote on the mayoralty nomination was:

O'Brien, 277,899; Black, 97,499; Ambro, 27,443.

In the defeat of three district leaders, backers of Curry, was seen a threat to his continuation as Tammany ruler.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, was defeated for reelection.

Prial's Victory Pleases.

Meanwhile, Fiorello H. LaGuardia, nominated for mayor on the Republican ticket, and other fusion leaders refrained from comment. They made no secret of their pleasure over the primary results.

Prial's victory was pleasing to fusionists. It was accepted as an indication of weakening of the McCooey's machine.

McCooey agreed with party leaders—that Prial's victory was due to the work of civil service employes, expressing dissatisfaction with pay cuts and loyal to Prial, veteran officeholder and their acknowledged spokesman.

Factions Study Keystone Vote

Vare Machine Candidates Survive Election, But Margin Narrow.

Philadelphia, Sept. 20 (AP).—The Republican organization, badly jolted in Pennsylvania primaries, checked returns today and found most of its candidates had survived the onslaught.

There were no state-wide contests yesterday, but there were battles in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, where the results were studied in connection with the next campaign for United States senator and governor.

In Philadelphia, not only the regular organization, headed by William S. Vare, but the "old guard" Democratic organization had a hard time of it, the latter meeting defeat.

In Pittsburgh, the Republican organization came through with a sweeping victory for John S. Herron for the mayoralty nomination. Political observers profess to see in the Pittsburgh victory strong support for the renomination of Senator David A. Reed, who may have Gov. Pinchot as his opponent.

The hardest jolt in the State was given the Vare faction in Philadelphia, which was successful by the smallest majorities given the organization since 1910. It lost 15 of the 50 wards.

Man, 88, on First Hop, Flies to Fair

Predecessor, 80, Was Just "Young Fellow," He Says.

Chicago, Sept. 20 (AP).—Loren Morrison, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, at the age of 80, recently made his first airplane trip and smoked his first cigarette.

Capt. Martin L. Hissem, of Newark, N. J., read an item about it, and came here today on an airplane, saying "Morrison was only a young fellow on his first flight, as I am 88."

Hissem had never been close to an airplane before flying here.

Chicago Students Protest Economies

1,500 Walk Out of Classes for March on City Hall.

Chicago, Sept. 20 (AP).—Fifteen hundred high school students went on strike today, but police resistance turned many back from a march on the city hall.

Hand bills calling students to join the strike in protest of slashes in school expense continued to be distributed, but officials declared the movement had been ended.

Twenty students were arrested, but most were released.

St. Louis Has Only One Sleeping Death in Day

St. Louis, Sept. 20 (AP).—With but one reported death in the last 24 hours, health officials here remained confident that "sleeping sickness," was fast receding.

Twenty-two new cases were reported in the area today, bringing the total since July 30 to 910. There have been 160 deaths.

Patent Office Runs Into Red Because of Red, Red Rose

Law Granting Protection to Plants Puts Cost Above Revenue.

With economy the watch word, the Patent Office is about to run into the red—and this on account of the red, red rose.

About two years ago, after a lifelong struggle, the plant growers of America got through Congress bills amending the United States patent laws so that agriculture, so far as practicable, might benefit in the patent system with industry.

Provisions of Bill.

The bill, introduced by Senator John G. Townsend, jr., of Delaware, and Representative Fred S. Purnell, of Indiana, provided that "any person who invents or discovers a new and distinct variety of plant shall be given by patent an exclusive right to propagate that plant by asexual reproduction; that is, by grafting, budding, cutting, layering, division, and the like, but not by seeds."

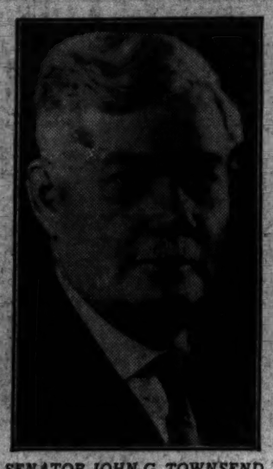
With the patent, the inventor must file a very finely colored drawing, showing the distinct characteristic of the flower, or plant, or whatever it is. Thereby hangs the story of the Patent Office going into the red.

Up to this date the Patent Office has been self-sustaining. It sells its patent descriptions for 10 cents. Now that coloring has entered the scheme, the dime pays only a small part of the expense. Forsooth, it costs about $2.50 to print 100 drawings that sell for a dime each, a loss of 15 cents on each drawing.

Uncle Sam Unworried.

However, that does not worry Uncle Sam. A great deal of good has been accomplished by this amendment to the patent laws. To date, 73 patents have been filed for flowers and plants of all sorts, including the old-fashioned red rose.

One of the first to take out a patent on flowers was the present Secretary of the Interior, Harold



SENATOR JOHN G. TOWNSEND.

L. Ickes. His is Plant Patent No. 19, granted July 19, 1932, and covers a dahlia of coral red color, shading to Eugenia red toward the center.

Luther Burbank and Thomas A. Edison were among the first crusaders for this patent law amendment. In the meantime, many dollars were lost by Burbank and others who invented new flowers, shrubs, and plants, only to have them taken up by others.

State Rests Charges In Invalid Girl's Death

Sulphur Springs, Tex., Sept. 20 (AP).—The State rested today in the trial of Coy Oakley, religious zealot, charged with murdering Bernice Clayton, 3-year-old invalid, after introducing statements of the defendant intended to show that he was sane.

The State's move was designed to nullify efforts of Oakley's counsel, who planned to plead temporary insanity.

Insull Crash Takes Fortune Of Studebaker

Famous Wagon Builder, Worth $3,500,000, Now Bankrupt.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 20 (AP). Virtually penniless and with no plans for the future, Col. George Milburn Studebaker, scion of a pioneer Indiana manufacturing family, sat in his 64-room house today, a victim of the Insull Utilities collapse.

The 68-year-old man, whose fortune four or five years ago was estimated at $3,500,000, filed a bankruptcy plea in Federal court today. He put his assets at less than $5,000 and his debts as approximately $2,500,000.

Born to wealth as the son of one of the five Studebaker brothers, who made fortunes out of wagon building and later in the manufacture of automobiles, Col. Studebaker personally increased his holdings as the years rolled by.

He withdrew from the Studebaker Corporation ten years ago to give all his time to his personal investments. He became interested in a watch company, a mail order house, a radio corporation and finally in public utilities. His fortune grew with his investments.

Finally, he became heavily involved in the powerful group of holdings of which Samuel Insull, sr., was the head. When those holdings collapsed and Insull fled to Greece, the colonel's fortune dwindled rapidly until today he said he had no more money.

Not like any other cigarette

The United States Government granted Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company the right to use "Chesterfield" for cigarettes

THIS means that the Chesterfield formula—that is, the leaf and the manufacturing formula—is different from that of other cigarettes.

For a cigarette to be milder and to taste better, it has to have in it ripe, mild, mellow tobacco, and the right quantity of the right kinds of Turkish tobacco. Then the cigarette has to be made right.

You can prove for yourself that Chesterfields are not like other cigarettes. They're milder . . . they taste better.

Traction Gains Enliven Sales On Exchange

Washington Market Lists Also Heavy Trading in Mergenthalers.

Trading on Washington Stock Exchange yesterday was enlivened to some extent by fairly heavy transactions in Capital Traction and Mergenthaler Linotype shares. Eighty shares of the former changed hands at 12½, making 2½ points gain.

There were six transactions in this stock, an ihitial one of 10, followed by turnovers of 50, 9, 4, 1, and 6 shares. Mergenthaler moved in five blocks of 10 shares each, at 25, half point decline. Four shares of Potomac Electric Power 5½ preferred traded at 108, last sale figure, and 10 of Washington Railway & Electric preferred at 86, fractional gain. After call, 15 shares more moved in trades of 10 at 86½, and 5 at 86⅝.

Business was more quiet in the bond division. One sale of $500 Capital Traction 5s at 55, 5-point rise, and $500 in Washington Gas Light 6s, Series B, at 103½, fractional advance, were recorded.

Schreiner Is Selected.

A most suitable selection for the chairmanship of the committee on public speaking and debate for this year's school term of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, was announced yesterday.

Robert H. Lacey, cashier, Columbia National Bank, and chapter president, has chosen E. Wallace Schreiner, First National Bank of Alexandria, Va., for this position. Mr. Schreiner was the first member of Washington Chapter to represent it in the national oratorical contests of the institute, held annually.

Mr. Lacey explained that while students are not required to complete the public speaking course in order to obtain a certificate of graduation, the course is considered an essential part of the institute's educational work. Classes will be conducted on Friday evenings during the entire school year.

Mr. Lacey stated that considerable progress has been made in this work by the local chapter during the past three years. In 1931, there were 14 certificates awarded to students who completed this course under institute requirements, the first presented local chapter members.

In the same year the chapter entered its first contestant to compete for the prizes offered under the $50,000 A. P. Giannini Endowment Fund. In each succeeding year Washington Chapter has had students successfully complete this course and has sent a representative to the Giannini district contest.

Bankers Aid Work.

In 1932, this work was further stimulated when, through the cooperation of a number of senior bankers the "Bank Presidents' Trophy" was donated to be competed for in the chapter's annual public speaking contest. Mr. Lacey commended the splendid work of Dr. George Farnham, under whose instructorship the class has made new records.

The chairman, Mr. Schreiner, was graduated from the Alexandria High School and later attended Strayer's College. He holds the institute's standard and public speaking certificates, and won the "Bank Presidents' Trophy" this year. He represented Washington Chapter in the 1933 Giannini district contest, winning first place over contestants from Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina.

This victory entitled him to represent this district in the finals of the national public speaking contest at the Chicago convention last June, with his railroad fare and expenses paid. Mr. Schreiner won third place among nine finalists and received a cash prize of $200. He has served on the chapter's educational and other committees and is a member of the board of governors.

Serving with Mr. Schreiner as members of his committee will be Joseph R. Fitzpatrick, Second National Bank; J. Earle McGeary, W. B. Hibbs & Co.; Alfred W. Sherman, American Security & Trust Co., and Alice H. Whitton, First National Bank of Alexandria.

Booker Back Home.

Y. E. Booker, of Y. E. Booker & Co., investment firm, is back in the city after a week's vacation in Connecticut.

President Robert V. Fleming, Riggs National Bank, who is second vice president of the American Bankers Association, has left for Colorado Springs to attend the quarterly meeting of the directorate of Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Mr. Fleming is treasurer of the national chamber.

Secretary-Treasurer J. Horace Smithey, of the Chevy Chase Building & Loan Association, Inc., has returned from Chicago. He attended the forty-first annual convention of the United States Building & Loan League in that city. This convention was the largest in the history of the league. There were delegates from every State in attendance.

Foreign Markets.

London, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—A firmer tendency prevailed on the stock exchange today and trading was more active. Gold mining shares were supported, due to the rise of the price of bar gold to a new high record, but closed under the best. International issues developed irregularity, while German bonds, overshadowed by political considerations, were again weak. The market closed quiet.

Paris—Heaviness developed in electric, rubber, Rio Tintos and Royal Dutch shares on the bourse today. Rentes and Suez issues, however, held steady, while oil shares were stronger in a light market. The closing was irregular.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse were firmer and business was more active. Quotations were generally better and the market closed cheerful.

Bright Homes To Be Built in Slum District

St. Louis, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—A city block of modern, multifamily dwellings with ample lawns and playgrounds is to supplant part of the "blighted area" on the fringe of downtown St. Louis, where low-income families now live in squalor.

And rents in "Neighborhood Gardens," as the development is to be called, will be low enough to enable present residents to keep on living in the old neighborhood—but amid vastly changed conditions.

For as little as $17 a month, a family will be able to rent an apartment in the fireproof, efficiently designed buildings, with heat and hot and cold water furnished.

Financing of Project.

The project, financed by $125,000 pledged by six St. Louis men and a $500,000 Federal Government loan, is the realization of the dream of J. A. Wolf, director of the Neighborhood Association, a social center.

Wolf decided that if the work of his organization was to be effective, he must, first of all, change the surroundings—the environment—in which the people of his community existed.

He went to Europe, studied the low-cost housing projects of Germany and other countries.

Bright Outlook Planned.

As a start toward his goal of a "slumless St. Louis," he had architects design a housing project for 250 families, not a crowded, bleak walls-and-sidewalk affair, but a bright, cheerful group of buildings with colored terra-cotta trimmings and tile roofs, and with two-thirds of the ground space reserved for landscaping.

He persuaded the St. Louis backers to take 5½ per cent second mortgage bonds for the money they advanced. The NRA loan, secured by a first mortgage, furnished the remainder of the necessary capital.

Wolf expressed confidence that the two objectives stressed in his scheme—low rentals and self-liquidation of the project—would be achieved.

Bond Market Drifts Lower In Selling Rush

All Groups Sweep Down Hill; Trading Cut to $14,670,000.

New York, Sept. 20. (A.P.).—Bonds suffered another relapse today as stocks slumped and commodities dropped to lower levels.

While the rails were the most severely depressed, high grade and secondary maturities of all categories were swept by selling waves which brought losses of 1 to 4 or more points. Some prime investment loans and a few others steadied in late trading, but the majority closed weak.

The activity diminished somewhat on the renewal of the decline, but sales reached the sizable total of $14,670,000, par value. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds was off nine-tenths of a point.

United States Government securities 4.32ds to 18-32ds of a point, despite reports that the Federal Reserve System was expanding its open-market buying operations. Heaviness of Federal issues, as well as corporation loans, was attributed largely to growing fears of currency inflation. There was little actual news which might have depressed the list.

Among the principal carrier casualties were Allegany Corporation 5s, off 4¾; Canadian Pacific debenture 4s, off 6; Boston & Maine 5s, off 3; Baltimore & Ohio 4½s, off 2¾; Chesapeake Corporation 5s, off 3⅝; St. Paul 5s, off 3⅝; Chicago & Northwestern 4¾s, off 3½; Erie refunding 5s, off 4¼; Great Northern 4¾s, off 3¼; Illinois Central 4¾s, off 2⅞; M-K-T 4s, off 6; New York Central 4½s, off 3½; Nickel Plate 4½s, off 5; Norfolk & Western consolidated 4s, off 1¼; Pennsylvania Gold 5s, off 1⅝; St. Louis Southwestern 5s, off 3½; Southern general 4s, off 3½; and Southern Pacific 4½s, off 3.

Foreign obligations were highly irregular. Losers of 1 to more than 4 included loans of Argentina, Dutch East Indies, Belgium, Brazil, Japan and Norway. Bonds of Bordeaux City, Marseilles City, Lyons City, Switzerland and the United Kingdom reached new highs with gains of 1 to around 3.

Stocks Record Losses After Efforts to Rally

Steadier Dollar and Lack of Confidence in Inflationists' Hopes Blamed for Chilling of Speculation; Sales Drop to 2,419,750 Shares.

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—A steadier dollar and intimations that the currency inflationists might have reason to be less confident of success chilled speculative markets today.

Stocks swung down swiftly in the late trading after a half-hearted attempt to rally from earlier losses. Net declines for many of the recently favored equities ranged from 1 to around 8 points.

Secretary Wallace, in his Chicago speech, had things to say that were distinctly interesting to the financial community. Prominent among them was his warning of the danger that "optimism, price-fixing and inflation with all of them tend to increase, rather than reduce the lack of balance resulting from our creditor position, our high tariffs, our surplus acres and our excess stocks of fundamental goods."

Inflation, he remarked, was no cure-all, although his belief in "controlled inflation" had not changed.

Wall Street doubtless felt that the Secretary was reflecting administration views; at any rate, those who had been buying stocks in the light of recently ignited inflationary flares seemed eager to sell.

Metal issues were particularly weak during the late break, although rails came out in some volume and industrials and utilities bogged down sympathetically. United States Smelting broke slightly more than 6 points; Homestake, American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, Alaska Juneau, Dome, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, American Can, Western Union, Du Pont, and Chrysler, 2 to 4; Case, nearly 5, and Norfolk & Western, 6. Alcohols were down with the rest of the market. United States Steel, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, and General Motors were among the numerous losers of around 1 to almost 2. Sales totaled 2,419,750 shares.

The dollar, after sagging under a gold value of 84 cents, enjoyed a recovery, and it was noted that stocks tended to improve coincidentally; that the rally of shares did little more than recover half of 1 tot 3-point losses, and prices gave way under renewed offerings toward the close.

Steel production, according to Iron Age, was lifted two points to 43 per cent of capacity, but the rise is regarded as temporary—a reflection of last-minute specifications against third-quarter contracts. The review pointed out that iron and steel makers are confronted with increasing fuel costs, as well as higher wages for labor and uncertainty, as prices already are posted for the fourth quarter.

Bernard E. Smith Buys California Gold Mine

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Anglo-American Mining Corporation, Ltd., announced today that Bernard E. Smith, prominent member of the New York Stock Exchange, had purchased the company's Bishop Creek gold mining properties, located in Inyo County, Calif.

The price, the announcement stated, was $175,000, of which $25,000 was paid in cash, the balance being payable in a year.

Utility Group Leads Drop; Sales Volume Falls to 378,000 Shares.

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—The curb market gave ground today under pressure in the utility group and profit-taking in some of the metal shares. The close was irregular, however, as a number of specialties moved ahead during the day.

Newmont suffered a drop of 6¼ points while Lake Shore Mines eased 1½. New Jersey Zinc on the other hand moved into new high territory, closing 2½ higher. In the power group Electric Bond & Share lost 1¼ while the preferred issues suffered major losses. American Gas & Electric sagged 1⅝.

Oils were steady to lower, Standard Oil of Indiana easing nearly a point. Alcohols sagged after holding fairly steady in the forenoon. Hiram Walker yielded 2½ points while Distillers Corporation-Seagrams lost nearly 2.

Among the shares running contrary to the trend were General Tire & Rubber up 4 and Singer Manufacturing advancing 2¼. Mead Johnson and Axton Fisher also closed higher.

Transfers approximated 378,000 shares compared with 464,000 yesterday.

Parishioners' Pennies To Pay Debt on Church

Oakland, Calif., Sept. 20 (U.P.). Pennies may lift a $2,500 mortgage from old St. John's Church. The Rev. C. W. Nelson announced a novel refinancing plan. He distributed "home banks" to every parishioner and asked them to put a penny into the bank at each meal. When church-goers have tucked napkins under chins 250,000 times, the Rev. Nelson is confident the church no longer will be in debt.

Accountants Start 2d Year With Dinner

Whiteside and Gunnarson Address Meeting on Recovery Act.

Last night the Washington chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants, a group of men and women interested in the practice of accounting in the Government, industry and trade, inaugurated the second year of activities at a dinner.

Talks on the "Progress of the National Recovery Act" were made by A. D. Whiteside, president of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., and deputy administrator of the national recovery act, and by A. B. Gunnarson, manager of the department of manufactures of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Gunnarson, in his talk, made the statement that the accounting profession, as represented by accountants employed in private business enterprises and by those engaged in public practice, faces a distinct challenge in the practical application of codes of fair competition approved under the national industrial recovery act and of marketing agreements permitted under the agricultural adjustment act.

Costs And Business.

Ample evidence is available that many of the ills of business can be traced to a disregard of costs, or to a lack of knowledge of precise costs of doing business. Selling below cost, price-cutting price-discrimination, rebating, and other similar practices have been generally considered to be unfair methods of competition, and have been condemned by all who are seriously concerned with preserving American economic life in a healthy state.

He then showed how the provisions of the codes should be considered under the following headings: Adjustment of contracts to meet increased costs. Requirements for costs, financial, and other reports. Selling goods below cost. Requirements pertaining to methods of accounting. And explained the accounting significance of each topic. The recovery program Mr. Gunnarson said is not entirely one-sided in imposing additional cost burdens on industry. Although the immediate effect of signing a code may mean increasing out-of-pocket expenditures, particularly for wages and materials, there are other factors present which may have mitigating affects. The accountant who expects to do a satisfactory job for his employer or his client must keep these questions before him when dealing with present day cost problems.

Need of Accountants.

In conclusion the speaker stressed the opportunities for and the need of accountants that a new day and a new deal warrants and stated that members of the accounting professions—those employed in private companies as well as those in public practice—have a real opportunity to raise the standards of accounting method and procedure in all types of business enterprises. The opportunity lies, first, in directing attention to the need for sound accounting as a requirement for the effective management of business. It is essential that those charged with drafting codes of fair competition, should be cognizant of this. The accountant, in his relations with drafters of codes, whether they be employers or clients, can play an important part in directing this phase of code development.

The second opportunity lies in giving whole-hearted support toward the effectuation of code provisions, especially those relating to accounting and statistical procedure. Committees or agencies established to carry out an industry's code will need assistance on many questions. Where uniform methods do not already exist, the accountants in the industry can furnish the experience and technical training needed for their development. If uniform methods have been devised, full compliance therewith rests with the accountant. In addition, however, he must constantly be ready to suggest improvements which will be of value, not alone to a single firm, but to the whole industry, and to the business community generally.

Auto Factories In Barcelona Plan Revival

Dollar's Decline Is Hailed as Aid to Recovery of Business.

Barcelona, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Representatives of American automobile manufacturers note optimistic signs since the dollar's decline in the exchange market. This is heightened by their reports that general business conditions are on a gradual upgrade here.

Their optimism is felt despite the preferential tariff rates Spain grants other manufacturing countries. Meanwhile, they are working toward a solution of this situation. Commercial officials point out that the duty on American cars ranges around 100 per cent higher than that on European makes.

Ambassador Claude G. Bowers and Foreign Minister De los Rios now are exchanging conversations toward the negotiations for a new commercial treaty between the United States and Spain which, it is hoped, will eliminate much of this preferential tariff controversy. Representatives of American manufacturers have presented a complete report of their situation to the ambassador.

Cotton Slumps $2 Per Bale On Liquidation

December Closes at 10.10 as General Market Sinks 40 to 46 Points.

New York, Sept. 20 (AP).—Declines of about $2 per bale in cotton today reflected heavy general liquidation as a result of weakened technical position and apparent disappointment over the absence of any definite inflationary developments.

Although active trade buying absorbed the largest part of the early offerings and partial rallies followed, the market again turned easier under renewed local and Southern selling in the late trading. December contracts sold off from 10.48 to 10.05 and closed at 10.10, with the general market ending steady at net declines of 40 to 46 points.

Initial prices were unchanged to 8 points lower in symphaty with relatively easier Liverpool cables, while a fresh decline in the dollar to new lows brought in a little early support, those holding inflationary theories were evidently disappointed in the overnight news from Washington.

Active Selling.

At any rate active selling appeared in the early market from speculative, foreign and Southern sources and prices broke rapidly. Stop orders were uncovered on the decline which carried the market off to net losses of 43 to 50 points but a large volume of trade price fixing appeared and with the market momentarily sold out, prices soon rallied about 27 to 34 points from the lowest. Thereafter fluctuations were irregular but increased pressure developed toward the close, when outside demand failed to broaden and hedging increased. Final prices were within 2 to 8 points of the lowest.

The weekly report of the Weather Bureau said that in general conditions were favorable for the cotton crop, which is maturing rapidly, with picking and ginning making good progress. Aside from showers in the interior of the central belt today's details showed practically no rainfall over the belt and fears of increased Southern pressure brought out some of the late selling.

Exports 46,546 Bales.

Exports today 46,546 making 1,016,010 so far this season. Port receipts 36,965. U. S. Port stocks 3,172,999.

The annual estimate of a weekly trade paper pointed to a crop of 12,191,000 bales with correspondents' guesses pointing to an average price of middling of 9¾ cents for the season.

A private authority estimated ginnings prior to September 16 at 2,856,000 bales compared with 2,646,000 to the same date last year.

The early heavy selling was said to have represented principally liquidation by recent buyers while the bulk of the contracts was absorbed by trade interests who were consistent buyers throughout the session.

Liverpool cables reported Bombay selling and scattered hedging which met good trade and local buying, while the undertone in the Manchester cloth market was described as cheerful, but sales difficult to arrange.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was easy today, with final prices 20 to 28 points net lower under liquidation and commission house selling, promoted by the weakness in cotton, the easiness of lard and reactions in grains. Sales were 28 contracts. Bleachable spot closed 4.90; September, 4.95; December, 5.25; January, 5.27; March, 5.47.

Woolen Mill Increases Pay of 400 Workers

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 20 (Spl.).—The Dunn Woolen Co., employing upward of 400 workers at its three plants in Berkeley County, has increased the wages of practically every employe.

The percentage of the increase varies somewhat, to fit mill conditions. The company was among the first of the industries of its section to cut wage schedules, and in July it brought the wage scale back to approximately what it was in the so-called boom years of 1928-29. The new pay jump brings the scale for the most part in excess of what it was during the prosperity peak.

Quebec Reports Forest Industry Is Improving

Montreal Sept. 20 (U.P.).—A general improvement in the Province of Quebec forest industry is announced by Hon. Honore Mercier, Minister of Lands and Forests.

"Reports to my department," Mercier states, "show that the companies engaged in the cutting of wood in the forests of Quebec have announced their intention to extend their operations this year, which is not surprising, in view of the fact that stocks have been depleted. Last year they cut approximately 600,000,000 square feet of wood and this winter it is expected that the output will reach 1,000,000,000 square feet. There is no doubt that conditions are improving slowly but surely in that industry."

Two Banks in Sweden Cut Interest on Deposits

Stockholm, Sept. 20 (AP).—Two more large Swedish banks, the Svenska Handelsbanken and the Goteborgs Bank, have followed the example of the Stockholms Enskilda Bank by reducing the interest on deposit and capital accounts by ½ per cent to 2½ per cent, because of large cash surpluses and the announced difficulty of finding satisfactory investment possibilities.

Spinning of Cotton Declines in August

(Associated Press.)

The cotton spinning industry was reported yesterday by the Census Bureau to have operated during August at 106.7 per cent of capacity, on a single shift basis, compared with 117.5 per cent during July this year, and 72.4 per cent during August last year.

Spinning spindles in place August 31 totaled 30,781,802, of which 25,884,704 were active at some time during the month, compared with 30,893,970; and 26,069,158 for July this year, and 31,643,898 and 22,022,490 for August last year.

Active spindle hours for August totaled 7,942,027,549 or an average of 258 hours per spindle in place, compared with 8,127,978,275 and 263 for July this year, and 5,539,006,107 and 175 for August last year.

Mule-Deer Raised on Ranch.

Cedarville, Calif., Sept. 20 (U.P.).—J. W. Steiner, Cedarville rancher, claims credit for doing what old-time live-stock men said was impossible. He has a herd of domesticated ranch-reared mule deer, apparently contented on his place. He started his herd, now numbering nine, several years ago when one of his cowboys found a deserted and starving fawn.

Gains in Stock Prices Reflect Only Limited Record of Trade

New York, Sept. 20 (AP).—While the market value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange has increased more than 60 per cent since the first of the year, stock market prices reflect only to a limited degree the rapid strides that have been made toward business recovery, according to an analysis of the relation between increased equity values and the devaluation of the dollar since the abandonment of the gold standard, made by Lawrence W. Schmidt, chief statistician for Administrative and Research Corporation.

"The market value of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange on September 1 was $36,669,889,331, as compared to their aggregate value of $22,767,636,718 on January 1 of this year, an increase of $13,902,252,613 or 61.1 per cent," the study states.

However, on September 1, the gold value of the dollar, taken at the average quotations on the Dutch, French and Swiss exchanges which are still on the gold standard, was 69.8 cents. The total market value then of stocks listed on the Exchange expressed in terms of a dollar worth 100 cents in gold was $25,595,582,752, representing an actual gold dollar appreciation of $2,827,946,034 or 12.4 per cent over the January figure.

"Thus it will be seen that the purchasing power of the investor's dollar would have been protected during this period through the purchase of common stocks since stock prices fully discounted the devaluation of the dollar.

Of equal significance, too, is the fact that current stock prices have maintained little more than a relative position to the diminished value of the dollar, and they have not reflected to an appreciable degree the prospect of further inflation through the credit expansion proposed by the administration as embodied in the program of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation announced this week.

"The current market value of stocks viewed in the light of these considerations," concludes Mr. Schmidt, "must increase if the market is to continue as a barometer of the improvement already noted in general business and the anticipated increases under the leadership of the National Recovery Administration.

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—DRIED FRUITS—Steady, unchanged.

Power Production Continues to Gain

New York, Sept. 20 (AP).—Electric power output last week was 12.7 per cent above that of the corresponding period last year. In the previous week the gain over 1932 was 11.1 per cent. The outturn also included a rise over the week of September 9, which included Labor Day.

Production for the week, as reported today by the Edison Electric Institute, amounted to $1,663,212,000 kilowatt hours, against 1,582,742,000 in the preceding week and 1,476,442,000 in the like period last year.

Output gains in the major geographic areas over the 1932 period were as follows: New England, 9.5 per cent, against 10.7 per cent in the previous week; Middle Atlantic, 9.3 against 7.7; Central Industrial, 17.9 against 16.2; West Central, 6.9 against 3.7; Southern States, 10.7 against 8.4; Rocky Mountain, 27.6 against 28.7; Pacific Coast, 1.2 against 2.6.

Vermouth Shipped to U. S.

San Francisco, Sept. 20 (U.P.).—Now San Franciscans know how close "repeal" is. The Italian steamer California docked the other day. In her hold were 500 cases of Italian vermouth—the first shipment to be brought here since prewar days.

Australian Wines Find Good Market in Canada

Montreal, Sept 20 (U.P.).—With a sale last year of 60,000 gallons, the Australian wine trade is developing "very nicely" in Canada, according to H. E. Laffer, London, Britain, representative of the Australia Wine Marketing Board, who has just completed a tour of Canada.

"The Australian wine industry never has attempted to compete with the light wines of the Continent, particularly the French type, in Canada," Laffer said. "We realize we are up against competition in price as well as in quality, and from the outset Australian wines sought rather to compete with the wines of Portugal and Spain."

Soviet Russia Will Get Hearing on Wheat Quota

London, Sept. 20. (AP).—Soviet Russia's objections to the wheat export quota of 44,000,000 bushels, tentatively allotted her in the international wheat agreement, will be heard Friday by the "big four" exporting nations.

This was decided today by representatives of the "big four," which includes the United States, Canada, Australia and Agrentina. The meeting will be held at Canada House.

Wheat Decline Follows Loss In Other Marts

Speculators Sell Holdings; Corn and Oats Join Slump in Prices.

Chicago, Sept. 20 (AP).—Dominated by breaks in the cotton market and in securities, as well as by uncertainty regarding Washington financial policy, grain values went mostly downhill today.

Grain dealers were unable to discern any definite new development regarding inflation, and despite one strong rally after noon, wheat later tumbled backward afresh to almost the day's low point. The maximum decline for wheat today was 2½ cents a bushel.

Wheat closed unstable, 1⅝ to 2 cents under yesterday's finish; corn, ⅞ to 1⅜ down; oats, ⅛ to 1 cent off, and provisions unchanged to 15 cents lower.

Before grain trading here began, reports were at hand that an avalanche of selling had hit the cotton market. This proved more than an offset for a sharp advance in British exchange.

Address by Wallace.

Thereafter, grain traders' interest focused for a while on conflicting advance versions of an address by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in Chicago. Remarks attributed to him were at first construed bearishly, but subsequent general trade opinion on the subject was reversed.

Holders of speculative lines of wheat, however, displayed little confidence, and unloaded on every rally in prices. There was good commission house buying on setbacks, but this demand was not broad enough to digest enlarged offerings on rallies. Much of the wheat selling in the closing hour was attributed to sources Northwest, and was associated in some degree with disappointment over smallness of export business in Canadian wheat, the total today being estimated at only 500,000 bushels.

Corn and oats weakened with wheat, and as a result of indications that more than the normal amount of corn was now safe from frost.

Provisions went lower with grains, notwithstanding upturns of hog values.

Wall Street Briefs.

New York Sept. 20 (AP).—Unit sales of General Foods Corporation in August are understood to have run 28 per cent ahead of a year ago, while volume for the first eight months of 1933 was about 16 per cent above 1932.

August net operating income of the Marquette Railway was $330,938, against a deficit of $43,415 in August, 1932.

The American Iron and Steel Institute reports pig iron output for the first half of 1933 at 4,389,977 tons compared with 5,081,388 tons in the comparable period of 1932.

The Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index, which has been declining, rose 3 cents, to $1.92, in the week ended September 19. The agency attributes the increase "largely to the persistent rumors of inflation." A year ago the index stood at $1.77.

Preferred stockholders of the American Metal Co. today adopted a resolution authorizing the company to place certain assets as collateral against loans up to $16,000,000 which may be used for retiring an issue of four-year 5½ per cent notes.

Raising of Rug Grass Aids Wisconsin Farmers

Falun, Wis., Sept. 20 (U.P.).—Cranberry raising, an industry that once brought $100,000 annually to Burnett County, has disappeared, but in its place has sprung up the business of raising wire grass for rugs.

In the last 30 years of the nineteenth Century, more than 100,000 acres of Burnett County lowlands were devoted to cranberry raising. The crop always was heavy, since the low, swampy lands were ideal for the berry. The crop averaged 20,000 barrels each year, and was valued at $100,000.

West Virginia Oil Field Begins New Output

Additional Wells Drilled in Ritchie County; Yield May Be High.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 20 (Spl.).—Ritchie County is witnessing a revival of oil production almost as feverish as it was back in the old boom days of the industry.

This has been brought about by the discovery of some of the best wells in the Lost Run section that have been drilled anywhere east of the Mississippi, according to veteran oil men.

Final production as high as 1,000 barrels a day is expected at the S. E. Satterfield well, No. 2, where drilling has been resumed.

The Injun sand was tapped lightly and a huge pool of oil was found, according to the leaseholders, Clifton-Loudin, of Pullman, and R. W. Elder, of Pennsboro. Drilling was temporarily discontinued in order that casing might be pulled and tanks set.

Smith & Hendershot, of Parkersburg, are now continuing their drilling of the No. 1 well on the Charles Frederick farm, in the same region. It is making 300 barrels of oil and 300,000 feet of gas daily after barely scrtching the Injun sand.

Twenty-six wells have been drilled in or are in process of being drilled, while ten new locations have been made.

A recent strike brought in a producer with a record-breaking output for several years of a little more than 1,000 barrels a day.

U. S. Traces "Lottery" Slips At Davis Trial

Printer Tells of Sending Tickets to New York From Scranton.

New York, Sept. 20 (AP).—Federal prosecutors at the second trial of Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, traced through witnesses today the path of alleged lottery tickets which Davis was accused of causing to be sent across State lines in connection with charity balls of the Loyal Order of Moose.

Davis is director-general of the order. The first prosecution ended in a mistrial. Theodore G. Miller, secretary of the Moose Propagation Department, is a defendant with him.

James W. Reid, printer, of Scranton, Pa., told of printing the tickets, but said he had no relations with Miller concerning them.

Documents Identified.

The printing was done, he testified, on order of the Moose Propagation Department and the shipment was sent by van to the New York office of B. C. McGuire.

Allen E. Stecker, the printing company's shipping clerk, identified voluminous documents relating to the shipments. They were marked as Government exhibits.

Testimony about receipts for insured mail in a postol substation was given by Miss Betty Danver and Henry A. Purdon, of Scranton, in support of the Government contention that tickets were sent through the station.

Davis Studies Exhibits.

Senator Davis listened attentively and examined every document Louis Mead Treadwell, assistant United States attorney, introduced.

Treadwell turned to the 1931 Moose convention, the stenographic reports of which he placed before the court. Since Davis attended the convention, the Government argues he was aware the 1931 charity ball was a lottery.

Car Union Vote Set for Today

Utilities Body Expected to Approve Proposal Despite Attack.

Favorable action on the street-car merger plan is expected at today's meeting of the Public Utilities Commission.

Yesterday the plan was attacked by William M. Clayton, chairman of the public utilities committee of the Federation of Citizens Associations.

He said the merger would give the Potomac Electric Power Co. a profit of 7.98 per cent on the power it sells the new Capital Transit Co.

Because of this, he said, the people of the District should benefit through decreased electric rates.

Additional Camps Refused in Virginia

Fechner Says State Has Its Share Already.

(Associated Press.)

A request of Gov. Pollard for 26 more Civilian Conservation Camps for Virginia to carry on forest fire prevention work was denied yesterday by Robert Fechner, Conservation Corps director.

The request was made on behalf of the governor by Senator Byrd and Representative Robertson of Virginia. The camps asked were selected by the governor's project committee.

Robertson said Fechner informed them the Conservation Administration felt it had "dealt liberally" with Virginia, since 45 camps already are located there and 21 more are to be established.

Nineteen camps, directed by the State Forest Service, are doing work similar to that for which the 26 additional camps were wanted.

Officials Set Forest Camp Veteran Quota

Instructions Given Those Who Wish to Enroll in Second Period.

Veterans may be enrolled in the reforestation army for the second period up to 25 per cent of the number originally enrolled, it was announced yesterday by headquarters of the Third Corps Area.

This will give Washington a quota of 25, Maryland 82 and Virginia 125. Veterans who wish to enroll for the second six months should write regional managers of the Veterans' Administration for application blanks.

Regional manager for Washington is Edgar T. Hitch, with offices in the Veterans' Building. Edwin W. Jordan, of 310 East Grace street, Richmond, is regional manager for Virginia, while C. F. Sargent, Fort McHenry, Baltimore, will supply blanks to Maryland veterans.

Only married veterans who are unemployed are eligible for enlistment.

Transfers of work camps also was announced. Two companies in Garrett County, Md., will be brought to the eastern part of the State. One will be sent to Camp Ritchie, while the other will go to the Eastern Shore or to the forests near Beltsville, Md. The company in the game refuge, near Cambridge, Md., also will be moved, but its location has not been selected.

Watersways Link Pushed At White House Parley

(Associated Press.)

Blazes

Cherrydale Fire Group Charges Unfairness.

County Manager was requested "to educate switchboard operators at Arlington County Courthouse in summoning proper fire departments" by the Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association last night.

The motion was adopted after R. E. Janson, of the Cherrydale Department, charged his group was being discriminated against in the sending of fire calls.

Janson complained that in several instances Cherrydale fires, "within a stone's throw of his station," had been answered by other departments.

The association also adopted a motion by Walter U. Varney, president of the Clarendon Department, authorizing a committee to confer with the county board on the arrangement of a "rental" fund to be paid the departments for the maintenance of buildings and equipment.

Host of Friends Witness Mr. and Mrs. Dolan's Ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Dolan celebrated their silver wedding anniversary last night at their home in Highland drive, Woodside Park.

Nearly 200 guests witnessed their remarriage by the Rev. Ralph D. Smith, pastor of the Woodside Methodist Episcopal Church. The couple first was married in Washington, September 20, 1908, moving to Montgomery County the following summer.

They have two daughters, Miss Helen Dolan and Miss Dorothy Dolan. Mrs. Rose Dolan, mother of Mr. Dolan, was present last night.

Mr. Dolan, a contractor, is well known in Masonic circles, a trustee of the Woodside Elementary School, a trustee of the Woodside M. E. Church, former president of the Silver Spring Chamber of Commerce and a director of the Silver Spring National Bank, and is a member of the Silver Spring Lions Club.

Mrs. Dolan is prominent in Eastern Star circles, church work and civic organizations.

Throngs Trail Hoover's Steps

Former President Thrilled by Science Marvels; Plans Visit Today.

Chicago, Sept. 20 (AP).—Despite his insistence that he wished to "do" the World's Fair as an "ordinary citizen," former President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover needed a cordon of 50 policemen to escort them about the exposition grounds today.

They were trailed everywhere by throngs. In midafternoon, Mr. Hoover decided he had enough. Behind a wedge of scarlet-coated fair gendarmes his party was taken to the exit and proceeded to the home of Arch Shaw, host of the Hoovers.

After a 21-gun salute, a military reception, a luncheon with fair officials and other formalities, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover visited the California and Iowa exhibits, then went to the Hall of Science, where the party spent the rest of its visit. Mr. Hoover lingered over the mathematics exhibits.

"It is the most marvelous visualization of science I have ever seen and is presented in a manner that makes it understandable to the layman," he commented. "If they had had such things when I went to school, learning mathematics would have been easier."

Mr. Hoover said he hoped to return to the fair tomorrow, "preferably without attracting attention."

Washington-N. Y. Railroad Time Cut

Pennsylvania Announces New Schedules.

Travelers to and from New York will save, collectively, on 44 north and south bound Manhattan-Washington Pennsylvania Railroad trains 215 minutes, C. H. Mathews, jr., passenger traffic manager, announced yesterday. The time slash will be effective Sunday.

The crack train between New York and the Capital remains the Congressional Limited, making the 226-mile run in 4 hours and 15 minutes. Two new trains, making the distance in 4 hours and 20 minutes and 4 hours and 25 minutes, have been added to the service. These will be the Legislator, leaving Washington at 7 a. m., and the Constitution, leaving New York at 6:30 p. m. daily.

Other day trains will be speeded up proportionately, Mathews asserted. The quickened pace is due to the fact that New York-bound trains run by electric power from Wilmington, Del., to the metropolis.

Kempff's Daughter To Christen New "Sub"

Miss Katherine Duer Kempff, daughter of Rear Admiral C. S. Kempff, and well known in Washington society, yesterday was designated sponsor for the launching of the submarine Cachalot at the Portsmouth (N. H.) Navy Yard in October.

Admiral Kempff, commandant at Portsmouth, formerly was stationed at Washington.

Rum Retailers Form to Shut Distillers Out

Wets and Drys Cooperate in Shaping Dealers' Association.

(Associated Press.)

Prominent wets and drys of both political parties united yesterday in organizing retail beverage dealers to seek uniformity of State laws on liquor dispensing and low taxes to drive out the bootlegger.

With 31 States having voted to ratify repeal, leaving but five more necessary, officers of the National Association of Retail Beverage Dealers set about organizing to outlaw distiller or brewery-owned and operated liquor dispensaries.

Former Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, speaking to about 50 association members at luncheon, said that although he had represented his State in Congress as a prohibitionist the issue was "not a question of wet or dry. Now that repeal is almost here it is a question of what we are going to do," he added.

Public Will Proven.

Watson said the people had showed by their votes that they wanted repeal and that they wanted the liquor business considered a "legitimate business." As such, he added, it should have the protection of the law.

If too heavy taxes are imposed, the country would be unable to rid itself of the bootlegger, he said.

Republican Praise.

Watson and Representative Britten of Illinois, both Republicans, praised President Roosevelt for pressing for ratification of repeal.

"If Herbert Hoover was President, I don't believe 10 States would have ratified repeal."

"The South would not have followed Herbert Hoover or Al Smith. President Roosevelt was the logical leader."

President Roosevelt ordered a study to be made of the possibilities of restoring the economic structure of the Virgin Islands by reviving the rum industry.

Two More States Ratify.

With Idaho and New Mexico in the repeal column by their elections of Tuesday, the next States to vote will be Virginia October 3; Florida, October 10, and North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina and Utah all on November 7.

Future ratification dates of States that have already voted for repeal include Colorado, September 26; Minnesota, October 10; Idaho, October 17; Maryland, October 19; New Mexico, November 2 ,and Maine, December 6.

Wets Need Five More States

Idaho, New Mexico Vote Repeal; Virginia Next Election Scheduled.

(United Press.)

Two more States, Idaho and New Mexico, joined the repeal parade to put the wet cause within five States of success.

They were the thirtieth and thirty-first successive States to approve the twenty-first (repeal) amendment which will supercede the eighteenth amendment if approved by 36 States.

New Mexico voted about 3 to 1 for national repeal as well as the State bone-dry amendment. Idaho wets won their cause by about 5 to 4 majority.

The next State to vote is Virginia, October 3. Florida votes October 10, and six States, North and South Carolina, Ohio, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Utah, vote November 7.

If wets get the five States needed they predict the formalities of ratification will be concluded early in December.

Portugal Bids to U. S.

(Associated Press.)

Preliminary to negotiations whereby Portugal hopes to find a market for wines in the United States if the eighteenth amendment is repealed, the country's new minister, Joao Antonio de Bianchi, called at the State Department yesterday to meet Secretary Hull and other officials.

A date for the opening of the reciprocal tariff discussions will be fixed after the minister has been presented to President Roosevelt at the White House, probably within a few days.

Bankers Deny Charges They Refuse Loans

Relate Unsettled Monetary Policy in Explaining Advances of Credit.

Before leaving yesterday, after their regular meeting here, members of the Federal Advisory Council agreed that no statement or comment should be made beyond the formal but significant announcement by Walter W. Smith, president of the First National Bank in St. Louis and president of the Federal Advisory Council.

Questions as to whether the advisory council of the Federal Reserve system discussed Government monetary policy went unanswered. Smith's statement reflected the concern of members over the lack of a definite policy. The statement said:

"Banks are being unfairly and widely criticized on the presumption that they are refusing to make loans. Banks can only make expenses and profits by lending money, and most banks have a substantial amount of unused funds. It should be remembered that the money to be loaned is the property of depositors.

"However, banks must be in a position to meet the demands of their depositors from time to time. Therefore, they should not make loans that either can not be collected within a reasonable time or are not eligible for rediscount at Federal reserve banks."

This utterance was interpreted as a defense of bankers against imputations that they are not doing their part in extending credit and conveyed to administration officials a note of warning that in the absence of a definite monetary policy the banking community could not be expected to lend aganist a speculative future.

It was surmised that monetary policy was discussed by the council.

Nats Rout Browns, 13-5, as Crowder Wins 24th; Need Half Game

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

JOE CRONIN, the young fellow from the Coast who is making good in the East, tells this one:

"I had fined Al Crowder $25 two weeks before for slinging his glove off the pitching mound out in Detroit. It was the day after Labor Day, on our last trip to Boston, that Crowder won his fine back.

"We had a 9-to-6 lead going into the last of the ninth. They got the bases filled on Crowder, with none out. I wanted to win that game. The Red Sox crowd scented a winning rally and were booing us to a fare-thee-well. Every time I went into the box to talk to Crowder they resumed booing.

"Do you know what I was saying to Crowder? I was telling him that if he got the side out without a run I'd remit that $25 fine.

"'That's an easy 25 bucks,' Crowder told me."

Double Play at Plate.

Cronin still speaking. "Crowder went to work on those Red Sox. And he earned that $25. They put in Ferrell to pinch hit and he drove a long fly to Sam Rice. Marty McManus was on third base. He tried to score, and Rice threw him out at the plate for a double play.

"They put Seeds in as a pinch hitter, and Crowder got him out quicker than it takes to tell it."

But Cronin neglected to say that he had refused to remit Crowder's fine several days before out in Detroit. The day after the fine was levied, Crowder went out and lost a stirring 2-to-1 duel to Tom Bridges of the Tigers.

This department suggested to Cronin that it would be a magnanimous gesture for him to remit Crowder's fine in view of the praiseworthy effort of the pitcher that day. "No, it's got to stick," said Cronin.

First Serious Test.

That incident out in Detroit was the first serious test of Cronin's disciplinary authority. Crowder, bombarded by the Tigers for several consecutive hits, was ordered out of the box. Before leaving the mound he flung his glove from the center of the diamond into the Nats' dugout in a peevish gesture.

"That will cost you $25," Cronin told his star pitcher on the spot.

"Twenty-five bucks is a bush league fine," Crowder replied, still angry.

"Well, it was a bush league trick," retorted Cronin. Crowder liked the answer and there were no hard feelings as he left the field.

Pound Screw-Ball.

The Nats got a foretaste of Carl Hubbell's famed screw-ball yesterday when Carlan Braxton went to the mound for the Browns in the late innings of the game.

Braxton, who served several years with the Browns, is a southpaw of the type of the noted Giants' star, and his screw-ball is the nearest thing to a prototype of Hubbell's delivery.

"It didn't seem to bother us much," said Cronin. "The first ball he threw to Manush was a screw-ball, and Heinie socked it for a clean single. The first ball he threw to me was another screw-ball, and I didn't have much trouble smacking it for a single.

"But from what I hear of Hubbell's screw-ball, Braxton's is the nearest thing to it. Pennock throws the same kind of a pitch, but he throws it higher and he hasn't got Hubbell's speed. Sam Jones has a great right-handed screw-ball. That's what he was throwing the day he beat us 1 to 0 a couple weeks ago.

Bucs Defeat Dodgers As Swift Gives 4 Hits

Pittsburgh, Sept. 20 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates today strengthened their hold on second place in the National League, defeating the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3 to 0, behind the four-hit pitching of Bill Swift.

The victory increased the Pirates' margin over the idle Clubs to 1½ games.

G. W. Eleven Rout Frosh In Drill

Get Four Touchdowns; Work of Demming Is Outstanding.

G. U. Coaches Correct Mistakes; No Positions at C. U. Cinched.

THE George Washington University freshmen were routed in a 45-minute practice scrimmage with the varsity yesterday afternoon as Baker, Capt. Carlin, Finis Parrish and Joe Walsh scooted down the field four times for touchdowns. It was one of the heaviest workouts of the scrimmage sessions.

Two reserves, Nig McCarver and the sophomore flash, Tuffy Leemans, stood out in the fray. In the starting line-up Head Coach Pixlee used Vonder Bruegge and Parrish at ends; Pearce and Demming at the tackles; Stewart and Hichman at the guards, with Rathjen at the snapper-back post. Of this forward wall Demming was the outstanding lineman of the lot, breaking through the frosh line at will to make holes wide enough for a Mack truck.

A sidelight feature was the appearance of Smith W. Brookhart, son of the former senator from Iowa, at end for the frosh. He's a rangy lad, tipping the beam at 185, and showed up plenty smart at his position.

Dummy Work at G. U.

The glaring mistakes that cropped up in Georgetown's Tuesday practice scrimmage with the Maryland Old Liners were the subject of much comment, criticism and correction yesterday afternoon as Jack Haggerty lined up his gridders for the daily grind.

Much time was spent on the spinner plays, which against Maryland zipped into the arms of charging tackles, while a light workout on the dummy, especially for those men who failed to impress in this department of play Tuesday, was long and tedious.

Haggerty realizes that plenty of time must be used on his forward passing attack, with the result that this afternoon will find him busily engaged with his ends and backs.

Calahan, who has been a standout among the linemen since the Hoyas initial camp workout, won the approval of the coaches during the Maryland setto, and continued to shine in the drill yesterday.

No C. U. Jobs Clinched.

Coach Dutch Bergman, the maestro of things footballish out Catholic University way, is peeved, not only from the standpoint of the mounting injured list, but also from the attitude of some members of the so-called regular first team. However, Bergman thoroughly impressed the entire squad that no position on the team was "clinched"—that all eleven posts were wide open and that they would stay that way throughout the entire season.

The news that Al Secino, sensational sophomore half back, would be out indefinitely with a dislocated left shoulder, spilled more gloom into the Redbird camp. This was lightened somewhat, though, by the trainer's announcement that Capt. John Jankowski, one of the battered and bruised members, would return in a day or so.

Ed Kopowich, the big bad man from Dickinson Seminary, has been showing up well of late and if his sterling play continues there is hardly any chance of ousting him from a starting tackle berth in the opener against La Salle Saturday week.

Fast Ball vs. Screw Ball Certain to Provide Thrills Galore.

(Herewith is the first of a series of articles comparing the respective players of the Nats and Giants.)

Barring a last-minute strategical maneuver by Managers Joe Cronin and Bill Terry, which would be hitting a new high in strategy, Alvin Crowder and Carl Hubbell will be carrying the respective pitching burdens of the Nats and the Giants in the opening game of the 1933 world series at the Polo Grounds.

That it will be Crowder vs. Hubbell in the opener has been a foregone conclusion ever since both clubs started making serious motions in the direction of the pennants.

Earmarks of Epic.

And that has all the earmarks of a pitching epic. Crowder—the iron-nerved mainstay of the Nats' staff—vs. Hubbell, the Giants' big shot of the mound. A battle of crafty veterans who represent the zenith of the rival managers' pitching hopes.

It will be a fitting setting for the leading pitcher of the American League and the leading pitcher of the National League, for both Crowder and Hubbell are top-notchers in their respective circuits—Crowder with 24 wins and 13 losses; Hubbell with 22 wins, 12 defeats.

Perfect Temperament.

Pitted against Hubbell's famed screw-ball that lifted the Giants' ace to 11 shutouts this season will be the lengthy and diversified repertoire of Crowder, backed by a perfect pitching temperament that recognizes no difference between a world series setting and an exhibition game in Podunk.

The former buck private, who came back to baseball after a siege in the Philippines, will be throwing a smoking fast ball, a scorching curve and a clever change of pace at the Giant hitters. Of control he has plenty.

Can Serve in Relief.

Crowder well might be the dominating pitcher of any world series. His rubber arm is well known to American Leaguers, and, unlike Hubbell, he will be available for relief work during the series.

The comparatively frail Hubbell himself has taken on an ominous presence, inasmuch as Terry has indicated that he might start his star southpaw three times if a seven-game series is necessary. His fate in the main depends on how the Nats' left-handed hitters take to his southpaw screwball that breaks like a right-hander's curve.

Sarron Takes Bout From Genaro

THE three-ring circus that parades in the ring as Pete Sarron, gave its usual entertaining performance in taking a unanimous 10-round decision from Mickey Genaro at Twin City last night. Had Sarron elected to utilize his superior speed and ring generalship to coast in ahead of his somewhat time-worn opponent, the bout would have been just another boxing match. As it was, the Birmingham windmill supplied the showmanship that turned the affair into a festival lacking only peanuts, elephants, and a big top to make the 1,000 or so spectators think that spring was here again.

Sarron outspeeded Genaro in the first round, but the veteran bounced back and almost evened the second by staying on top of his opposition. Sarron started to work in earnest in the third, and stuck pretty closely to his knitting until he was certain that he had piled up a decisive lead, which became a well-established fact after the sixth round. Then came the fun.

Treat for Customers.

In the seventh, the Birmingham buzz-saw began giving the customers a treat. Following a furious exchange, Sarron hung on—and the crowd hooted him most derisively.

Seeing that the audience enjoyed getting on his neck, Sarron—too smart a fighter to show when he is hurt—walked right back into another hot exchange, and hung on again. The audience was moved to the point of expressing its derision by a rising vote. Once again Sarron repeated the trick, and once again the audience rose to hoot.

In the eighth, Sarron contented himself with working in and out on his opponent, but in the ninth and tenth he cut loose with more showmanship, finishing the final round with a burst of savagery that had the audience on its toes, wild with excitement.

Tony Lopez hung a short right on Harry Grove's button in the second round, ending their scheduled six-rounder via the kayo route. Roy Manley mauled out a win over the sluggish Hughey Gray in a slow six; Joe Gauzman outsmarted Sam Romano in a sizzling six-rounder and Jack Quigley slugged out a four-round win over Sailor Leonard in the curtain raiser.

Ruth to Toe Slab Against Red Sox

Yankee Stadium, New York, Sept. 20 (U.P.).—Babe Ruth, home run hitter, who started his baseball career as a pitcher, will wind up the 1933 baseball campaign for the New York Yankees by pitching against the Boston Red Sox on October 1.

The Babe asked for the assignment some days ago. Today Manager Joe McCarthy granted the request.

"I'll be in there for nine innings, too," Ruth said.

Score 7 Runs In 3d Inning Outburst

Washington Victory or Yankee Defeat Today Would Net Flag.

Hurler Eases Up After He Has 13-Tally Lead; Gullic Hits Homer.

WORLD series plans in Washington went on apace yesterday when the Nats gave the front office force authority to proceed by beating the Browns lifting the suspense and dragging the pennant to the very threshold of Griffith Stadium.

A half-game onward, and the pennant will belong to the Nats, to have and to hold until a better team comes along in 1934. By nightfall, all mathematical doubt may be dispelled. A Washington victory today, or a Yankee defeat, is all that is required.

Seven Games To Play.

The door to the championship swung wide open yesterday by reason of the Nats' triumph, with seven games remaining in which the Washington club can add its one required victory. Eight games remain for the Yankees in which to drop the contest that will clinch the flag for the Nats just as securely.

They beat the Browns yesterday. They slaughtered 'em, 13 to 5, giving vent to the pent-up peeve collected during those first two games of the series when the last-place St. Louis club thwarted any immediate Washington hopes of bringing the race to a successful conclusion.

5 Hits Off Crowder.

Alvin Crowder was out there to guide the Nats toward the flag yesterday with a five-hit pitching performance after the Nats had given him a generous 13-0 lead.

At one point during the proceedings, in the third inning, to be exact, there was serious doubt if the game would reach the required five innings to insure its legality. That was when the Nats scored seven runs against Ed Wells and Rolland Stiles, the first eight batters during the inning getting on base.

Scores 24th of Year.

Behind that lead, Crowder coasted in to his twenty-fourth victory of the season, yielding two hits in the first six innings. Of the five safeties the Browns made one, however, was a home run by Gullic and three were doubles by Storti, Scharein and Pinch Hitter Shea.

The Browns went back to character at the outset of the game with infield making the proverbial sieve look like a steel-plated, reinforced receptacle. The Nats scored two runs without the aid of a hit, but with the aid of a grammar-school bobble by Third Baseman Scharein.

The horrible details of that third inning:

Manush singled past third base. Cronin doubled past third base. Harris singled to left. Schulte beat out a bunt to third base. Kuhel walked. Boken beat out a bunt in front of the plate. Sewell singled to center. Crowder walked. Manush grounded to Burns, who made a wild throw to first. And the Nats had seven runs for their efforts. Wells had left the box in favor of Stiles after Kuhel's walk.

The Nats were still getting maximum results out of minimum efforts when they scored four runs on three hits in the fourth, when the team batted around again.

Kuhel beat out a bunt to Stiles.

Use of Hurlers Other Than Crowder, Hubbell In Opener Would Upset Most Contest Fans

Cronin, Not Terry, May Be the One to Ruin Pregame Selections.

SHOULD either Manager Bill Terry, of the Giants, or Joe Cronin, of the Nats, try to pull any smart stuff in the selection of their ace moundsman in the first world series game, it surely will be just too bad for about 99 out of every 100 who already have filled out their blanks in the popular contest being staged by The Post.

Carl Hubbell and Al Crowder are almost unanimous choices on the blanks already submitted, as, indeed, they should be, for the first game is most important, with each rival team trying to get the jump on its foe. There hardly is any doubt as to Hubbell getting the call for the Giants, because Pilot Terry has already gone on record to this effect, but Cronin is one of those fellows who may do the unexpected. So far, he has refused to discuss the matter on the grounds that his team hasn't won the flag yet.

There is, for instance, a chance that the Nat's leader will decide not to work his southpaws, Earl Whitehill and Walter Stewart, on successive days. If he does this, one probably will start, with Crowder

Sullivan Rides Thursday to Head Victory Over Tred Avon in Graw Feature

Is Sixth Win In 7 Starts This Year

Tipton Has 3 Victors; Salisbury, in Third, His First of Day.

Sation Beats Pairbypair in Belair Handicap and Pays $4.20.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, Sept. 20.—What a whale of a difference a year has made in Thursday, Selby Burch's gelded son of Mars. Last fall Thursday was running in cheap claiming races, but today he is standing out in the handicap field.

It was under the handling of Jimmie Sullivan, one of the several Washington jockeys here, that Thursday struck his stride and he has moved steadily up the horse-flesh ladder. After two victories in $2,000 races, Thursday shocked turfdom by taking a $4,000 contest at Belmont and then won at $5,000. His last outing before being shipped to this course was a decision over a field that included Watch Him, DeValera and others. Thus the horse that could have been had by depositing $1,000 in the claiming box would now gallop away from a $10,000 bill. The victory for Thursday was his sixth straight triumph under the handling of young Sullivan. This boy has been blamed for the poor showing of some short-priced horses here, but there was none who could find a flaw in his riding today.

Victor Over Tred Avon.

Sullivan avoided interference going to the first turn while Osculator, Okapi and Watch Him battled for the lead. Moving up from sixth place on the back stretch, Sullivan ducked to the rail and began to cut down the pacemakers. At the stretch turn, it was anybody's race. Thursday, Tred Avon, Osculator and Watch Him teamed up at the eighth pole. The horses were closely packed, with Thursday on the rail. Sullivan managed to pound a little more speed out of Thursday and the gelding drew out, but Tred Avon came thundering up. The judges separated them and the chartmakers gave Thursday a head margin. Osculator held on for the show.

The race was the Susquehanna Handicap, the feature of a day that saw a crowd in the neighborhood of 8,000 on hand.

Two Washington jockeys battled it out in the stretch in the first race and Henry Cruz on Cant Remember took the decision from Sonny Workman on Stand Pat, the public choice. Cant Remember and Sunador battled for the early lead, while Stand Pat had to fight to gain running room in third position. With the field starightened out in the stretch, Stand Pat gathered momentum and moved up on the out-

Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

The Hon. Michael Scott, heir of the Earl of Eldon, was a golf champion when Bobby Jones was two years old, and before Johnny Goodman was born—for in 1904 he won the open championship of Australia. And now, 19 years later, he has again won one of the major golf titles of the world—this time the British amateur championship.

He has played in the British amateur tournament for years, but until this year his nearest approach to the championship was 12 years ago when he got as far as the semi-finals. Scott is 55 years old. He is the oldest player ever to win the British amateur title, the nearest approach being when Charles Hutchings, in 1902, won the title at 53.

The Sprague "dynasty" of American consular service at Gibraltar began in 1832 when President Andrew Jackson appointed Horatio Sprague to the diplomatic post. Since then an uninterrupted line of the same family has served the Diplomatic Corps at this position.

Henri Lorin, a candidate in the French elections a year ago, was elected to the Chamber of Deputies, but nobody knew it, not even the election officials, until after M. Lorin was dead. The candidate died in Bordeaux while the votes were being counted—and the final tally showed him elected.

with Bill Bennings.

Dear Al: Havre de Grace Race Track.

Equipoise will end his running career at this track, competing in the Havre de Grace Handicap, the $10,000 closing-day feature, it was announced here. After that the Whitney star will be retired to the stud. A victory would put him second among the money winners. Broker's Tip, winner of the Kentucky Derby, has been named for the $10,000 Potomac on Saturday. The Bradley ace may not start but is advancing in training and certainly will compete at Laurel. The going was terrific from a Bennings angle yesterday. However, we escaped a shutout, and face the guns today with a clear eye.

BILL.

First race—Postscript didn't run a truly bad race around Chicago and seems bound to best anything this field offers. Willow King showed good speed on both fast and off tracks up New York way and will be the one to make a battle of this. Little Woman for the show.

Second race—Kate, at the weights under the riding of Meads, may account for the long end of this purse. Comes off a galloping victory in New York. Fit as a fiddle. March Step has been there or thereabouts in each outing of late. Renewed is consistent.

Third race—Chu Chu has been without a purse for a long time. I'm told that this one is ready to step down. Looks like the spot for a substantial mutuel. Black Target and Renaissance for the other awards.

Fourth race—Good Goods turned in a fine effort up at Belmont. Finished fast along with Chicstraw and Stand Pat. This colt is still a maiden, but I'm letting him represent the Bennings interests. Discovery and Prince Pompey for the rest.

Fifth race—Even Up drops five pounds off his last which was a good race. Putting him on top of Pompoleon, one that would prefer an off track. General Lejuene is still the dangerous one.

Sixth race—Lone Hand just missed in his race with Aegis here and seems to have the edge on this field. I am afraid of a half-miler. I mean Golden Princess. In top form and better than rated. Soeur Blanche for the rest.

Seventh race—Backgammon lost that last by a length, but figures to make up for that defeat here. Tuffy G and Bookie B for the other money awards.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CANT REMEMBER, $13.20, $3.40, $2.80; STAND PAT, $2.80, $2.40; SUNADOR, $3.00.

CANT REMEMBER, quickest to begin and having good speed, withstood stout early contention from SUNADOR in the first five furlongs, continued in resolute fashion under punishment approaching the finish and just lasted to outstay STAND PAT. Latter, prominent and strongly urged from the start, came courageously in the late stages and just failed to get up. SUNADOR, a keen factor and close to the winner until reaching the main stretch, faltered under punishment during the closing furlongs. RED JOHN closed gamely on the outside. PRETENTIOUS saved ground and had no excuses. HONEY SWEET could not menace the leaders. BUNTINO was outrun. ODYSSEY lost ground all the way.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; the Belair Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good (from gate). Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:45. Off at 2:47. Winner, G. D. Widener's ch. g. (3), by Caligula—Galacia. Trained by W. F. Mulholland. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:46 4-5, 1:12 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SATION, $4.20, $3.00, $2.60; FAIRBYPAIR, $3.40, $2.40; SPRINGSTEEL, $5.00.

SATION, outpaced in the initial sixteenth, drove through on the inside of the leaders in the next sixteenth to take command, went along smoothly thereafter under steadying restraint, and had something in reserve at the end. FAIRBYPAIR, in closest attendance of the winner throughout, continued with good courage in the final drive. SPRINGSTEEL came through on the inside in the last five-sixteenths and finished strong. REHOBOTH was gaining steadily near the end. SPEEDBOAT had nice speed early. CLOTHO was always outrun.

THIRD RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward (foaled in Maryland). Start good (from gate). Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:20. Off at 3:23½. Winner, L. E. Ogle's ch. or br. g. (5), by Sir Greyfell—Kitty Mount. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 1-5, 0:47 4-5, 1:13 2-5, 1:40 1-5, 1:44 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SALISBURY, $3.40, $2.40, $2.40; RUSTIC CUBA, $4.20, $3.00; GAIT, $3.60.

SALISBURY, quitclassing his company, went into command when ready, opened up a long lead and held away to the end. RUSTIC CUBA, displaced without effort by the winner, had enough left to stall off GAIT. Latter passed tiring horses in the last half mile. RUTH TIDINGS was never a strong factor. ANNIMESSIO was badly outrun all the way. NEMERC tired early. CELSUS was badly blocked when in between RUTH TIDINGS and SALISBURY at the first turn.

FOURTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good (from gate). Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:54½. Off at 3:56. Winner, Mrs. L. Sherman's ch. f. (4), by Single Foot—Sailing Along. Trained by L. Sherman. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24, 0:48 3-5, 1:14 1-5, 1:41, 1:45 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LIGHT BREEZE, $6.40, $3.40, $2.60; DARK SISTER, $5.60, $3.60; LAZI CANTER, $2.80.

LIGHT BREEZE, going in improved fashion and favored by better handling, began slowly, worked her way up on the outside with good speed, reached the leaders at the final furlong pole, and in a strong finish was up in the final sixteenth. DARK SISTER, rated for the first six furlongs, raced the leaders into submission, but could not withstand the winner. LAZI CANTER, in the thick of contention, gained a brief lead, but faltered during the last quarter of mile. MADAME SNOB was never able to threaten seriously. SUNNY SUSAN was held safe after five furlongs.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $2,500; the Susquehanna Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good (from gate). Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:39. Winner, S. D. Two-dollar mutuels paid—THURSDAY, $14.60, $10.40, $5.40; TRED AVON, $6.60, $5.80; OSCILLATOR (Coe entry), $5.40.

THURSDAY, avoiding interference and securing racing room on the inside to reach the pacemakers midway of the final turn, drove through on the inside during the stretch drive, and in a game finish outstayed TRED AVON after gaining a brief lead. TRED AVON, shuffled back midway of the back stretch, went to the outside at the final turn, and came willingly under punishment. OSCULATOR, hurried to the front and steadied until challenged, responded strongly after shaking off WATCH HIM, and fought it out stoutly. WATCH HIM, rushed hard and on the outside of the leaders, weakened slightly right at the end. POMPONIUS closed with a tremendous rush in the last half mile after trailing. SARADA broke sluggishly and never reach contention. MICROPHONE was badly interfered with at the final turn.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good (from gate). Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:59. Off at 5:02. Winner, C. V. Whitney's b. g. (3), by Bt. Germaine—Regret. Trained by J. Healey. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24, 0:47 4-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:38 4-5, 1:45 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—REDRESS, $8.20, $4.80, $3.60; LITTLE STOKES, $8.80, $4.20; SEA FOX, $3.80.

REDRESS, as usual slow to get settled in his stride, moved up strongly on the outside when strongly urged, came with good courage during the stretch drive and was up in the last 50 yards. LITTLE STOKES, kept under pressure from the start, challenged strongly entering the front stretch, wore down SEA FOX and MOUNTAIN ELK and fought it out resolutely. SEA FOX, taken in hand when MOUNTAIN ELK took command, made a determined effort when nearing the stretch, but faltered suddenly in the final furlong. ONE CHANCE had no excuse.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good (from gate). Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:29. Off at 5:31. Winner, G. W. Peacock Favored to Retain Crown as District Title Golf Play Starts Today

Only 12 Seek Honors in Tourney

Smallest Field Ever Enters 72-Hole Grind at Indian Spring.

Sutherland, Lunn, Miller and Belshe May Upset the Dope.

A GOLF-thirsty pack of 12 will attempt the task of outrunning the lone wolf, Roger Peacock, in the 72-hole District championship starting this morning at the Indian Spring Country Club course. Included in the pack will be a band of golfers who have ability, but are conceded little chance of keeping pace with the wolf.

With only a skeleton field entered, the smallest in history, the District Golf Association, which annually sponsors the event, finds itself very much embarrassed. Post entries will be accepted. Only an unexpected last-minute flurry of contestants can save the tournament from going down in the books as a complete competitive fizzle.

Won Easly Last Year.

Maryland champion and winner of the Congressional invitation, Peacock is expected to waltz home by as great, if not greater, margin than last season, when he spread-eagled the field by 10 shots with a 299 total at Chevy Chase.

Peacock knows how to play shots by memory at Indian Spring, and it looks like 290 will be the winning 72-hole total. Anyhow, if Peacock can play anywhere near as well today and tomorrow as he did in the Maryland classic, when he shot 144 holes in 2 below par, a new District record is certain to be established.

Maj. R. K. Sutherland, Army and Navy star; John R. Miller, of Beaver Dam; Dick Lunn, of Chevy Chase, and Tom Belshe, of Indian Spring, are figured to put up a bold front, Sutherland in particular. He is a grand shotmaker.

But if Peacock doesn't win—it'll be a tremendous upset.

Giants Welcomed Home by 20,000

New York, Sept. 20 (AP).—The New York Giants, headed by Manager Bill Terry, came home from St. Louis today with the National League pennant, and into a riotous celebration.

Two bands blared as a crowd, estimated at 20,000, thronged Grand Central Station and the streets outside, cheering the players, and all but crushing them in their enthusiasm. Police had great difficulty getting the players out of the hands of the crowd and into waiting autos.

The mayor's committee for the reception of distinguished guests, headed by William A. Dalton, president of the New York Athletic Club, formally greeted the players. There will be a reception for them tomorrow morning at City Hall.

Rotary-Lions Play.

Rotary and Lions clubs of Alexandria will meet today in their annual baseball game.

Defends Crown

ROGER PEACOCK, who won the District title last year by 10 strokes.

Corby Cup Golf Captured by Miss Neff

18-Year-Old Girl's Net 85 Beats Miss Brauner by One Stroke.

THE Corby Cup tournament, one of the features of the District women's golf season, went into the possession of Nellie Mae Neff yesterday at the Columbia course.

Miss Neff, 18 years old, entered from the Manor Club, turned in a gross of 103. This, with her 18 handicap, gave her an 85 net that enabled her to beat out Elizabeth Brawner, of Columbia, for the championship by 1 stroke. Miss Brawner finished with 98—12—86.

Miss Neff, who succeeds Florence Scott, also of her club, as champion, scored 54—49 for the two nines, while Miss Brawner posted a fine 44 for the stretch after taking 54 for the initial nine.

Low gross prize resulted in a tie between Mrs. Don Scott, of Indian Spring, who had 47—49—96, and Mrs. J. F. Dowdell, of Congressional, with 48—48—96.

A field of 120 women competed, but the scoring was unusually high, and many of the contestants either picked up or failed to turn in scores.

Helen Dettweiler, Congressional, and Mrs. L. G. Pray, Manor, had gross scores of 98 each.

The following other low scores were reported: Mrs. J. R. Defarges, 105—16—89; Mrs. J. J. McCarthy, 106—18—88; Mrs. J. A. Marr, 100—12—88, and Mrs. William Brundage, 106—18—88.

Congressional Trials.

Congressional Country Club golfers will qualify Saturday and Sunday in the annual club championship won last year by Page Hufty. Match play is slated for September 30 and October 1.

Manor Women Play.

Play in the Manor Club women's golf championship will begin Monday with an 18-hole qualifying round. Match play will start Tuesday and will be resumed Thursday, with the finals set for Friday.

Turner Offers Mat Variety Tonight

Zaharias Faces McMillan, Garibaldi Meets Slagel in Cofeatures.

IF the agony boys live up to advance press notices, rassle addicts will be doled out plenty to enthuse over at tonight's show at Griffith Stadium. Old Doctor Turner has dug up some new tonics for the paying guests, has mixed them with the regular prescription he has been handing out each week, and the effect should be mighty interesting. All types of grimacers have been booked, with rassling, acrobatics, comedy and even wrestling likely to develop on the card.

The cofeatures are as different as days and night, these bringing together Gino Garibaldi and Sol Slagel in one and George Zaharias and Jim McMillan in the other.

Can Take It, Too.

Slagel is a powerful fellow who knows all of the tricks of the game and, in addition, is a contortionist and is double-jointed. The result is that his foes have difficulty in putting damaging pressure on all leg and arm holds. Sol can take it, too; that is, he has not been hurt in previous matches here, but he has never met any Garibaldis in these bouts. His showing against the rough Italian is a test for him, and if he passes it, he will be given bigger and better matches from now on.

Zaharias, with his famous double-action knee, is known here—and not liked—and there is a possibility that the fans who want to see him knocked off will have their wish gratified tonight, for McMillan downs them all when he connects properly with one of his flying tackles.

Variety in Other Bouts.

Variety also is marked in the supplemental bouts. For speed and pep, Cliff (Swede) Olsen and Paul Boesch have been called into action against each other, while Dr. Karl Sarpolis and his famous flying scissors will be tossed into the ring with Herbie Freeman as the foil.

Finally, if straight rassling—science and strength—is wanted, Promoter Turner has paired up Wladek Zbyszko and Milo Steinborn.

The card stacks up well from start to finish and should prove to be one of the best of the season. Women fans need only to present a paying escort in lieu of an admission ticket, while kiddies under 16 will be assessed the usual 25 cents.

Holmes, Palais Royal, Leads Store Batters

Bill Holmes, of Palais Royal, topped the batters in the Department Store League with the fancy average of .469 in 14 games. The champion finished well in the lead of his nearest competitor, Lefty Deck, Lansburgh star, who garnered a .452 average.

Paul Messink, Hecht playing manager, led the twirlers with nine victories and two losses for a mark of .818. Messink defeated each team in the league three times.

Women May See Flag Clinched as Guests of Nats

President Clark Griffith, of the Nats, has decided to give the fair fans a break in view of the fact that tomorrow is an open date, so the second ladies' day invitation of the week has been extended. As has been the case of late, women guests must use the upper Georgia avenue runway and take seats in the upper stands.

"We have a good chance of clinching the pennant tomorrow," said Griffith last night, "and I want the women fans to get a chance to see this epic game in case we do so."

Tidball Victor Over Vines In 3 Sets

Bows in First, Then Wins Two to Complete Bad Year for His Foe.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20 (AP).—The disastrous tennis season for Ellsworth Vines, jr., came to an abrupt end in his home State here today when Jack Tidball, National intercollegiate champion, eliminated the former National titleholder in the quarter-finals of the Pacific Southwest tournament today. The scores were 1—6, 6—4, 7—5.

Vines, who said on his return here from the East that this would be his last tournament of the season, literally threw the match away. He went out to win the first set easily, putting too much power in his volleys for Tidball to handle. Then in the second set he appeared to lose the accuracy and timing that had caused his opponent so much trouble, and the University of California at Los Angeles star took the set to square matters.

Vines started out in his old-time form again to pick up five straight games in the final set, only to lapse into a maze of errors that allowed Tidball to take the next seven games and the match.

Doerer, Medalist, Bows to Dunton

McCarthy Is Pressed to Win at Anacostia.

Elimination of the medalist, Tom Doerer, and a par-smashing 68 by C. K. Dunton featured yesterday's first-round matches in the Anacostia open golf tournament.

Doerer, whose 67 won by a mile in the qualifying round, bowed to W. W. Seay, 1 up, while Dunton turned in some of his finest golf in whipping Eddie Stolark, 3 and 2.

Martin F. McCarthy, Beaver Dam seige gun and big favorite, was given a battle for dear life by J. A. Micker before the private club star triumphed, 2 up.

Claude Rippy, "uptown" champion, was marooned in North Carolina and was forced to forfeit his match to Herman Allen.

Bradley Burrows, pressed to the limit, won from J. B. Robertson, 1 up, to enter the quarter-finals.

Results:

W. W Seay beat Tom Doerer, 1 up; Bradley Burrows beat J. B. Robertson, 1 up; John Connelly won by default from C. R. Parks; Herman Allen won by default from Claude Rippy; C. K. Dunton beat E. J. Stolark, 3 and 2; Dr. McCullough beat W. D. Bradshaw, 3 and 2; Alan E. Sanders beat W. J. Barrett, 1 up; Martin F. McCarthy beat J. A. Micker, 2 up.

Today's Pairings.

11:00, Seay vs. Burrows; 11:15, Connelly vs. Allen; 3:30, Dunton vs. McCullough; 2:30, Barrett vs. McCarthy.

Bob O'Toole Elected By Jr. Federal Bowlers

Bob O'Toole, of the United States Marine Corps, last night was elected president of the Junior Federal Bowling League, which will begin operations Tuesday, October 3.

Frank B. Schlosser, General Counsel Office, was named vice president, and Harry Seyforth, General Accountant, secretary-treasurer and scorer. Twelve teams are in the league.

Hurt Leg Keeps Hornsby Out Of Line-up

Not Through, Says Browns' Manager; Stewart to Pitch Today.

WASHINGTON fans have never seen Roger Hornsby in action here—and it is a treat to see the present manager of the St. Louis Browns in action when he is right. But he is not "right" now, suffering from an injured leg muscle received recently; otherwise, he said yesterday, he likely would be in the line-up right now.

Hornsby, although 38 years of age and a paid player since way back in 1914, naturally has slowed up a little afield, but Father Time has not dimmed his batting eye and he hinted yesterday that he expects to see considerable service next year, especially if more hitting power is not added to his team over the off-season.

"Mr. Griffith tells me he has received a number of requests for me to play against the Nats here," he said, "but if I got in there I would not spare myself and might not only rehurt my leg, but even do myself some damage that would affect me next year. And you never can tell but what I might want to try a comeback next year."

The Browns end their work here for the 1933 season this afternoon, following which the Nats idle and the Browns hike for a series with Detroit in the Ford city. Manager Rogers Hornsby will use either Jack Knott or Irving Hadley on the mound, while it is Lefty Walter Stewart's turn to do the flinging for the natives.

Applications for world's series seats in the pavilion are coming in so fast that Washington Club officials have opened a special window at the stadium to take orders. While these seats look a long ways off from action on the field, they are far from undesirable; in fact, many claim that the big doings of a world's series can be better enjoyed because of the panoramic view of everything offered.

The Nats had the bases filled thrice in the third, the Nat batters getting so hot that it looked as though the fire department would have to be called out.

Gullic protested a second called strike on him while at the tee in the fifth, and this so peeved him that he clouted the ball into the left-field stands for a homer.

Passers Sign Woods, 1932 Old Line Star

Al Woods, of the last year's University of Maryland team, has been signed by the Washington Passers to play a backfield position. Woods probably will be in the lineup when the Passers meet the Chicago Bears at Griffith Stadium October 11.

Pegler Suspects Players Helped Terry Show Up Boss McGraw

By Westbrook Pegler.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Examining the executive methods by which Will Terry was able to win a pennant with the Giants in the year after John McGraw abandoned the club in eighth place, one begins to suspect that ball players might be people after all. On the day that Terry took charge of the bewildered and rather surly crowd whom McGraw had quit abruptly he announced the immediate suspension of the reform-school system of discipline, including the curfew and the rite of counting the chain-gang into their cells at night, as well as any lingering survivals of the switchboard, keyhole and waste-basket scheme of espionage which had been practiced by Cozy Dolan, the old porrista, before destiny beckoned him out of baseball and into bootlegging.

Sentenced later on to spend some time under glass for selling drams in Chicago, Mr. Dolan, by a sweet prank of justice, had occasion to study the effect on a free and restless spirit of the very practices which, in his term as the house dick of baseball, he had deemed good and just for athletes whose worst offense had been to sign up with the New York Giants.

Lost His Confidence.

Mr. McGraw, after long and troublesome experience with some of the most picturesque inebriates of the old days of baseball, had lost some of his old confidence in ball-player nature. Following the last escapade of Shuffling Phil Douglas, who got soused, fell to brooding over his troubles and wrote a letter to a rival offering to go absent from the Giants when they need him most, McGraw apparently convinced himself that the best of them were not much better than the worst and would bear watching. Too, he said he was tired of picturesque characters, adding that his hair was much the grayer for the worry such people had given him, and showed a preference for plain, dumb, docile efficiency in his men. It seems to have been a mistake to generalize this way and it probably would have been better for Mr. McGraw if he had discriminated between one ball player and another. But then there came the case of the O'Connell boy, a quiet and apparently harmless character who, with Dolan, was made a victim of the celebrating kidding-around scandal of 1924.

Then, Mr. Graw for a fact, did have some reason to decide that the only way to keep men good was to make them be good. Not only that, but in the development of his discipline he took to running the details of the ball game from his murky cave and it offended the pride of the players in whom he simultaneously demanded and rebuked dashing initiative to be publicly beholden to their boss for instructions in the tiniest details of their work.

On the day that Terry took hold and the Giants won a double-header for him in celebration of their emancipation, Will announced that henceforth the players might go to the opera if they wished at night and even tarry for a triple-decker ham-and-swiss-on-rye with mayonaise at the corner drug store or speakeasy before going to bed. They had his permission to drink beers, large or small, and even more boisterous waters, the only catch in this new freedom being that if in consequence of dissipation, they couldn't play ball for him they would be fired.

He put it up to the athletes to keep reasonably fit, adding, however, that he didn't like the odor of a drunkard and wouldn't keep one around. In action on the field he gave the pitchers credit for professional intelligence and invited them to take counsel with the catchers and with them take the resonsibility for their decisions. If a pitcher and a catcher, working on the hitter, couldn't guess what ought to be thrown at the subject's weakness or the guess went wrong that was just baseball to Mr. Terry.

Method Went Stale.

Mr. McGraw, in his years as the master mind, had been inclined to attend to many of these mental chores, and, though he had enjoyed many years of success, his team now hadn't won a pennant in eight years and was settled in eighth place.

There was a conflict of ambition between Terry and Freddie Lindstrom, his old roommate and friend, who had hoped to be manager himself, but Terry disposed of this trouble by trading it away to Pittsburgh this year. Terry remained a ball player among ball players, but declined the job of chaperon, and was just sufficiently executive to make his own decisions and enforce them. Without luck he would not have been the conspicuous success that he is at this time, but his luck worked and justified him in actions for which otherwise he would now be condemned and possibly fired.

Walt Mason, Himself

Living in Hope.

Though ailing, I am full of hope, I read so many helpful ads concerning brands of healing dope, and pills, and belts, and liver pads. I buy bitters by the quart and wormwood tea in gallon jugs; I hand out coin of every sort for strongly recommended drugs. I have been using Jimpson's pills, which have enjoyed a world-wide fame, and were designed to cure the ills which work such havoc in my frame. I've taken five before my meals, and seven when I go to bed, and I am sure that no one feels more down at heel, or nearer dead. Those pills have cured a million gents, whose course would otherwise be run; and yet I feel like 14 cents, although I've taken half a ton. Am I discouraged? Not at all! I'm still a hopeful sort of man, for in the Semiweekly Call I read of Johnsing's liquid bran. Invented by a man of brains, whose lore is vast, whose heart is warm, it was designed for just such pains as now infest my careworn form. It's made of bran and melted rocks, and assfetida and glue; it is indorsed by all the docs, by many famous prelates, too. I'll try this potion for a while, and if it leaves my form a wreck, I still shall wear a hopeful smile—there's always something else on deck.

New Yorker Today

By Mark Barron.

New York.—Donning a shockproof suit of armor, and twirling a Roman spear, this department sallied forth on its semiannual inspection of Harlem. It is pleasant to report that things have been going very well since my last foray.

The expedition got off to rather a jittery start. As I stepped from a taxicab at 125th street at 2 a. m., I bumped right into a coffin, which had been left, for some inexplicable reason, on the curb.

The night clubs report the depression hasn't gotten that far up town yet, and they have hopes, what with the NRA and the new optimism on lower Broadway, that it expired somewhere on the way. Five of the more torrid late hour rendezvous have been doing turnaway business, although it is observed they still charge a king's ransom for a ham sandwich.

Cheerful Note.

The cab drivers in the neighborhood have a different idea of economics. You can engage one for all night, and he will wait for you outside each club or show that you visit. You are charged only for what the meter ticks off when you are actually riding.

The breakfast dance, another favorite Harlem custom, still survives. The dance doesn't begin until 7 a. m., and fried chicken and hot biscuits are served to all customers.

Sugar Hill, a neighborhood not far from the shadow of Columbia University, is where the wealthy elite of Harlem live. In that section dwell Ethel Waters, Bill Robinson, Cab Calloway, Duke Ellington, Countee Cullen and other outstanding members of their race.

Tall, smiling Ethel Waters is the angel of mercy of Harlem. It is usually to her that the down and out come for help. Her singing has won her fame and fortune, but she doesn't forget the days when she had to struggle as a laundress and hotel chambermaid.

Up From the Deep.

The pilot of one of the fireboats that chug around Manhattan island reports this as the most eerie experience of his career.

A few years ago he was patrolling slowly up the East River when he noted the water being disturbed by an eruption of bubbles. He signaled the engine room to stop just as the heads of three men suddenly bobbed to the surface of the river.

The men were quickly hauled out of the water onto the deck of the fireboat. They were construction workers who had been digging a subway tube under the river. Too much compressed air had been released into the tank in which they were working, blowing them right through the mud to the surface.

Sign over a Lexington avenue book store reads: "Wise Men Fish Here."

How to Keep Well

Insomniphobia and Something Else.

A young lady writes an eight-page letter in which she relates details of her troubles. For some purposes what she writes could be condensed into two sentences—one a statement of fact, the other a question: "I have insomnia. What can I do about it?"

Her trouble is worry lest she will not sleep. Her worry starts in the morning. By noon it has her pretty well tired out. On the days when worrying is extra good she can manage to worry about what may happen two or more nights away.

There are a great many persons who say they have insomnia who really have insomniphobia. But that is a somewhat narrow view of the girl's case. She has a psychoneurosis of a mixed psychasthenia and hysteria type. Her brain does not work right. This does not mean she is insane nor that she will ever be. She has brains enough and her thinking organs should be able to work all right, but they do not. A form of fear called anxiety is the principal reason her thinking wobbles.

All of this may sound rather cloudy and vaporous, but where we call attention to the young lady's statement that she is all tired out in the morning, that a good night's sleep does not rest them, brand themselves as psychoneurotics, and most of them of the psychasthenia group.

They are untrained or wrongly trained. The treatment for them consists in mental training. The psychoneurotics are constitutional learners and, in the main, every one must train himself. It is not easy to get a psychoneurotic to undertake self-training and it is not likely he will carry it through. But that is the line on which efforts and cure must run.

Poison Ivy.

W. G. B. writes: Re inquiry in your column recently on how to cure poison ivy blisters, I recently found that ordinary gasoline applied liberally was a most efficient cure after a bottle of drug store medicine had failed. Apply as soon as possible after poison is noticed.

Reply.

Folks have been writing me that for several years and I have been printing it. Get on the circuit and stay with us. Thanks.

1st Tilt Today For Emerson Gridders

To Meet Training School; Central Team Goes to Charlottesville.

NATIONAL Training School will usher in its 1933 football season at 2:30 p. m. today when it plays host to Harley Sanborn's Emerson Institute gridders on the training school field. The game was originally slated for yesterday, but at the request of Sanborn, who desired to get one more day's practice for his charges, who have been out less than a week, it was set back the extra day.

Central High will play its second game of the week when it journeys to Charlottesville to meet the Fives under the lights tonight. Bert Coggin's charges showed up well in the opener against Alexandria Tuesday afternoon, despite the closeness of the score.

Game Is Canceled.

An announcement from Emerson Institute, yesterday said the game scheduled with Harrisburg Academy, November 3, has ben canceled by the school. However, the fray with Charlottesville Fives, listed for October 24, has been moved back to the canceled Harrisburg date.

Four transfers from local scholastic elevens have tended to boost up the stock at Devitt Prep. No less than five new men with experience elsewhere are in line for regular posts. They are Hogan, former Gonzaga flash; Bombard of Tech; Aronoff and Minni, Eastern luminaries, and Bunch, a star with Washington and Lee in 1932.

Dick Turner, former Tech player and later a University of Virginia star, has a short but impressive schedule arranged. Opening October 7, Devitt will meet Fork Union Military Academy at home. Then follow National Training, Charlottesville School, Georgetown Frosh, Randolph-Macon Academy, and Catholic U. freshmen in the order named.

Boken walked. Scharein took Sewell's grounder and threw it away. Crowder flied out. Myer walked. Manush singled to right, Cronin singled to left. And the Nats had their 13-0 lead.

What happened thereafter was unimportant, even Gullic's soaring home run into the left field stands in the fifth inning.

side and failed by a head to make up the ground. Cant Remember ran the 5½ furlongs in 1:06 2-5, and paid $13.20.

Sation, George D. Widener's star sprinter, under a powerful ride by Don Meade, won the second race in a blanket finish with Pairbypair and Springsteel. Sation and Pairbypair were chief rivals for the 6 furlongs. The first named gained a length and a half advantage on the swing for the stretch that was to decide the issue. Sation was the favorite at a shade over even money.

Tipton Has Three Winners.

The third race, a claiming affair for horses foaled in Maryland, proved a hop, skip and a jump for Salisbury. The big gray followed Rustic Cuba until Jockey Tipton, who rode three winners for the day, decided to go to the front. When he did, Salisbury drew away and had a seven-length advantage at the finish. Rustic Cuba was second and Galt third. The winner was an odds-on favorite.

Light Breeze, winner of four straight on the half-milers, circled her field to take the fourth race. The favored Lazi Canter was third behind Dark Sister. The winner was well backed and paid a $6.40 mutual.

To the winner. The Post will award four box seats to all games played in Washington.

To the second-place contestant The Post will award three box seats to all the games played in Washington.

To the third-place contestant, The Post will award two box seats to all games played in Washington.

In the event of a tie, the awards will be based on priority of receipt.

It is not necessary to use the attached blanks in order to compete in the contest.

Each participant is limited to one entry in the contest.

The Post will announce the awards on the morning after the first game of the series in New York.

27 Victories, 15 Losses For Mount Rainier Nine

Mount Rainier unlimited dismonders have concluded their campaign after compiling a creditable record in their first season of competition in that class. Twenty-seven victories were scored against 15 defeats, and during one stage of the year the Mounts won 22 in 24 starts.

Beginning the season as a senior nine in that division of the Capital City League, Mount Rainier went into the unlimited field when the league senior loop was dissolved. With its group of younger players the Mounts did well against more experienced opponents.

Les Chewning and Billy Liggett did most the hurling for the time, with Billy Cole and Charles Rocker behind the plate. Joe Morello at first base, Tilly Scott and Walter Moore at second, Ed Luckett at short stop and Francis Green and Johnny Wanley at third comprised the Mount's infield. Bob Newell, Jimmy Liggett and Charley Moxley formed the outfield. The nine was managed by Carson Myers.

Unlimiteds End Season on Sunday

Second-Half Title Clinched by Stantons; Three Games Listed.

UNLIMITED teams in the Capital City League conclude their long season Sunday with the Stanton Cleaners perched at the top of the heap assured of the second-half honors. Three games are scheduled, but they have no bearing on the outcome of the race.

Al Clark's Stauntons trek out to Magruder Park, Hyattsville, for a game with Dor-A, while the Griffith Blue Coals meet the Federals on the Ellipse and Miller Furniture engages Congress Heights in the latter's ballwick.

The Millers are in for a tough afternoon at Congress Heights. The teams have been at daggers-points all season. After winning the first half, the Millers have fared none too well in the second. Congress Heights has played in and out ball.

Tonight, pilots of midget teams will meet at 8 o'clock in the office of the Playground Department, District Building. Plans will be discussed for the elimination series, which will determine the winner of the second half. Washington Maid, winner of the first series, will meet the survivor in a three-game set-to for the title.

Students Flock To 6 Colleges In Washington

Registrations Show Slight Changes From Levels Set Last Year.

Undergraduates and prospective freshmen thronged administration buildings, classrooms and dormitories of Washington's six colleges and universities yesterday as the scholastic year opened officially. Total registrations were approximately the same as last autumn.

George Washington University, with a roster estimated by President Cloyd H. Marvin at 5,000, led the procession. He said that instead of the usual number of part-time students, about 80 per cent will be on regular schedules.

At Georgetown University 500 were registered in the Liberal Arts College, 300 in the Foreign Service School and about 500 in the Law College. The Medical and Dental schools do not open until tomorrow.

Catholic University had a total of 1,800—slightly ahead of last year. American University lost slightly, with an enrollment of about 300. Gallaudet College announced an approximate total of 102. At Southeastern University, of the Y. M. C. A., no figures were available.

Programs consisted of addresses and first sessions in the classrooms. President Marvin addressed the student body at George Washington. Dr. William A. White, superintendent of St. Elizabeths Hospital, talked to George Washington medical students. Elsewhere students filed for the first time into the lecture halls and laboratories.

Here and there, on the grass between college buildings, a few early autumn leaves tumbled, like crumpled fragments of last year's diplomas.

Rotary Has Forum On Social Service

Leaders Tell of Progress and Needs of Groups.

Explaining that every effort has been made to hold foreclosures in abeyance, John L. Weaver told the Rotary Club yesterday that distress from mortgages in Washington is less than generally supposed.

He spoke on housing in the symposium on local community social service activities. Ernest H. Daniel, chairman of the District Committee on Employment, outlined work done by his group in handling cases of unmarried men and women seeking employment; Charles Demonet discussed the war veterans' problem; Arthur J. May made a plea for maintenance of Washington's character-building social agencies; Daniel J. Callahan discussed the National Training School for Boys; Dr. Allen Talbot pointed out the increasing needs of public hospitals, and Edwin C. Graham and Dr. Arthur C. Christie dealt with the activities of the Community Chest and the Council of Social Agencies.

Canning Jars Sought For Welfare Projects

Lack of jars is hampering canning centers operating under auspices of the Council of Social Agencies, Mrs. W. A. Roberts, council secretary, said yesterday.

"There are hundreds of quart and half-gallon jars stored in cellars and garrets here," she said. "If those having such jars will call Metropolitan 2284, we will distribute them for preserving products of subsistence gardens."

Kirkland Recognized As Public Accountant

Assistant District Attorney James B. Kirkland has been awarded a certified public accountant certificate by the State of Delaware, it was announced last night.

Mr. Kirkland is believed the first Washington assistant district attorney to be a certified public accountant. Although he has been connected with prosecution of many liquor cases, it is expected his accountancy training will be utilized in fraud and embezzlement cases.

143 Married Employes Will Lose Postal Jobs

Approximately 143 married employes in the Washington postoffice will be hit by the Postoffice Department's order dismissing 350 married workers throughout the service, Postmaster William C. Mooney said yesterday.

The separations are part of the 6,000 ordered in the department's retrenchment program. The 143 married workers employed in the local city post office will be given the option of either leaving the service themselves, or allowing their husbands or wives, also in the service, to resign, it was said.

D. C. Budget To Show Pay Increase Only

Douglas Puts in Salary Items Without 15 Per Cent Cut.

The only increase in the next District budget over this year's will be in salaries, it was learned yesterday.

This is because of Director of the Budget Douglas's order that salary items be put in without consideration of the 15 per cent cut.

The budget of this year is about $33,000,000, so the next budget, now being prepared by the District Economy Committee, will approximate $37,000,000.

District's Pork Share Allotted

Will Get Two and Quarter Million Pounds Under Farm Aid Plan.

Two and a quarter million pounds of pork has been allotted to the District for the needy, under the farm relief plan, it was announced yesterday.

Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Relief Administrator, said his organization would pay distribution costs. The meat will be distributed by the District relief organization.

The pork will be treated with salt so that it can be kept fresh about six months.

Sewage Engineers Begin D. C. Study

New Board Confers With District Officials.

The Sewage Disposal Board—three nationally prominent sanitary engineers, who are to outline a sewage disposal plan to protect the Potomac from pollution—met yesterday.

The trio, Harrison P. Eddy, of Boston; John H. Gregory, of Baltimore, and Samuel A. Greeley, of Chicago, were selected Saturday by the District Commissioners. They are to be paid $40,000 from a grant from the Public Works Administration.

Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner; J. B. Gordon, District Sanitary Engineer, and the three sewage disposal specialists conferred for several hours.

Maj. Gotwals plans to apply to the Public Works Administration or Congress for money to build a sewage disposal plant for the city.

12 Policemen Start Instruction Course

Only Dozen Apply for 27 Vacancies.

Twelve new policemen began three-month training yesterday in the police school of instruction, under the direction of Lieut. Harvey Callahan.

The rookies include a Georgetown University law graduate, a former Lorton Reformatory guard, a fireman and a taxi driver.

Superintendent of Police Ernest W. Brown said only 12 persons applied for the 27 vacancies.

The vacancies were created by a shortage of appropriations in July.

Pilling Bequeaths Estate to Widow

Mrs. Florence Pilling, widow of Walter J. Pilling, real estate operator, who died last month, was named principal beneficiary of his $300,000 estate. This was disclosed yesterday when his will was filed in the District Supreme Court.

He left his real estate business to John O. Ellen, a friend, and half interest in a fishing camp at New Brunswick, N. J., to Dr. Camp Stanley.

New Pursuit

Former Boy Lion Hunter Starts Law Course.

Big game hunting and explorations may appeal to the sporting instinct of Robert Dick Douglas, nationally known Boy Scout, but not as a permanent career.

The young Georgetown College student who hunted lions in Africa at the age of 15 with Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson, and more recently explored the craters of Alaska's greatest volcanoes with Father Bernard Hubbard, S. J., the "Glacier Priest," entered Georgetown Law School yesterday to prepare himself for a career of public service.

He is a great-grandson of Stephen A. Douglas, the "Little Giant of Democracy." His father was a law graduate of Georgetown and former athlete.

This past summer Douglas gave up outdoor life.

Douglas attended Georgetown College. After completing his law course, he expects to return to his native State of North Carolina to practice law and enter politics.

Pact Reached In Labor's Row With Catalano

Long-Disputed Claims of Bricklayers Will Be Settled.

The long-disputed claims of bricklayers against the Catalano Construction Co., which is building the Phelps Vocational School, will be settled today or tomorrow, it was learned last night.

Corporation Counsel Bride said Bricklayers Union representatives and the construction company had reached an agreement.

The dispute involves a difference in wages. Bricklayers were paid at a scale less than provided by the Bacon-Davis act. Their claims are for the difference in wages.

It was understood the firm would meet the claims. Cancellation of the contract was threatened several times because of the Catalano Co.'s failure to meet the demands.

Finally the Commissioners agreed to withhold $8,000 from payments to Catalano until the dispute was settled. The workers claims are less than $5,000.

Robbers Frustrated.

Robbery was attempted yesterday at the home of former Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, at 4500 Garfield street northwest, occupied by J. W. Marriott. Mariott told police he was awakened by men in the rear yard with flashlights. He said they were frightened away by lights.

Liquor Murder Solution Near; Dozen Grilled

Auto Like One Occupied by Killers Found; Driver and Owner Held.

Hours spent grilling nearly a dozen prisoners after an all-day trail through underworld haunts, last night brought the police homicide squad near a solution to the gangland murder of Charles W. Jones, 32-year-old liquor runner.

"It is like a game of poker," declared Capt. B. W. Thompson, in charge of the investigation, "we need one more card to complete our hand before we can play."

With the proper "breaks" members of the squad were confident of an early solution. They refused to comment on progress made in last night's questioning of witnesses, however.

Bullet, Auto Clews.

A .45-caliber bullet, taken from the murdered man's brain, and an automobile believed connected with the slaying, are major clews. A coroner's jury will hear the case as soon as the police investigation develops definite information.

Meanwhile, nine persons, one of them a woman, are held under technical charges of investigation. Several others were released after questioning.

An automobile, answering the description of one used in the killing, was picked up near Eighth and G streets northwest late yesterday. Joseph Kelley, 27, of Baltimore, driver of the car, was held. Michael Vigliucci, of 1230 Fourteenth street northwest, is owner of the machine, police said. He is also held, but claims the car was stolen.

Others Under Arrest.

Others held include William Quirk, 20, of an Eleventh street address; Myer Belasco, 25, of 803 Third street northwest; Lee H. DeBoe, 30, of 211 Massachusetts avenue northwest; Julius Jackson, colored, 21, of 1540 First street northwest; Edward and Buford Findley, brothers, of 1230 Fourteenth street northwest, and Miss Zane Bock, 19, of 1214 K street northwest.

Belasco has retained Dorsey K. Offutt, nephew of George W. Offutt, of the Washington Board of Trade, as attorney.

Jones was slain Monday in a hail of bullets from two speeding sedans in an alley near the Government Printing Office. The murder climaxed a "liquor war," police said.

U. S. Savings Group Retains Hamilton Stock

Approximately 25 per cent of the stock subscribed for the new Hamilton National Bank by depositors of United States Savings Bank when the latter was a prospective component of the Hamilton, has been allowed to remain by its subscribers. This was announced yesterday by Hamilton Bank officials.

When United States Savings Bank was excluded from the merger by court action, subscribers from the savings bank were advised by Hamilton officials they could call for refunds. Many, however, declined refunds. Hamilton stock certificates will be issued to them.

McKellar Asks Increase Now In Federal Pay

Former Economy Zealot Urges Expansion in Accord With NRA.

Senator Kenneth McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, member of the old Senate Economy committee and former exponent of Government retrenchment, thinks the next Congress instead should restore Federal salaries and expand Government services.

In an exclusive interview, the Tennessee Senator voiced belief that retrenchment has served its purposes and the Government now should look to bringing its employment policies and general operations in line with the national recovery act.

"The only way we can hope to restore prosperity is by all pulling together, industry and Government alike," he said.

"I do not mean the Government should maintain any useless functions or take any unnecessary employes. But I do think necessary services should be maintained and salaries restored as far as possible in harmony with the recovery program."

Just returned from a tour of Canada and New England, senator McKellar expressed belief that the next Congress may be given over to supplementary recovery legislation "if we find we are going to need any."

He said he favors any "controlled inflation" that may be undertaken by the President. As for reports that Democrats may stage a "revolt" next session to secure more patronage, he said if there was any such move, he would not be party to it.

Landscape Plans Made For Health Building

Landscape plans for the new Public Health Building probably will be considered by the Fine Arts commission at its meeting next month, H. P. Caemmerer, secretary, said yesterday.

The designs are being made by J. H. De Sibour, the architect who also designed the building.

The Public Health Service will seek public works funds for the landscaping.

Held up at the point of a pistol, Nick Coulinos surrendered $15 to a robber who entered his restaurant yesterday at 1905 Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

Soups On!

Takoma Park Thief Loots Filled Ice Boxes.

Takoma Park's hungry bandit returned yesterday.

Last week an intruder ransacked a Takoma Park home, centering on the icebox, where he helped himself to a meal.

Yesterday the home of D. Kenneth Howard, 7713 Chicago avenue, Takoma Park, was entered. A small amount of money was taken, closets were prowled and the icebox looted. The burglar again got a full meal.

Building Rent Cut Requested

Downtown Apartment Is First to Experience Ruling.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday recommended that owners of a downtown apartment building reduce the rent schedule 16 per cent. This is the first apartment rental reduction recommendation by the commission.

James Ring, special rent research worker, analyzed the property. Under the reduced rent the building would yield its owners a fair return, he said.

The building, now 28 per cent vacant, has a total rental schedule of $1,411.50 per month. The owners have been asked to reduce this to $1,180 per month.

Woman Asks $25,000 For Cuts in Trolley Car

Annie Lee Tucker, 1362 Spring road, northwest, yesterday sued the Capital Traction Co. for $25,000 for injuries allegedly received last September when a window in a street car broke and cut her.

She is now doing similar work in Baltimore.

A retreat for nurses and social workers will be held Sunday at the Washington Retreat House, 4000 Harewood road northeast.

Rev. Edward F. Garesche, S. J., spiritual director of the National Catholic Federation of Nurses, will give the retreat. He recently attended the International Council of Nurses at Lourdes, France.

Board Will Ask Use of $14,187 Saved by Cuts

School Body Also Orders Probe of All Children Working Under NRA.

The Board of Education yesterday decided to ask the District Commissioners to release $14,187 from impoundment so that 186 school officers may be paid during the next 12 months.

The School board saved this sum by retirements and reduction of salaries. Transfer of the money for other school uses was not allowed heretofore. A principal for the new Taft Junior High School also would be paid out of this fund.

Henry I. Quinn, lawyer board member, attacked the District Commissioners for delaying repair on the Terrell Junior High School, colored. A request for the repair was made July 18. The work was not begun until this month, and workmen are hampering study, he said.

Children's Work Scanned.

Miss Fay L. Bentley, director of school attendance and work permits, was instructed to review all work permits issued to determine what minors are working in violation of NRA codes.

Vacation permits will be recalled in cases of children under 16 who are working more than three hours a day for employers displaying Blue Eagles.

Married Teacher Returned.

An order reinstating Mrs. Page Kirk, teacher of mechanical drawing at Western High School, was approved. Mrs. Kirk resigned in order that her husband might keep his Federal job in the Geological Survey. Secretary of the Interior Ickes said that she might retain her post without endangering the position of her husband. Reinstatement of Mrs. Kirk will open the way for a drive by Mr. Quinn for reemployment of other married teachers with husbands in Government employ.

Three annual substitute teachers were appointed on the understanding that their positions might be terminated if married teachers are reinstated. The three are Mrs. A. E. Carver, Miss C. L. Carpenter and Miss F. E. Kennedy.

Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Ballou informed the board that unless enrollment of 21 in the kindergarten at the Johnson School increases this class will be transferred to another school.

School Bars Family.

Strong men may be placed at the doors of the Gage School this morning to prevent David and Barbara Entz from attending class.

H. H. Entz, of Falls Church, Va., who refuses to have the children vaccinated, has been forcing them to go to the school each day. He has argued that school officials can't keep the children away without violating the compulsory attendance law.

School officials learned from the corporation counsel late yesterday that the attendance law can not apply to Mr. Entz because he does not live in the District and that the Entz children can be kept out of school because they are not complying with the vaccination law.

The Entz children were prevented from attending the Thomson School last spring by the posting of men at the doors. The same method probably will be used again, it was learned last night.

Roster Now 80,965.

Eastern continued to lead in high school enrollment with 2,798. Central had 2,496; McKinley, 2,271; Roosevelt, 1,680, and Western, 1,640.
